HEBREW.

PSALMS OF DAVID (FIRST TWELVE) in HEBREW, to which is appended a Hebrew Grammar, by the Rev. W. BAILLIE, LL. D., 8vo. cloth.

BAILLIE'S (Rev. WM.) LL.D. SCHOOL HEBREW GRAMMAR, compiled from the best Authorities, and designed as an Introduction to that Sacred Tongue. 8vo. pp. 112, cloth, lettered, 6s. 6d.

GREEK.

DARLEY'S (Rev. J. R.) GRECIAN DRAMA; being a Treatise on the Dramatic Literature of the Greeks. pp. 570, 8vo. cloth, 12s.

DARLEY'S (Rev. J. R.) TREATISE on HOMER, with Miscellaneous Questions, &c. pp. 166, 12mo. cloth, 5s.

KING'S (Rev. L. W.) ELEMENTS of the GREEK LANGUAGE, comprehending also the Principles and Definitions of Universal Grammar, with a Copious Syntax, &c. pp. 108, 12mo. bound, 2s. 6d.

LATIN.

SCHOOL AND COLLEGE VIRGIL, by R. GALBRAITH, H. OWGAN, &c. &c. Containing the Bucolics, Georgics, and Æneids, complete, with COPIOUS ENGLISH NOTES, one thick volume, 12mo.

A new and enlarged Edition, revised by H. EDWARDES, A. M., T. C. D. The NOTES are extremely COPIOUS, and have been selected with the utmost care. The GEOGRAPHY, HISTORY, CHRONOLOGY, MYTHOLOGY, and ANTIQUITIES, are so fully explained, as to supersede, to a great extent, the necessity of reference to other books. Translations (not too literal), or ordines verborum, of the more difficult sentences are given, and no pains have been spared to render this work adapted to the present advanced state of education. New Edition, nearly ready.

"This is an excellent edition of Virgil. The Prolegomena ably written, and the English notes collected from the most learned Continental commentators and critics, supplying all the information the student can stand in want of. We have not seen a more careful or instructive publication of this class, and we heartily recommend it."—Literary Gazette.

ETON LATIN GRAMMAR, revised and corrected by R. GALBRAITH, T. C. D., Editor of the School Virgil, &c., a new edition, pp. 120, 12mo. bound, 1s. 6d.

In this edition some of the definitions are amended; and carefully selected notes have been added to the declensions, &c. For the Latin rules of the Eton, the excellent syntax of Ruddiman, with additions, has been substituted,—the conciseness and judicious arrangement of which have justly procured for it a preference in most classical schools.

ALVARY'S PROSODIAL RULES, with an Analysis in English, appropriate Examples, and much illustrative matter; to which is appended an Exposition of the Horatian Metres, by the Rev. WM. BAILLIE, LL. D., &c., new edition, 18mo. bound, 1s.

FRENCH.

Just Published, neatly Coloured, Price 2s. 6d.,

COMPLETE TABLES OF THE FRENCH VERBS, regular and irregular, by which the formation of any tense or person required, may be immediately found. By DÉSIRÉ PONTET, ex-Professor of Modern Languages at the Ecole Royale des Mines de Paris, and author of several works on Education.

By the same Author,

FRENCH TEACHER, FIRST SERIES. Being an easy Word and Phrase Book, with literal translation opposite the French. Second part, containing a selection of interesting and amusing Stories, and giving directions where the consonant is to be carried on to the next vowel—where e is silent, and the vowels long or short—difficulties insurmountable to beginners. In 18mo. pp. 104, price 1s.

FRENCH TEACHER, SECOND SERIES : or, L'ECHO DES SALONS, being familiar phrases used daily in polite conversation, with a Dictionary at the end (giving the pronunciation based on English sounds) of all the words and idioms in the work, &c.

ENGLISH.

GREGORY'S ENGINEERING, &c. Being an extensive Treatise on Surveying (including Trigonometrical) and Levelling; with their application to the construction of Common Roads, Rail-Roads, Canals, Harbours, Docks, Tunnels, Viaducts, Aqueducts; improvement of Lakes, Rivers, Bays, &c. by drainage, embankment, and cultivation; to which is prefixed a Treatise on Trigonometry, applicable to the various branches of Engineering, &c. By JOHN GREGORY, Esq. Vol. I. 8vo. cloth, pp. 314, Wood Cuts, &c., 10s. 6d. Vol. II. completing the work, nearly ready.

YOUNG'S PRONOUNCING and ETYMOLOGICAL SPELLING-BOOK, adapted for Junior and Senior Classes, to the purposes of Liberal Education. In which the Principles of Pronunciation and Etymology are gradually developed; and the Greek, Latin, and French Roots of several thousand words added; together with Etymological Exercises, Critical Observations, &c. By TOWNSEND YOUNG, LL.D., 12mo. The First Part, containing the pronouncing spelling, pp. 120, price 1s. bound, or the two parts bound together, 12mo. pp. 168, 1s. 6d.

THE HAND BOOK OF ENGLISH GRAMMAR, comprising in a concise and simple form, the substance of all the most approved English Grammars extant. Also, AN EXTENSIVE GLOSSARY of the principal words made use of in this Treatise, pointing out the roots and meanings of those derived from the Hebrew, Greek, Latin, and French Languages, with a reference to the pages where the words first occur in the Treatise, so as to show their application more clearly, and to supply the student with a selection of Greek and Latin terms, with their meanings in English, that will contribute to render his future introduction to the study of these languages comparatively easy. 18mo. bound, pp. 160, price 1s.

COMPENDIUM OF MODERN GEOGRAPHY, peculiarly adapted to the capacities of Children. By the Rev. EDWARD GROVES. Fourth Edition, considerably enlarged and improved by the introduction of the latest geographical discoveries. In 18mo. price 6d.

ON THE USE AND STUDY OF HISTORY. By W. TORRENS M'CULLAGH, Esq., Barrister at Law. In 8vo. cloth, pp. 336, price 7s. 6d.

"This is no tamely-penned treatise—no cold or cautiously written essay, but the brilliant conversation of a man of thought and feeling, and the friendly outpouring of a philosophic and cultivated mind. The merit of the book is, that it speaks. It is not directed like a set theme to establish any pet principle of the author's, but abounds with manly and rational views of History and Historians, expressed with a hearty fervour, which tells us that the man who speaks is in downright earnest. It gives an appetite for study; it makes us hunger and thirst for the knowledge of history."—Southern Reporter.

ANNO SALUTIS MDCCCXLIII.

PREFACE.

A DESIRE to facilitate the acquisition of the Hebrew Language, which of late years has received the highest attention on the part of the Heads of the University, aided by the munificent donations of the present and previous Primates of all Ireland(a), originated the present Treatise, and a Grammar of the same language, which the Author some time since submitted to the Public. In preparing both for the Press, he has aimed at practical usefulness, and has therefore availed himself of many standard treatises on the subject, most of which could, of late years, be procured by the student, only with much difficulty and expense. Amongst these may be reckoned Bythner, (whose valuable Lyra he has used extensively in this Work); Bishop Hare, Buxtorf, (a) Prizes to Graduates for the encouragement of the study of Hebrew were first instituted by a decree of the Board, dated February 22, 1794, and a fund set apart for the purpose. In the year 1800, this fund was considerably augmented by the munificence of Primate Newcombe, and the grant has been continued by his successors in the See of Armagh to the present day.—University Calendar.

Robertson, Parkhurst, and others, with many modern writers, especially Gesenius, from whose works, too extensive for beginners, he has adopted many instructive observations.

The Author's removal to a distance from Dublin just as the work was ready for publication, induced him to entrust the Manuscript to MR. BENMOHEL of Trinity College, Dublin, to whom he feels indebted for a vigilant superintendence of the Press, and for many interesting and useful observations. It is hoped, therefore, that the work will be found to possess much valuable matter, and a freedom from typographical errors, so perplexing, especially to the Hebrew student, to whom should it prove a desirable assistance, the Author will not regret the time and labour which it has necessarily demanded.

Pecus, et-armenta, universa-ipsa : et-etiam bestias campi. 9. Volatile cœlorum, et-pisces maris : (omne) transiens semitas marium. 10. Yehovah Domine-noster, quàm illustre (est) nomen-tuum in-universâ terrâ!

PSAL. IX.^a

Præcentori super mortem Labbēn canticum Davidi. 2. Celebrabo Yehovam in toto corde meo : narrabo omnia mirabilia-tua. 3. Lætabor, et exultabo in te : canam nomen tuum, Altissime. 4. In revertendo inimicos meos retrorsum : impingent et peribunt a faciebus tuis. 5. Quoniam fecisti iudicium meum, et causam meam : sedisti in solio judicans justitiam. 6. Increpâsti gentes ; perdidisti impium : nomen eorum delēsti in seculum, et sempiternum. 7. Oinimice, consummatæ sunt vastitates in æternum et urbes destruxisti : periit memoria earum ipsis. 8. Et Yehovah in seculum sedebit : paravit ad iudicium solium suum. 9. Et ipse judicabit orbem in justitia : jus dicet populis in rectitudinibus. 10. Et erit Yehovah exaltatio pauperi : exaltatio ad tempora in angustia. 11. Et-sperabunt in te scientes nomen tuum : quia non dereliquisti quærentes te, Yehovah. 12. Cantate Yehovæ habitanti in Sione : annunciate in populis opera ejus. 13. Quoniam quærens sanguines eorum recordatus est : non oblitus est clamoris afflictorum. 14. Miserere mei, Yehovah, vide afflictionem meam ab odientibus me, exaltans me de portis mortis. 15. Ut narrem omnes laudes tuas (vel, omnem laudem tuam) in portis filiæ Sion : exultabo in salute tua. 16. Demersæ sunt gentes in foveam (quam) fecerunt : in reti quod absconderunt, captus est pes eorum. 17. Notus est Yehovah, judicium fecit, in opere volarum suarum illaqueatus est impius : res mēditanda! Selah. 18. Revertentur impii ad sepulchrum : omnes gentes oblitæ Dei. 19. Quoniam non in æternum oblivioni tradetur egenus : expectatio pauperum (non) peribit in perpetuum. 20. Surge Yehovah ne roboretur homo : judicentur gentes coram faciebus tuis. 21. Pone Yehovah timorem super eis ; ut sciant gentes quòd ipsi sint tantum homines. Selah.

PSAL. X.

Quare, Yehovah stabis in longinquo : abscondes te in temporibus in angustia? 2. In superbia impius insequetur afflictum : capiantur in cogitationibus quas excogitaverunt. 3. Quoniam gloriatur improbus super desideriis animæ suæ : et avaro benedixit, exacerbavit Yehovam. 4. Impius secundum fastum nasi sui nequaquam inquires ; Deum non esse, sunt omnes cogitationes ejus. 5. Dolore afficientur viæ ejus in omni tempore, in altitudine sunt judicia tua ex adverso ejus : secundum omnes hostes suos, sufflabit in illos. 6. Dixit in corde suo, non movebor in generationem et generationem, quòd non ero in malo. 7. Execratione os ejus plenum est, et dolis, et fraude; sub lingua ejus perversitas, et iniquitas. 8. Sedebit in insidiis villarum, in latibulis occidet innocentem: oculi ejus contra pauperem delitescunt. 9. Insidiabitur in latibulo, sicut leo in tugurio suo insidiabitur ad rapiendum afflictum: rapiet afflictum in trahendo eum in rete suum. 10. Conteret se, humiliabitur, et cadet in robustis ejus congregatio pauperum. 11. Dixit in corde suo: oblitus est Deus: occultavit vultus ejus, non vidit in æternum. 12. Surge Yehovah, Deus, eleva manum tuam, ne obliviscaris afflictorum. 13. Propter quid irasci fecit impius Deum? dixit in corde suo, non requires. 14. Vidisti quippe tu perversitatem et iram respicies; ad rependendum est in manu tuâ, super te relinquet se pauper. pupillo tu fuisti adjutor. 15. Contere brachium impii, et mali, quæres impietatem ejus usquedum non invenies. 16. Yehovah rex in seculum et æternum: perierunt gentes de terra ejus. 17. Desiderium mansuetorum audies Yehovah: stabilies cor eorum, attendere-facies aurem tuam. 18. Ad iudicandum pupillum, et tenuem, ne addat (pergat) ultrà ad conterendum homo de terra (terrenus.)

PSAL. XI.

1. Præcentori, Davidi. In Yehovah speravi, quomodo dicetis animæ meæ, fuge ad montem, O avicula. 2. Quoniam, ecce, impii intendent arcum, paraverunt sagittam suam super nervum, ad jaculandum in caligine in rectos corde. 3. Quum fundamenta destruentur, justus quid faciet? 4. Yehovah est in templo sanctitatis suæ ; Yehovah, in cælis est solium ejus : oculi ejus intuentur, palpebræ ejus probabunt filios hominis. 5. Yehovah justum probabit ; impium ac diligentem iniquitatem odit anima ejus. 6. Pluet super impios laqueos, ignem, et sulphur : et ventus procellarum erit portio calicis eorum. 7. Quoniam justus Yehovah justitias diligit : rectum intuetur vultus ejus.

PSAL. XII.

1. Præcentori super octavam canticum Davidi. 2. Serva me, Yehovah, quoniam defecit misericors ; quoniam desierunt fideles a filiis hominis. 3. Mendacium locuti sunt, quisque cum proximo suo ; labio blanditiarum in corde et corde, (i. e. duplici corde) loquuntur. 4. Exscindit Yehovah omnia labia blanditiarum, linguam loquentem magna. 5. Qui dicunt, linguâ nostrâ prævalebimus ; labia nostra nobiscum ; quis est dominus nobis ? 6. Propter vastitatem pauperum, propter gemitum egenorum, nunc surgam, dixit Yehovah ; ponam in salute a laqueis quos injecerat illi. 7. Verba Yehovæ sunt verba pura, sicut argentum excoctum in catino super terram (vel, terreno), defæcatum septies. 8. Tu, Yehovah, custodies eos, servabis eum a generatione hac in seculum. 9. Circumquaque impii obambulant, quum exaltatur vilitas filiorum hominis.

PRAXIS.

PSALMUS I. א.

The first Psalm, with interlineary Pronunciation, Latin and English Version, and grammatical Praxis.

הֵלֵךְ halak ambulavit hath-walked	לֹא lo non not	אֲשֶׁר asher qui who	הָאִישׁ haish illius viri ille vir of that man	אֲשֶׁרִי Ver. 1. ashree O beatitudines (est) beatus vel oh the blessedness
לֹא lo non not	חַטָּאִים chattaim peccatorum of sinners	וּבִדְרֵךְ oo-bhe-dherek et in viâ and in the way	רְשָׁעִים reshahim improborum of the ungodly	בַּעֲצָת bahatsath in-consilio in the counsel
יָשָׁב yashabh sedit hath-sat	לֹא lo non not	לְצִיִּם lêtsim derisorum of-scorners	וּבִמְשָׁב oo-bhe-moshabh et-in-sede and in the seat	עָמַד gnamad stetit hath-stood

[No. 1.] אֲשֶׁרִי (ash-ré) beatitudines, or adjectively beatus; rendered by the LXXII. interpreters μακάριος, and by the Jewish Targum טַיִבִּיָּה, the blessedness of him. A noun pl. mas. without a singular and also in Regimen. It is read twenty-six times in the Psalms, and of these only once with an affix, Ps. cxxviii. 2, אֲשֶׁרִיךָ, beatitudines tuæ, i. e. beatus tu (eris). It may also be explained adverbially, bene, beatè, feliciter, “oh, how happily shall he live!” It is elegantly used with an ellipsis of the following noun in Ps. lxxv. 5. אֲשֶׁרִי הַבָּחַר, beatus ille quem elegeris. Its root is אֲשַׁר, beate incessit, recto pede ambulavit, and is therefore synonymous with יָשַׁר, rectus fuit, he was upright, the letters א and י being interchanged. The accent to the left hand is Munach, a conjunctive, preceded by an ancient accent which the Jewish grammarians did not term Metheg but גְּעִיָּא, mugitus, or elevation of voice, as it occurs (else) only at the beginning of a word, from גְּעִה, mugio. Vid. Job, vi. 5.

[2.] הָאִישׁ (ha-ish) illius viri. אִישׁ, vir, an honourable man, or man in general, as in 1 Chr. xvi. 21, non permisit, לְאִישׁ, viro, to hurt them; whereas in the parallel passage, Ps. cv. 14, the word אָדָם, Adam, is used. It likewise signifies every one, quilibet, as in Ps. xii. 3, loquuntur vanitatem, אִישׁ, vir, that is, quilibet. In Ps. xlix. 3, it signifies an illustrious person, גַּם בְּנֵי־אָדָם גַּם בְּנֵי־אִישׁ as well the sons of Adam, as the sons of Ish, i. e. low and high. In Gen. iii. 6, לְאִישָׁהּ, marito suo, with ל the dative prefix. Its plural אִישִׁים occurs three times only, but its general plural אֲנָשִׁים supposes a sing. אִנָּשׁ (analogous to חֵין from חָנַן, פִּים from פָּנָה, &c.), hence its fem. with dagesh אִשָּׁה of which the pl. (אִשָּׁה) occurs only Ez. xxiii. 44.) נָשִׁים. The accent is Rebhia, a disjunctive.

[3.] אֲשֶׁר (ashér) qui. A pronoun relative, indeclinable, qui, quæ, quod: and sometimes a conjunction, quoniam, quòd, ut. Buxtorf assigns it to the root אֲשַׁר, incessit. Its synonymous particles are הַ and שׁ. The relative הַ is always used in the nominative case; not so אֲשֶׁר and שׁ. Some considering שׁ as an abbreviation of אֲשֶׁר, reject the genitive case of pronouns, which they regard as compounds of שׁ and their datives; as, שְׁלִי, i. e. שׁ for אֲשֶׁר and לִי, quod (est) mihi, &c., Vid. Heb. Gr. p. 18. אֲשֶׁר is found in the Psalms with two prefixes, וְאֲשֶׁר, et quod or et qui, and כְּאֲשֶׁר, secundum quod. Accent, Mapahh, a conjunctive, followed by Pesick.

[4.] לֹא (lo) non. An adverb of negation or forbidding when joined to verbs. בְּלֹא, with not (compare the English without), acts as a preposition before substantives; sine, absque, as in Ps. xvii. 1, בְּלֹא שִׁפְתֵי מֶרְמָחָה, in non labiis, i. e. absque labiis doli. It occurs only thirty-five times in Scripture with ו intermediate, thus לֹא־ו, and is found in the Psalms with four prefixes, as וְלֹא, quod non; with ה interrogative, as הֲלֹא, an non? וְלֹא, et non, and בְּלֹא in non. The similarity of sound in לֹא, non, and לוֹ, illi, has probably led to the discrepancy of MSS. in Is. ix. 3, one person, perhaps, reading aloud as another wrote down. The accent is Merca, a conjunctive.

[5.] הִלְכֶּה (ha-lákh) ambulavit, ivit, incessit. It is used metaphorically of life, morals, and actions. The following persons of the Præter of Kal are found in the Psalms. הִלְכֶּה, ambulavit, חִלְכֶּתִי, ambulavi, חִלְכוּ, exiverunt: and in a pause (:) is changed into (ר) as חִלְכוּ, ambulârunt, Ps. cxix. 3. The accent of הִלְכֶּה is Sarka, disjunctive, (vid. Accents, Nos. 13 and 31) not conjunctive, as it is postpositive.

[6.] בַּעֲצָתָא (ba-hatsáth), in consilio. From יַעֲצָה, consuluit, comes the noun fem. עֲצָה, consilium, which implies as well the counsel adopted as the measure when executed. The termination ה is changed into ת in regimen, (·) into (:) and under the guttural into (·-) by which the word becomes עֲצָתָא, consilium. In the Pss. it is found with two præfixes, וְ, et, and בְּ, in, which have (·) under them on account of the following (·-). Its plural is עֲצוֹת and מַעֲצוֹת, consilia; the former occurs only three times in Scripture. The accent is Yerach, a conjunctive, preceded by Metheg, which enables the short vowel to form a simple syllable.

[7.] רִשְׁעִים (reshakām) improborum. From רָשַׁע, condemnare, in- justum comprobare. A forensic term, the opposite of which is צִדֵּק, justificare. The original meaning is inquietum esse, to be restless, as in Is. lvii. 20: "The wicked are like the troubled sea," &c., because an accusing conscience alloweth no rest to mind or body. The noun רָשַׁע is rendered by the LXXII., ἀσεβής, improbus, inquietus, turbidus. With prefixes it is thus read, מְרָשַׁע, ab improbo, הָרָשַׁע, ille improbus, וְרָשַׁע, et improbus, לְרָשַׁע, isti improbo, (ח emphatic being implied), וּלְרָשַׁע, et isti improbo. In the plural (י) being changed into (י) it becomes רָשָׁעִים, impīi, and takes the same prefixes. In Regimen, the termination ים becomes י, (י) is changed into (י) and the prior (י) into (י) which gives רָשָׁעִי impīi, Ps. lxxv. 9. The accent to the left being Merca, and the other Mahpahh, the compound accent is termed Merca-Mahpahh. Vid. Accents, No. 3.

[8.] וּבִדְרֶךָ (oo-bhe-dhérek) et in viâ. From דָּרַךְ, calcavit, comes דֶּרֶךְ viâ, com. gen. also, mos, consuetudo, studium, which are metaphorically the ways of men. In a pause, the former (י) being changed into (י) it is דָּרַךְ. With prefixes, מִדְּרֶךְ, a viâ, or propter viam; בִּדְרֶךְ in viâ, but בִּדְרֶךְ in hac viâ, ח emphatic being omitted. In the form וּבִדְרֶךְ, et in viâ, ו is changed into ו because of the following labial ב. Accent, Munach, a conjunctive.

[9.] חַטָּאִים (chattáim) peccatorum. From חָטָא, peccare, a scopo aberrare, a noun plural masculine without a singular, deduced from the conjugation Pihel, and therefore signifying intensity and habit. חַטָּאִים therefore means habitual transgressors, in any duties, but especially religious ones. It is found in the Psalms with one prefix, (see verse 5.) The accent is Tiphkha anticus, a disjunctive and prapositive.

[10.] עֲמֵד (gnamad) stetit. Præt. of Kal, which is thus declined in the Ps. עֲמֵד stetit, vel ab opere destitit, and in a pause (י) is changed into (ַ) thus, עמד (gnamād). The fem. is עמדה stetit illa, עמדו, steterunt, and in a pause עמדו (:) being changed into (ַ). In לא עמד, the accent is Merca, a conjunctive, followed by Athnach, a disjunctive, or pause of the first class.

[11.] ובמושב (oo-bhe-mosháb), et in sede. From ישב, sedit. An hecmanitic noun masc. ו being changed into ו, מושב, sedes, a place in which one sits, remains, or abides, as a house, city, seat, &c.; hence in Ps. cvii. 4, עיר מושב, civitas habitationis, i.e., a habitable city. With præfixes למושב, in habitationem, ובמושב, et in consessu, (which the Targum renders ובסיעת, et in societate.) The final (ַ) being changed into (-) in regimen.

[13.] ישב (yashábh) sedit, for an indefinite time; also habitavit. Præt. Kal. is ישב, but in a pause ישב; 2nd person, ישבת, sedisti; 1st person, ישבתי, sedi; ישבו, sederunt, habitârunt, and in Ps. lxi. 36, with ו conversive of the Præter, וישבו, et habitabunt; also 1st person plural ישבנו, sedimus. לא ישב. Accents, Munach a conjunctive, followed by Sylluk, the greatest disjunctive, with Sophpasuk.

Note on Vau conversive.—In a continued sentence, one time is generally carried through the whole period. Therefore if a future precede, and a præter follow, that præter must be rendered by a future time, and vice versâ, as in Ps. i. 2, 3, יהגה (yehge) meditabitur, והיה (ve-haja), et erit, properly fuit. Vid. Gr. ch. 9, 4.

[14.] אִם וְכִי (kee-im) sed, quod si; quia certe, Buxt. כִּי, quia quoniam, Ps. i. 6; cum, quando, Ps. ii. 12; quamvis, Ps. xxv. 11; etsi, Ps. xli. 5. With a præfix וְכִי, et cum, Ps. cxx. 7. אִם is conditional, si, Ps. vii. 4. These two words אִם וְכִי are either disjunctive, quod si, nam si; or adversative, sed. A short perpendicular line called pesick (pausula) is placed between them, and refers to music. The accents are Mahpahh, a conjunctive, here a small disjunctive, and Tiphhha, a disjunctive.

[15.] בְּתוֹרַת (be-thorāth) in lege. From יָרָה, jecit, projecit, in Hiphil. הוֹרָה docuit, instituit: תּוֹרָה, doctrina, is an heemantic noun fem. signifies the learning in which any person is instructed as it were by the utterance (jactatione) of words. Hence, a law, whereby rectitude is inculcated. The final הָ being changed into תָּ in regimen, it becomes תּוֹרָה lex, and with the præfix בְּ, in בְּתוֹרַת in lege. Accented with Merca, a conjunctive.

[16.] יְהוָה (Yehova) Yehovæ. An heemantic noun formed by (י) (as proper names, such as Isaac, Jacob, &c., usually are in Hebrew) from הוּה, or rather הִיה, fuit, as the letters ו and י are readily interchanged. The accent is Rebhia, a lesser disjunctive. This is the sacred name of God, derived from his essential character of self-existence, as implied in Exod. iii. 14, אֶהְיֶה אֲשֶׁר אֶהְיֶה ero qui ero, wherein the future, according to the genius of this language, implies perpetuity, including the consideration of the past and present. The LXXII. render it ἐγώ εἰμι ὁ ὢν, ego sum ille qui est: where the participle ὢν, in Latin ens, expresses existence, and thereby marks the distinction from idols, which non sunt, do not exist of themselves; or YEHOVA may mean the “foundation of Being,” because everlasting existence is a peculiar quality of Him alone, and by Him all things originate and exist. Many suppose that the Gentiles (traditionally) derived the name Jove from this sacred name, as the Greeks are found to have formed the name Ζεύς from ζῶν life; implying that their supreme being was the fountain of life. But when the word אֱלֹהִי precedes or follows יְהוָה, the latter is pointed thus, יְהוֹה according to the punctuation of אֱלֹהִים, Elohim, in which form it is read in Ps. lxi. 7; lxxi. 5; cix. 21; cxl. 8; cxli. 8.

On the name יְהוָה the learned Dr. Hales (Chron. vol. iii.) makes the following observation: “The true ancient pronunciation of this glorious and awful name was lost by the superstitious scruples of the Jews to utter it, perverting the meaning of Deut. xxviii. 58, and substituting for it Jehovah, formed by the vowels of Elohim. But the primitive pronunciation has been fortunately preserved in several of the heathen classics, according to the pronunciation of those foreigners who had early intercourse with the Israelites, and afterwards with the Jews. Thus the Clarian Oracle (founded before the Trojan war), in answer to the inquiry, “Which of the Gods is he to be reckoned, who is called ΙΑΩ?” uttered a remarkable response, preserved by Macrobius, of which this is a part:

Φράζεο τὸν πάντων ὑπατον Θεὸν ἕμμεν' ΙΑΩ.

“Learn that the God supreme of all is ΙΑΩ.”

[17.] חֶפְצִי (chephtso) oblectatio ejus. From חָפֵץ, voluit, is formed the noun radical of five points חפץ, voluntas, complacentia, &c., signifying any inclination or propensity; in the Psalms it is found with three præfixes, on account of which (·) penult becomes (:), (·) in the ult. syllable becomes (:), and from the former (:) comes (·). Hence חפצִי, oblectatio mea. חפצֵּו, oblectatio ejus, which the LXXII. render τὸ θέλημα αὐτοῦ, voluntas ejus; חפצֵּם, oblectatio eorum. The accent is Merca Mahpahl, a composite accent, a pause or disjunctive of the first class.

[18.] וּבְתוֹרָתוֹ (oo-bhe-thorath-o) et in lege ejus. תּוֹרָה, lex (vide Num. 15) with affixes changes ח into ת. Hence תּוֹרָתִי, lex mea; תּוֹרָתְךָ, lex tua. In a pause (:) being changed into (·) thus תּוֹרָתְךָ. With præfixes; מִתּוֹרָתְךָ, de lege tuâ, and in a pause, מִתּוֹרָתְךָ (as before), וּתּוֹרָתְךָ, et lex tua, כִּתּוֹרָתְךָ, secundum legem tuam. With two præfixes וּבְתוֹרָתוֹ, et in lege ejus, וּמִתּוֹרָתְךָ, et de lege tuâ. In the plural it forms תּוֹרוֹת, from whence with præfix and affix וּתּוֹרוֹתָיו, et lege ejus, Ps. civ. 45. Accents, Metheg in the third syllable, followed by Merca, a conjunctive.

[19.] יִהְיֶה (yehge) meditabitur. From הָגָה, which in its primary signification means auferre, remove. When referred to internal feeling, it denotes that impulse of the mind which we, as it were, remove from within, when we give it utterance; and since it does not exclusively signify articulate speech, it is also applied to doves and lions, who are said gemere, and rugire. יִהְיֶה is the Fut. Kal, which is thus declined. אֶהְיֶה, meditabor, with dagesh lene (ה being quiescent in (·)) יִהְיֶה, meditabitur, masculine for יִהְיֶה, and thus in the fem. תִּהְיֶה, meditabitur, scil. lingua, Ps. xxxv. 28; in plural יִהְיֶי, meditabuntur. Targum מְרַנְנִין, clamant, likewise mussitabunt, Ps. cxv. 7, (for יִהְיֶי) ה being excluded. The accent is Rebhia-Geresh, a lesser disjunctive. Vid. Accents, No. 11.

[20.] יוֹמָם (yomám) interdiu. יוֹם, dies, the day, as well natural as artificial; and with ם heman. יוֹמָם, interdiu, as if מִיוֹם, de die, that is, always, whensoever disengaged from business. Accent, Merca, a conjunctive.

[21.] וּלְיָלָה (va-láila) et noctu. לַיַּל, nox, in which beasts howl, borrows its signification from יִלֵּל, ululavit. A heteroclite noun, being masculine in the singular, and feminine (as to the form) in the plural. With הָ, which is only ornamental, it becomes לַיְלָה, the (·) under י being changed into (:), the accent being preserved on the penultima. And in a pause לַיְלָה, (-) being changed into (ַ). In the plural, by a crasis or mixture of vowels, it is לַיְלֹת, noctes, and with a præfix בַּלַּיְלֹת, in ipsis noctibus, (הָ emphatic being excluded,) Ps. xcii. 3. The accent is Sylluk, followed by Soph Pasuk.

[22.] וְהָיָה (ve-haya) et erit. The 3rd person sing. masc. præter. Kal. with ו conversive of præter. into fut. and is thus declined: הָיָה, fuit, wherein ה is quiescent in (ַ), וְהָיָה, qui fuit, Ps. cxxiv. 1, with ש relative, וְהָיָה, et erit, with the royal accent Rebhia, הָיְתָה, fuit illa, ה being changed into ת; הָיִיתָ, fuisti, ה being changed into י quiescent, הָיִיתִי, fui, and הָיִינוּ, fuimus. But in the 3rd person plural ה is cast away before ה, and it becomes הִי for הָיָה, fuērunt, which added to participles denotes the præterimperfect and implies perseverance; as עֲמֻדֹת הִי, erant stantes, our feet were standing, i. e. stood, stabant. Ps. cxxii. 2, and thus in the N. T., Matt. vii. 29, ἤ ἐγείρετο βαπτίζων; and Mar. i. 4, ἐγείρετο βαπτίζων. Accent, Rebhia, a disjunctive.

[23.] כַּעֲצֵץ (keheetz) sicut arbor, עֵץ, properly lignum. It is said of wood both hewn and planted, except in its more tender state. With כ the mark of similitude, in which is inserted dagesh lene after a quiescent marked with a royal accent. Targ. כַּאֲיֶלֶן, sicut arbor. In the plural עֲצֵיִם, ligna; and in regimen ים changed into י, and (ִ) into comp. sheva, it becomes עֲצֵי יַעַר, ligna sylvæ, logs of the wood, i. e. sterile trees, Ps. xcvi. 12; also in Ps. civ. 16, we meet עֲצֵי יְהוָה, ligna Domini, trees of the Lord, or as the Targum explains it, trees of natural production. Accent, Zarka, a disjunctive.

[24.] שָׁתוּל (sha-thoól) plantata. The participle pahul of Kal. from שָׁתַל, plantavit. Not found with prose writers, but only here and Ps. xcii. 14, also in Hos. ix. and in Ez. xvii. and xix. נֹטַע, its general equivalent is used, by way of metaphor, also of fixing nails, a tent, a nation, and the heavens, and in Ps. xciv. 9, of the deeply-seated position of the ear. Accent, Yerach or Yareach ben-yomo, a conjunctive.

[25.] עַל- (gnal) juxta. A preposition, which, as the sentence requires, means super, supra, juxta, contra, apud, ad, versus, in, and propter. From עָלָה, ascendit. It sometimes assumes י in the form of a plural noun in regimen; thus עָלִי, super, Ps. xxxii. 5. With prefixes, וְעָל and וְעָלִי, et super; also בְּעָל, sicut super, Ps. cxix. 14.

[26.] פַּלְגֵי (palghe) rivos. From פָּלַג, divisit, comes the noun of six points, פַּלֶּג, divisio, rivus, fluvius, either because it is separated from the fountain, or because it divides the land; from this word comes the Greek πέλαγος, and the Latin pelagus. In the plural the former (·) being changed into (:) and the latter into (τ), it becomes פַּלְגִים, divisiones, also rivi. With an affix, פַּלְגֵי, rivi ejus. In regimen (τ) being changed into (:), and the previous (:) into (-), it becomes פַּלְגֵי, which the Septuagint render διεξοδους, decursus. Where note, that dagesh lene is here omitted in the letter ג after sheva quiescent, since this is always absent from the letters begadhephath, when the preceding sheva quiescent has sprung from a long vowel.

[27.] מַיִם (má-yim) aquarum. מַיִם, aqua, and aquæ, has no singular. The dual form denotes the higher waters in the heavens, and the lower in the earth, separated by the intervening atmosphere. In a pause it is written מֵיִם. In regimen מֵי, as in Gen. vii. 7, and in Ex. vii. 19, מֵיִם. With prefixes, הַמַּיִם, istæ aquæ, viz., the clouds, Ps. civ. 6. בַּמַּיִם, sicut istæ aquæ, denoting copiousness, Ps. xxii. 15. בַּמַּיִם, in aquis, Ps. civ. 3. Eripe me, מִבַּמַּיִם, ex aquis, i. e. from enemies. Accent, Merca Mapach, viz. מַיִם.

[28.] פִּרְיִי (pir-yó) fructum suum. From פָּרַח, fructificavit, by changing ה into י comes פִּרְיִי, fructus, a noun masculine without a plural, the fruit of the earth, a tree, or the womb. Hence Ps. cxxvii. 3. פִּרְיִי הַבֶּטֶן, fructus ventris. By metaphor, it means a reward, as in Ps. lvi. 12. אֶת־פִּרְיִי לַצֶּדִּיק, certe fructus, i. e. præmium (est) justo. Targum אֲגֵר טַב, merces bona. With a prefix, מִפְּרִי, de fructu, i. e. pluvia, Ps. civ. 13. With affixes, the latter (·) being changed into (:), and the previous (:) into (·), it forms פְּרִי, fructus ejus, and פְּרִימוֹ, fructus eorum, Ps. xxi. 11. Targ. פְּנִיָּהֶם, fili ipsorum. Accents of אֲשֶׁר פְּרִי, Mahpahh, a conjunctive, and Pashta, a lesser disjunctive.

[29.] יִתֵּן (yit-tén) dabit, shall give. The 3rd person singular, fut. Kal, from נָתַן, dedit, posuit, tradidit, נ being changed into dagesh. It is thus declined אֶתֵּן, dabo, תִּתֵּן, dabis, יִתֵּן and תִּתֵּן, dabit, יִתְּנוּ, dabunt. With Maccaph, (·) being shortened into (·) it becomes תִּתֵּן, dabis, יִתֵּן, dabit. With ו copulative, וַיִּתֵּן, et dabit, and with ו conversive fut. וַתִּתֵּן, et dedisti, וַיִּתֵּן, et posuit, וַיִּתְּנוּ, et dederunt. But this verb נָתַן, when לֹא, non, precedes and an infinitive follows, signifies concessit, permisit, &c., as לֹא תִתֵּן, non dabis, sanctum tuum, לְרֹאוֹת, ad videndum foveam, i. e. thou wilt not suffer, &c., Ps. xvi. 10, and in Ps. xiv. 7, מִי יִתֵּן, quis dabit? is equivalent to vellem utinam, (see Gram. ch. 7, §. 7 and 10). Accent, Munach superius. Vid. Accents, No. 21.

[30.] בְּעִתּוֹ (behit-tó) in tempore suo. From עָדָה, transivit, a noun עֵדָה, is contracted into עֵת (so we find לֵת instead of לְדֵת), tempus. With prefixes, בְּעֵת and לְעֵת, in tempore. With affixes and in the plural it takes dagesh to compensate the loss of the ד, and changes (·) into (·). Hence in the singular בְּעִתּוֹ. In Ps. lxxxi. 16, עֵתָם, tempus eorum, means their punishment. עֵת is found in the Bible with both masc. and fem. plur., but the latter only in the Psalms. Thus עֵתוֹת, tempora, with ל is, לְעֵתוֹת, in temporibus, i. e. in calamities, Ps. ix. 10. With an affix עֵתוֹתִי, tempora mea, Ps. xxxi. 16, mean my afflictions. This the LXXII. render καὶροὶ μου, sortes meæ, but it should probably be καιροὶ μου, my opportunities. The masc. plur. is עֵתִים, and in regimen עֵתַי, hence with the affix יִרְ, ār, it forms עֲתָיו, his times, dagesh being assumed as above to compensate for the lost letter. Hence, also comes the adverbial particle עֲתָה, nunc, jam, &c. Accent, Rebhia.

[31.] וְעֹלָהּ (veha-lé-hoo) et folium ejus. From עָלָה, ascendit, comes עֹלָה, folium, from its ascending quality, and means the highest part of the tree by which the fruit is protected. With the affix ה, the radical ה is removed, and hence the word is וְעֹלָהּ for וְעֹלָהּהּ. Hence the particle עַל, upon, above, against, as עָלַי, against me, עָלָיו, over him, &c. Hence, also, the glorious name of God עֲלִיּוֹן, Ps. ix. 3. O thou most High! Also עֲלִיָּה, an upper room, and in the plural עֲלִיּוֹת, and in Ps. civ. 3. עֲלִיּוֹתָיו, gnāliyothav, his upper chambers, i. e. the clouds. Accent, Merca.

[32.] לֹא־יָבֹל (lo-yib-bōl) non marcescet. From נָבַל, marcuit, aruit, to dry up through heat or cold; properly said of leaves, flowers, or fruits, which fall off when they have lost their moisture. יָבֹל, is the Fut. of Kal for יִנָּבֹל, nun lost being compensated by dagesh. It is found in the Psalms in the 3rd person only, and in the plural יִבְלוּ, emarcescent. Targum יִסְבִּיפִין, consumuntur, and by the Septuagint ἡπαλαιώθησαν, inveterati sunt, which shows that they read it יִבְלִי without dagesh, and took it from בָּלָה, he waxed old. It is found with ך paragogic יִבְלוּךְ; in both examples ך being used for (:) on account of the pause. Accent, Athnac, a pause.

but if it be joined to a plural it means omnes, omnia, &c. With prefixes מִכָּל, ab omni; הַכָּל, universum illud, universitas; וְכָל, et omne; לְכָל, omni; וּלְכָל, et omnibus; בְּכָל, in omni. And הָ being excluded, בְּכָל, in hoc universo; לְכָל, huic universo. Hence with the fem. affix הָ is formed כָּלָה, all of it, fem. So כָּלוּ, all of him, כָּלָם, all of them, כָּלְכֶם, all of you, &c. Accent, Tiphca, a disjunctive.

[34.] יַעֲשֶׂה (ya-hasé) faciet. The fut. of Kal from עָשָׂה, fecit. It is declined similarly to No. 19. אֶעֱשֶׂה, faciam, i. e. offeram bovem, (as Virgil also uses the verb facio), תַּעֲשֶׂה, facies, יַעֲשֶׂה, faciet, תַּעֲשֶׂה, faciet illa. In the plural by elision of הָ, יַעֲשׂוּ, facient, and with ו conversive וַיַּעֲשׂוּ, et fecerunt. In all which it is to be observed, that the first radical letter (ע) takes a compound sheva, viz., in the first person (·:), and in the rest (-:), and points the preceding servile with the similar short point, (vid. Gram. ch. X. ii. 3., “A compound sheva, &c.”) Accents, Metheg followed by Munach.

[35.] יִצְלִיחַ (yats-liahh) prosperabitur, i. e. whatsoever that man shall do shall prosper. From צָלַח, felix, prosper fuit, comes יִצְלִיחַ, the 3rd pers. sing. fut. Hiph, with patach furtive. The Targum reads, “and every germ of it מְגַרְגֵּר, bears seed, וּמִצְלַח and produces.” Accents, Sylluk before Soph Pasuk.

אֲשֶׁר	כִּי אִם-כַּפֹּץ	הָרָשָׁעִים	לֹא-יִכֶן V. 4.

which	but truly as the chaff	the wicked	not so

רוּחַ	תִּדְפֶּנּוּ

[36.] לֹא-יִכֶן lo-chēn) non sic. For לֹא, non, vid. No. 4. From כִּן, firmum, rectum, bonum, aptum esse, comes כִּן, aptum, &c., but is more frequently used as an adverb of affirmation, sic, ita, &c., qu. aptè, commodè. Accents, Merca, preceded by Metheg, the two words being considered as one because of Maccaph.

[37.] הַרְשָׁעִים (ha-resha-him) illi improbi. See above No. 7, הַרְשָׁעִים emphatic before ר takes (ר), see No. 2. Accents, Athnac preceded by Metheg.

[38.] כַּמּוֹץ (cam-mots) sicut hæc gluma. מוֹץ, a noun masc. without plur. met with but eight times in the whole Scriptures. Its etymology is unknown. In Latin it means gluma, palea, i. e. chaff. In the Septuagint καὶ σῦς, pulvis. It seems to have an affinity to מַצָּה (matsah) expressit, as the grain is pressed out of the chaff. It is found in the Psalm twice with a prefix, viz. כַּמּוֹץ, sicut palea. Ps. xxxv. 5, and כַּמּוֹץ, sicut hæc palea (הַ emph. being excluded). The accents of כַּמּוֹץ אֶפְרַיִם are Merca, a conjunctive; and Geresh, a lesser disjunctive, followed by Rebhiā, which two form a composite accent.

[39.] אֲשֶׁר־תִּדְּפֶנּוּ (asher-tiddephénnoo) quam dispellet illam. From בָּרַף, propulit, impulit, dispulit. It is properly said of the wind which hurries along what it hath caught up. The Fut. of Kal occurs twice in the Psalm and in two forms, viz., regularly, as תִּבְדֹּף, dispelles, Ps. lxxviii. 3 (where it is elegantly referred to God), and irregularly, as תִּדְּפֶנּוּ, propellet eam, wherein נ radical is changed into dagesh, and ו changes into (:) on account of the affix פִּי; the pleonasm, quam dispelles eam, is to be observed, as it is generally used when the pronoun אֲשֶׁר is used in an oblique case. A similar passage occurs in the N. T. in 1 Pet. ii. 24, οὗ τῷ μώλωπι αὐτοῦ ἰάσῃται, cujus vibice ejus sanati estis, (vid. Gram. Affixes of Verbs). Accent, Merca.

[40.] רוּחַ (ruách) ventus. The LXX. add, “from the face of the earth,” also the Arabic Psalter. A noun of the com. gen. from רוּחַ, respiravit. It is said of things which are moved without being visible, as the spirit, soul, wind, air, and the affections of the mind, as in Ps. lxxvi. 13. “He will cut short the spirit of the nobles,” Targum, “he will diminish רוחיהון גִּפְּוֹת the grossness of their spirits,” i. e. their pride, &c. It is read in the Psalm with three prefixes, בְּרוּחַ, in vento; מִרוּחַ, a vento; וּבְרוּחַ, et in vento. But with affixes patach furtivum vanishes, as רוּחִי, spiritus meus; רוּחָךְ, tuus; רוּחוֹ, ejus; רוּחָם, eorum; בְּרוּחוֹ, in animo ejus; מִרוּחָךְ, a spiritu tuo, with (ו) on account of the pause. In the plural רוּחוֹת. Vid. Gram. Accent, Silluk.

בַּמִּשְׁפָּט bammishpat in judicio in the judgment	רְשָׁעִים reshāhim impīi the ungodly	לֹא־יָקֻמוּ yakūmoo-lo non surgent shall not arise	וְעַל־כֵּן V. 5. kēn-gnal idcirco therefore
	צַדִּיקִים tsaddikim justorum of the just	בְּעֵדָת baādath in cœtu in the congregation	וְחַטָּאִים vechattāim et peccatores and sinners

[41.] עַל־כֵּן ו (gnal-kēn) idcirco. Properly juxta sic, or ob ita; being the same as לְכֵן, ideo, idcirco. Accent, Mahpahh, a conjunctive, here used as a disjunctive, and hence followed by Pesik.

[42.] יָקֻמוּ (yakūmoo) non surgent, i. e. they shall not stand, they shall fall. Targum יִזְכָּוּ, they shall (not) be justified. From קָוָה, surgere, stare, consistere: Fut. Kal, wherein the second radical ו quiesces in ה, and the preformative letters take (ו). It is thus declined in the Psalms אֶקְוֶה, surgam; תִּקְוֶה, surges; יִקְוֶה, surget, stabit; תִּקְוֶה, exurget illa; יִקְוֶה, surgent; and with (ו) in place of ה, יִקְוֶה with nun parag. and (ו) changed into (ו), it becomes יִקְוֶה, insurrexerunt, Ps. xxxv. 11. For the remainder of this verb vid. Paradigm in Gram. p. 84. Accent, Munach, a conjunctive; and that of רְשָׁעִים, is Tiphcha antierius, a disjunctive and prepositive.

[43.] בַּמִּשְׁפָּט (bam-mish-pát) in isto iudicio. Targ. בְּיוֹם דִּינָא רַבָּא, in die iudicii magni. From שָׁפַט, judicavit. A noun masculine heemantic מִשְׁפָּט, iudicium, taken either in an active or passive sense. Actively, it signifies morality, reverence for the law, statute, custom, innocency of life. Passively, when any one is in fact absolved, condemned, or suffers punishment. It is read in the Psalms with the prefixes, ו, et, ב, in, ל, ad, כ, secundum. And ה emphatic being excluded, לַמִּשְׁפָּט, in iudicio, לְמִשְׁפָּט, ad iudicium. With affixes, מִשְׁפָּטִי, iudicium meum, (and with ל, ad,) also בַּמִּשְׁפָּטִי, secundum statutum tuum. With affixes, casting away ים, it makes מִשְׁפָּטֶיךָ, judicia tua, and preceded by ל, ad statuta tua; also preceded by ו and מ, וּמִשְׁפָּטֶיךָ, et a iudiciis tuis. In regimen (י) being changed into (:), it makes וּמִשְׁפָּטֶיךָ, et iudicia. Accent, Athnach.

[44.] רְחֹטְאִים (ve-chatta'im) et peccatores. Vid. supra, No. 9. Accent, Rebhia Geresh, a composite accent, with Geresh præpositive.

[45.] בַּעֲדָתָא (ba-hadáth) in cætu. It is formed as בַּעֲצָתָא in No. 6. From יַעֲדָה, constituit, he appointed a certain time or place, comes the noun feminine without a plural. עֲדָה, conventus, a meeting at a fixed time and place, ecclesia, &c. In regimen it changes ה into ת, עֲדָתָא, cætus, preceded by ו, et, and ב, in. The LXX., ἐν βουλῇ in concilio. The Targum בְּסִיעָתָא, in societate. With affixes, עֲדָתְךָ, cætus tuus, בַּעֲדָתָם, in cætu eorum. עֲדָה, a testimony, has a plural, עֲדוֹת, and is derived from עָדָה, which is used only in Hiph עֲדִיד, he attested. Accent, Merca, after Metheg.

[46.] צְדִיקִים (tsad-di-kím) justorum. From צָדַק, justificavit. A noun masculine derived from Pihel. He is called צְדִיק, justus, who is absolved from all charges. It is therefore, applied to speech in the sense fidelis, verax. Hence the Sadducees derived their name, they being self-righteous, or from the personal name צִדְקָה; see Schleusner, Lex. in N. T. With prefixes, וְצַדִּיק, et justus, לְצַדִּיק, huic justo, ה, emphatic being omitted. In the plural צַדִּיקִים, justi, veraces, is found preceded by ה, isti, and ו, et. Hence צִדְקָה, righteousness, and preceded by מֶלֶךְ, a king, is formed the name מֶלֶךְ־צִדְקָה, Melchizedek. Accent, Sylluk.

[47.] יֹדַע (yo-dhéang) noscens, i. e. novit. Part. Ben. Kal, used as a present which does not exist in Hebrew. Formed (with patach furtive) from the verb יָדַע, novit, cognovit. It is said of the mind (compare יָדַע, scio, and רָאָה, video, to which it is related in form as well as sense), and implies a subsequent affection; hence it signifies, favet, fovit, approbavit, curam egit. Its synonyme is מִכִּיר, agnoscens, which differs in this, that no one can be מִכִּיר, who has not previously been יֹדַע. It is found also without the vau of ו in Ps. xciv. 11, thus יָדַע. In the feminine it is in Ps. cxxxix. 14, יֹדַעַת, for יָדַעַת, patach being substituted for segol. In the plural masculine, יֹדַעִים, scientes, and in regimen יֹדַעִי, and without ו, יֹדַעִי. Also with ו prefixed יֹדַעִי, et scientes. With affixes, לִי־יֹדַעִי, cognoscentibus me, לִי־יֹדַעִיךָ, cognoscentibus te. Accent, Munach inferius, a conjunctive.

[48.] תֵּאבֹד (to-bhédh) peribit. Targum תֵּאבֹד, auferetur. The 3rd person sing. fem. fut. of Kal, שׁ quiescing in ו, from אָבַד, perit, and is said of any thing lost to a person, while the thing itself may be either lost or uninjured. It is thus found in the Psalms, וְתֵאבְדוּ, et peribitis, יֵאבְדוּ, peribunt, and also preceded by ו, et. But before a pause it changes (:) into (·), making יֵאבְדוּ, &c.

PSALMUS II. ב.

N. B.—As the learner may now be reasonably supposed to have acquired a tolerable knowledge of the language, and that the pronunciation of every new word will be found in the subjoined Praxis; it is not considered necessary to exhibit the Latin and English versions of this and the following Psalms in parallel lines, as was done in the preceding.

[49.] לָמָּה (lám-ma) propter quid. מַה, an indeclinable word, is an interrogative of the quality of a thing, quid? quomodo, qualiter, quam. It often admits Maccaph after it, and changes (ר) into (·), the following letter being dageshed, as מַה־לִּי, quid (est) tibi? But before letters not admitting dagesh (as the gutturals and ר) it retains (ר) as, מַה־אִנֹּשׁ, quid (est) homo; מַה־רַּבּוֹ, quam multiplicati sunt, &c. The same is done before יְהוָה (which, from reverence, they used to pronounce אֱלֹהֵינוּ, and accordingly we find all versions treat it as an appellative, κύριος, Dominus, Herr, Lord, &c. never Yehovah; compare Ps. lxxxvi. where יְהוָה and אֱלֹהֵינוּ are found promiscuously eleven times, and treated alike by each of those translations), Ps. lxxxix. 47; יְהוָה עַד־מָה, usquequo Yehova? But before the gutturals עִתָּה with (ר), for euphony it changes (ר) into (·) and becomes מַה, as מַה־חִדָּל, quam cessans; also without Maccaph, as מָה עָצְמוֹ , quam praevaluerunt, Ps. cxxxix. 7. There occur also some exceptions to these rules, for example, מָה , Ps. iv. 3, and x. 13; מַה־הוּא , Numb. xvi. 1. It is read in the Psalms with four prefixes, וּמָה and וּמַה־ , et quid; כַּמָּה , quoties, quot; בַּמָּה and בַּמָּה־ , in quo, in quid, (which exclude ה emphatic), לַמָּה and לַמָּה־ , propter, quid, quare, quamobrem, where ל before a word of one syllable takes (τ). Moreover it is to be observed that לַמָּה without dagesh is acute, and with a euphonic dagesh, penacute, לַמָּה־ . But it is acute before the gutturals אָהֶה , as לַמָּה אֱלֹהִים , quare Domine? and penacute before the other letters as לַמָּה רָגְשׁוּ , quare fremuerunt, &c. It is compounded of ל , to, and מָה , what?

[50.] But מִי , quis? is an interrogative of a person; (vide Gram. ch. V. 1); as מִי הָאִישׁ , quis ille vir? It often implies also negation and impossibility, as מִי , quis eloquetur potentias Domini? as if he said nemo; or $\text{מִי כִיהוָה אֱלֹהֵינוּ}$, quis sicut Yehova, Deus noster? In the initial letters of which passage is contained the name of the Archangel Michaël, מִיכָאֵל . It is read in the Psalms with two prefixes, וּמִי , et quis, מִמֵּי , a quo.

[52.] גוֹיִם (go-yeem) gentes. גוֹי , gens, is a noun masculine, perhaps derived from גוּה , corpus, because a nation is a collective body of individuals. It is generally used in reference to the Gentiles, but sometimes also of the Jews. With prefixes, הַגּוֹי , illa gens;

מְגוֹי, a gente, i. e., that there be not a nation, Ps. lxxxiii. 5, (as מ implies negation). In plural גוֹיִם gentes, for גוֹיִים by syncope. With prefixes, הַגְּוֹיִם, illæ gentes; and omitting ה emphatic, בְּגוֹיִם, inter has gentes.

[53.] וְלֵאמִיִּם (oo-leummím) et nationes. From the obsolete אִמָּה comes אִם, mater, whence אָם, natio, a people sprung from one mother; including so many as constitute a kingdom. Hence the Hebrew saying, אֵין לָאֵם אֶלָּא מַלְכוּת, non est natio nisi regnum, (otherwise לָאֵם may be derived from the Arabic root لَآم, which implies connexion and union). In declension it assumes dagesh and shortens ו into (ו), and with ה emphatic forms הָאִמִּים, illæ nationes, and with ל prosthetic, לְאִמִּים, nationes. With prefixes וְלֵאמִיִּם, et nationes, (ו assuming ו before (:)), בְּלֵאמִיִּם, in nationibus, (ב taking (-) instead of sheva on account of the subsequent (:)).

For the verb יִהְיוּ (yehgu), vide Num. 19.

[54.] רִיק (rík) inane. A noun of masculine form without a plural, vacuum, vanum; sometimes taken adverbially, inaniter, frustra, incassum, as in Ps. lxxiii. 13; רִיק, “in vain have I cleansed my heart. Hence the word RAKA, (the רִיקָא of the Talmudists), which Christ forbids to be used, Matt. v. 22, meaning “a worthless fellow.” And also the Greek ῥάκος, “a rag.”

VERSE 2.

[55.] יִתְּצֵבּוּ (yith-yat'sboo) statuent se. The future Hithpabel of יָצַב, statuit, constituit, and in the Psalms is found in the 3rd person only, יִתְּצֵבּוּ, sistet seipsum, and יִתְּצֵבּוּ, semetipsos, constituent. (Vid. Gram. ch. VII. sect. 3, 4.)

[56.] מַלְכֵי (mal-ché) reges. In regimen for מְלָכִים; plural masculine of מֶלֶךְ, rex, imperator, qu. populi moderator, from מָלַךְ, regnavit, Chaldaicè consuluit, deliberavit. With prefixes, הַמְּלָכִים, ipse rex, O rex! וְהַמֶּלֶךְ, et ipse rex; וּמֶלֶךְ, et rex, (ו becoming ו before a labial); לַמֶּלֶךְ, regi, or de rege, and לְמַלְכֵּי, ipsi regi; ה emphatic being omitted. With affixes it changes both segols into sheva, and the preceding sheva into patach, as מִלְכִּי, rex meus, מִי; מִלְכֵּנוּ, noster; לְמַלְכֵּנוּ, regi nostro; מִלְכּוֹ, rex ejus; בְּמַלְכָּם, in rege ipsorum. In which כ is marked with dagesh lene after (:). In plural it is formed like פְּלָגִים, in Num. 26, both in its simple form and in regimen. Once with a grave affix, Ps. cv. 30; מַלְכֵיהֶם, reges eorum, in which dagesh lene is omitted after (:), as above in Num. 26. From מֶלֶךְ, rex, comes the name MOLOCH; but distinguish between this and מַלְאָךְ, malach, an angel or messenger, which comes from הִלַּךְ, ivit, or, according to others, from the Arabic and Æthiopic, לֵאכ, implying message and service.

[57.] אֶרֶץ (érets) terræ. A radical noun common gender, tellus, terra, as well habitable as uninhabitable; also signifies the lowest part of any thing, like the Chald. אַרְע, by the usual change of ע into ע. Hence Gr. ἄρξ, inferius, humile, imum. Before a pause, or with ה emphatic, even without a pause, it is written אֶרֶץ and אֶרֶץ, ipsa terra. In regimen it remains like all nouns of six points; אֶרֶץ, as in Ps. cvii. 35; אֶרֶץ צִיָּה, et terram siccitatis.

[58.] וְרוֹזְנִים (ve-rozením) et principes. Targum וְשִׁלְטֹנֵי, et dominatores, governors, counsellors. A noun plural masculine without a singular, related to the Arabic, رِزْن, which, like the Hebrew כֶּבֶד, implies weight, importance, honour. It is found in the Scriptures six times, and is always placed after מֶלֶךְ, rex, except in Is. xl. 23. רוֹזֵן and רוֹזֵן, have both one and the same meaning, only that the latter also occurs in the sense of emaciation, the root of which is רוּזָה.

[59.] נוֹסְדוּ (no-sedhú) consultârunt. From יָסַד, fundavit. He laid foundation ; for counsels may be considered as the foundations of actions. 3rd pers. plur. præt. Niph., י being changed into ו, hence נוֹסְדוּ, and in the 3rd person plural נוֹסְדוּ, fundarunt se pariter, they were banded together. Targum יתְחַבְּרוּן, convenerunt ; as the LXX. render it συνηχθησαν, perhaps they read נוֹחַדוּ from יחַד, univit.

[60.] יחַד (ya-hhadh) simul. From יחַד, univit ; comes יחַד, properly a noun meaning union, (see 1 Chr. xii. 17), but which cannot be translated into Latin except by an adverb, as una, pariter, simul. Before a pause it is written יחַד. The form יחַד would be יחַד but for the guttural.

[61.] עַל- (gnal or hal) contra ; denotes hostility in this passage, adversus, contra. וְעַל, et contra ; whence the Targum says, et certant cum Messia ejus.

[62.] מְשִׁיחוֹ (Meshi-hhó) Messiam ejus. From מָשַׁח, oleo-unxit, comes מְשִׁיחַ, unctus. By Antonómasia, our Saviour Messiah, Christ the Lord, is so called in the N. T. (according to the genius of the Greek language, ש being changed into ss, and the termination ח into as,) of Him the anointed kings and priests were types. In the final increment, (י) is shortened into (:) and with affixes, forms מְשִׁיחָךְ, unctus tuus ; מְשִׁיחוֹ, ejus ; לְמְשִׁיחִי, uncto meo ; לְמְשִׁיחוֹ, suo ; (in which ל takes (·) on account of the subsequent (:). In the plural מְשִׁיחֵי, uncti ; so called are all those sacred to God, or remarkable for dignity and piety ; whence (with prefix and affix,) ne tangatis, בְּמְשִׁיחֵי, in Christos seu unctos meos. Ps. cv. 15.

VERSE 3.

[63.] נִתְקַדַּח (nenat-teká) penitèns disrumpemus. From נִתַּק, disrupit, avulsit, abrupit. The future of Pihel (which conjugation denotes intensity). It is read twice in the Psalms, in the 3rd person singular, יִנְתֵּק, penitus dirumpet, Ps. civ. 14. In the 1st person plural נִתְּקָה, with ה paragogic which is in common to the 1st person of the future in both numbers, (·) being changed into (·:) pro נִתְּתָה. The termination ה, usually called paragogic, implying exhortation and encouragement. The prefixed נ, nos, being derived from אָנַחְנִי, anachnu, we.

[64.] אֵת (eth,) this particle generally denotes the accusative. With the prefix מ, it has the same power as the simple מ, as מֵאֵת, a Yehovah. With Maccaph it changes (·) into (·:) and is written וְאֵת, et. According to Gesenius אֵת originally denotes “this,” αὐτός, the trace of which sense may be discovered in Ez. xliii. 7, and xlvii. 17, 18, 19, where וְאֵת is substituted by זֶאת, in the following verse 20.

[65.] מוֹסְרוֹתֵימוֹ (mo-sero-thémo) vincula eorum. Targum catenas eorum. From יָסַר, erudiendo castigavit, comes the heemantic noun, מוֹסֵר, vinculum, י being changed into ו, or מוֹסֵר, instead of מוֹסֵר, from אָסַר, he bound. In the plural it admits both terminations, ים and וֹת; whence in the masculine form with affix and prefix, פָּתַחְתָּ לְמוֹסְרֵי, solvisti vincula mea, Ps. cxvi. 16, (with (·) instead of (·:) contrary to analogy). In the feminine וּמוֹסְרוֹתֵיהֶם (oomose-rothehem) et vincula ipsorum, Ps. cvii. 14. It is found also with the poetic affix יָמוֹ, especially in the metrical books. Also with י, my, יו, his, יָהֶם, chem, their. From the root יָסַר, comes the noun מוֹסֵר, instruction, discipline. The singular occurs only as the name of a place, Deuter. x. 6, מוֹסֵרָה, to Moser.

[66.] וְנָשְׁלִיכָהּ (vënash-leecha) et projiciamus. From שָׁלַךְ, in Hiph; הִשְׁלִיךְ, jecit, projecit, abjecit, as of children exposed by the mother. The future Hiph, thus אֶשְׁלִיךְ, projiciam; וְהִשְׁלִיכָהּ, et projecisti, (with ו conversive future), and (·) in place of י, יִשְׁלִיכֵנִי, projicies me, and with ו conversive, et projecisti me; בְּנִשְׁלִיךְ, projiciemus, and with ה paragogic וְנִשְׁלִיכֶה.

[67.] מִמֶּנּוּ (mim-mén-nu) a nobis. מִן, a preposition, a, ab, abs, de, e, ex, præ, with a prefix וּמִן, et ab. With י paragogic מִנִּי (נ being dageshed), ab, præ. With affix מִנִּי, a me; מִנְהוּ, ab unoquoque eorum. But with affixes it more usually casts away נ and doubles מ, as מִמֶּנִּי, a me; מִמֶּךָ, a te, and before a pause מִמֶּךָ. Also מִמֶּנָּה, ab illa; מִמֶּנּוּ, a nobis, and ab illo; for נוּ, is an affix of the first person plural, and third singular for נָהוּ. Vid. Gram. p. 21. נוּ, him, it; and נוּ, us.

[68.] עֲבִיתִמוּ (gnabho-thé-mo) densos funes eorum. From עִבָּת, in Pihel, contorsit, condensavit, complicavit, comes the noun common עֲבוֹת, contortum, funis contortus, scil. of three cords. In plural with a prefix בַּעֲבִיתִים, in funibus, Ps. cxviii. 27. And with affix עֲבִיתִמוּ, by the LXX. τὸ ζυγὸν αὐτῶν, jugum eorum. In addition to the plural masculine עֲבִיתִים, it is also found in the feminine עֲבִיתוֹת; the root עִבָּת in Kal is not used.

VERSE 4.

[69.] יוֹשֵׁב (yo-shébh) sedens. The participle Ben. Kal, and without ו, יוֹשֵׁב, (vid. Gram. p. 5, note a), sedens, habitans, from יָשַׁב, Num. xiii. With prefix וַיֹּשֵׁב, et sedens; הַיֹּשֵׁב, qui sedens es, with ה relative. In the plural יוֹשְׁבִים, in regimen, יוֹשְׁבֵי, and without ו יוֹשְׁבֵי, et habitantes. With affix יוֹשְׁבֵיהָ, habitantes ejus, i. e. its inhabitants.

[70.] בַּשָּׁמַיִם (bash-sha-má-yim) in ipsis cælis. שָׁמַיִם, cæli, is not found in the singular, but is rendered indifferently cælum and cælos. Before a pause it is written שָׁמַיִם, (-) being changed into (ר). With prefixes הַשָּׁמַיִם, isti celi; וְהַשָּׁמַיִם, et celi. Once, Ps. xxxvi. 6, it is found בְּהַשָּׁמַיִם, in ipsis cælis, the ה emphatic being excluded at other times. שָׁמַיִם is a dual noun, compounded of שָׁם, ibi, and מַיִם, aquæ, as the clouds rest there. The dual form denotes the equal distance on both sides, or the two poles of the world, or rather the waters above and below the expanse. For שָׁמַיִם, cæli, denotes not only the abode of the blessed, but also the air. In regimen מַיִם becomes מֵי, and reduplicated מֵימֵי, and always so with affixes, as מֵימֵי, aquæ ejus; מֵימֵיהֶם, illorum; מֵימֵינוּ, nostrî. Modern grammarians derive שָׁמַיִם from a root, שָׁמַח, Arabic and Æthiopic, שָׁמַח, like the Hebrew רוּם, to be high, lofty, hence Heaven, and deny its composition with מַיִם.

[71.] יִשְׁחַק (yis-chāk) ridebit. The 3rd person singular, future Kal, and found in this person only, (-) being changed into (ט) because of the pause; whence in the plural יִשְׁחַקוּ, ridebunt. From שָׁחַק, lusit, risit, derisit, risum fecit (said of any thing playful, even of war), also contempsit, for whatever is despised is ridiculed.

[72.] אֲדֹנָי (Adho-nái) DOMINUS. The Targum renders it מֵימְרָא, verbum Domini, denoting MESSIAH, who is THE WORD OF GOD, from אָמַר, dixit. From אָדָן, basis, comes אֲדֹן, Dominus, as it were the basis and prop of the family or house; and as the Latin Dominus is derived from domus, so God is called אֲדֹנָי by the Hebrews, as he presides over the universe, which is His house; or it may be derived from דָּן, domineer, judge. When in regimen it forms אֲדֹנָי, (ט) being changed into (-). In Ps. cxxxvi. 3, it is found in both the absolute and constructed forms of its plural. Confess לְאֲדֹנָי הָאֲדֹנִים, Domino dominorum. But אֲדֹנָי with (ט), without a pause, is said only of the Creator (compare our parenthetical note in [49] supra), and is put for the singular absolute, DOMINUS and so differs from אֲדֹנִי, Dominus meus, and אֲדֹנָי, Domini mei. With the prefixes ב, ל, and ו, it casts off (·) and forms וְאֲדֹנִי, et Domine mi; לְאֲדֹנִי, Domino meo; בְּאֲדֹנִי, in Domino meo. Accent, Rebhiah-Geresh.

[73.] יִלְעַג (yil-hagh) subsannabit. Future Kal, 3rd person singular from לָעַג, subsannavit, derisit. Anglicè, to sneer at, or curl the lip. The LXX. render it by the verb μυκτηρίζω. This verb is used by the Hebrews with ל, the sign of the dative, which therefore follows. It is found in the Psalms, in the 2nd person singular, also הִלְעַג, and in the 3rd person plural יִלְעֲנֻ.

[74.] לָמוֹ (la-mo) eis vel in eos. Compounded of ל, to, which with an affix takes (·), and of מוֹ, them, the poetic affix used for the prose הֵם and הֵן.

VERSE 5.

[75.] אֲזַ (az) tunc, ex tempore. It is used of past and future time, and with י paragogic, אֲזַי, tunc, only found in Ps. cxxv. Also with מ prefixed מֵאֲזַ, qu. ex tunc, ab eo tempore, postquam. Quis stabit coram te, מֵאֲזַ אִפְּךָ, a tunc, (i. e. tempore,) iræ tuæ. Targum, a tempore quo invalescit ira tua, Ps. lxxvi. 8. When put absolutely it denotes past ages, as in Ps. xciii. 2. Parata est sedes tua מֵאֲזַ, ex tunc, which the Targum renders מִן עֲלָמָא, a seculo; and the LXX. ἀπὸ τότε, ex indé. Accent, Mahpahh.

loquetur os meum (and feminine הַדְּבַר), הַדְּבַר, loquimini. With ן paragogic, הַדְּבַרְיוֹן, where (·) is used for (:), on account of athnac. יְדַבֵּר, loquentur; וַיְדַבֵּר, loquentur, the (:) under י being lost on account of the previous chirek, Ps. lxxiii. 8. Also וַיְדַבֵּר, et locuti sunt, Ps. lxxviii. 19, where the shevated letter י rejects dagesh, which vau conversive should have given it, for וַיְדַבֵּר.

[77.] אֵלֵינוּ (e-lé-mo) ad eos. אֵל, a preposition, ad, apud, juxta, is used sometimes for עַל, super, propter (and therefore all verbs which are construed with עַל, are also construed with אֵל). It is written with (·) to distinguish it from the name of God, אֱלֹהִים; וְאֵל-מִכְאוֹב, et super dolorem, or de dolore, Ps. lxix. 27. It assumes the affixes of plural nouns, and takes (·) with the light affixes, as אֵלַי, (and in a pause אֵלַי), ad me; אֵלֶיךָ, ad te; אֵלָיו, ad ipsum; אֵלֵינוּ, ad eos, poetically. But with the grave affixes (vid. Gram. Ch. V. note 1) it changes (·) into (-:), as אֵלֵיכֶם, ad eos; אֵלֵיהֶם, ad eos.

[78.] בְּאַפּוֹ (bheap-pó) in irâ sua. Targum in fortitudine sua. From אַנְף, naribus flare (as the angry are wont to do), is formed by syncope, the noun masculine אַף, naris, nasus, sometimes put for the whole face or countenance, as being the most prominent part thereof. Also for fury and wrath, of which the distention of the nostrils is the indication. With prefixes בְּאַף, ab irâ; וְאַף, et ira; בְּאַף, in irâ; וּבְאַף, et in irâ. In the dual and with an affix it assumes dagesh to compensate the loss of נ, as אַפִּים, nares; אַפְךָ, ira tua; אַפּוֹ, ejus; אַפֶּם, eorum. With prefixes בְּאַפִּי, in irâ mea; בְּאַפְךָ, tuâ; בְּאַפּוֹ, ejus; לְאַפּוֹ, pro irâ sua, Ps. lxxviii. 50.

[79.] וּבַחֲרוֹנוֹ (oo-bha-charo-nó) et in furore suo. Root חָרָה, arsit; hence חֲרוֹן, ardor, æstus, ira, furor, and once adustum, is a noun masculine formed by the heemantic syllable וֶן. In regimen and with affixes (ר) being changed into (-:), it forms חֲרוֹן. With prefix מַחֲרוֹן אַפֶּה, ab ardore iræ tuæ (which Bertram says is the infinitive Kal, with ן paragogic, ab æstuando), also וַחֲרוֹן, et cestus. With an affix, in loco; and once in the plural חַרוֹנֵיהֶם, cestus tui, Ps. lxxxviii. 17.

[80.] יִבְהַלְמוּ (yebha-halé-mo) conturbabit eos. From בָּהֵל, in Pihel, festinare, accelerare, oftener taken in a bad sense, and hence, temerè vel inconsulto agere. Also to hurry another so as to cause him to act hastily. The future Pihel, which is declined in the Psalms with affixes, thus 2nd person תִּבְהַלֶּם, conturbabis eos, and in the 3rd person as above. Here dagesh, the sign of the conj. Pihel, is absorbed, as a guttural does not admit it, and the final (״) in בָּהֵל changes into (׃) on account of the affix. ׀ at the end is a poetic addition, see [74]. Accent, Soph Pasuk preceded by Metheg.

VERSE 6.

[81.] וְאֲנִי (va-aní) et ego. אֲנִי, ego, a pronoun of the first person; before a pause it is written with (׃), אֲנִי, Ps. vi. 3. With a prefix, וְאֲנִי, et ego, where ׀ has (׃) before (׃), Gr. Ch. X. 2, 3. It is read also in another form אֲנִי, ego. Vid Gr. Ch. V.

[82.] נִסְכָּתִי (na-sách-ti) inunxi. Targum inauguravi, LXX. κατιστάμενος, constitutus sum. The præter. Kal, found in the Psalms only in this place, from נִסַּךְ, fudit, perfudit, libavit, inauguravit, regem constituit, which was done by anointing with oil. Hence נִסַּךְ, a libation, or oblation of liquid things (as מִנְחָה, was of dry things), plural נִסְכִּים, in regimen; נִסְכֵּי, which, with the affix הֶם gives נִסְכֵּיהֶם, their drink-offerings, Ps. xvi. 4.

[83.] צִיּוֹן (Tsiy-yōn) Sion. From צִיָּה, siccitas, comes צִיּוֹן, the name of a mount, from the dryness of the place, on whose summit was a citadel, which, when taken by David, was called The City of David; also 'The Mount of the Lord, and of Holiness, at the north side of which lay the Temple. It is found with the prefixes מ, ex, ב, in, and ל, de, Ps. lxxxvii. 5.

[84.] הָרַר (har) montem. Contracted from הָרָר, mons.

VERSE 7.

[86.] אִסְפָּרָה (asap-perá) enarrabo. From סָפַר, numeravit, narravit, enarravit, in Pihel, as if enumerating to others. (Its synonyme is הִגִּיד, indicavit). The future Pihel, thus found in the Psalms, אִסְפָּר, numerabo, Ps. xxii. 18; and with ה paragogic, (י) being changed into (:), אִסְפָּרָה, accuraté enarrabo. With an affix אִסְפָּרָהּ, enarrabo illam; יִסְפָּר, recensebit; נִסְפָּר, recensebimus; תִּסְפָּרִי, enarretis. And in Ps. lxiv. 6, יִסְפָּרוּ, narrabunt, which the LXX. render προσέθηκαν, addiderunt, (omitting ר, as if it were יִסְפָּרוּ); and before a pause, (:) being changed into (י), יִסְפָּרוּ, enarrabunt, Ps. lxxi. 15. From this root comes סֵפֶר, a book, by which we communicate our thoughts to the absent.

[87.] אֶל- (el). Is a preposition, ad, in, super, so as to mean enarrabo super, or de statuto; concerning the decree, or in decretum, for a decree, compare וְאֵל, Ps. lxix. 27, (26), which the Vulgate renders et super.

[88.] חֹק (chók) decretum. The Targum renders Dei pactum, and the LXX. τὸ πρῶταγμα Κυρίου, præceptum Domini, as if the following word were in the genitive, namely חֹק־יְהוָה. חֹק is a noun masculine, from חָקַק, insculpsit, statuit, decrevit, from the custom of engraving laws on stone or brass. It is found with the prefixes, י, et, and ל, in. With maccaph it shortens ה into (י) kamets chatuph, and makes חֹק־ (חֹ), decretum. (Vid. Gr. p. 6).

[89.] אָמַר (amár) dixit. Præt. Kal, which is thus declined in the Psalms אָמַר, dixit ille, locutus est, i. e., with another or with himself, cogitavit; וְאָמַר, et dixit; אָמַרְתָּ, dixisti, Ps. xvi. 2. אָמַרְתִּי, dixi; אָמַרְוּ, dixerunt; וְאָמַרְוּ, et dixerunt.

[90.] בֶּן־י (bení) filius meus. From בָּנָה, ædificavit, comes בֶּן, filius; as parents rear up their children. Its synonyme is פֶּר. It is used as well of animate as of inanimate things, Ps. lxxx. 16. Et super בֶּן, filium quem roborásti tibi, i. e. the branch, which springs from the tree as a child from the parent. In regimen it is always marked by (·) with or without maccaph, as בֶּן־יִמִּינִי, filius Yemini (Benyemita), Ps. vii. 1, or בֶּן־רַאמִים, filius, i. e. catulus unicornium, Ps. xxix. 6. With prefixes וּבֶן, et filius; בְּבֶן, in filium; לְבֶן, filio. With an affix (·) changed into (:), it becomes בְּנִי, filius meus; בְּנוֹ, filius ejus, vel suus.

[91.] אַתָּה (at-ta) tu; es understood, as the personal pronoun implies the verb substantive. For אַתָּה, see Gr. p. 18. Before a pause as in Ps. xvi. 2, it is sometimes written אַתָּה. With a prefix וְאַתָּה, et tu; or ה omitted, וְאַתָּה, Ps. vi. 4, in which form it is found five times in Scripture. In plural אַתֶּם, vos.

[92.] הַיּוֹם (hay-yóm) hoc die. יוֹם, dies, sometimes taken for the natural space of twenty-four hours, sometimes for the day-time only. Doubled יוֹם יוֹם, die die, means daily, Ps. lxviii. 20. With a prefix מִיּוֹם, a die ; חֲיִים, hic dies, hodie ; בְּיּוֹם, sicut dies ; לְיּוֹם, in die, or de die ; בְּיּוֹם, in die. And הֵאֱמַן being excluded, בְּיּוֹם, in hac die ; בְּיּוֹם, sicut hic dies ; once with an affix יוֹמוֹ, dies ejus, Ps. xxxvii. 13. Targum דְּרַבְרָה יוֹמָא, dies calamitatis ejus. Its plural is יָמִים, days ; but יָמִים, with dagesh is the plural of יָם, the sea.

[93.] יִלְדִּיתִּי (yelidh-ti-cha) genui te. Præter. Kal, 1st person singular from יָלַד, genuit, but more properly applied to females in the sense peperit, parturivit. Thus declined יָלַד, genuit, or ויָלַד, et genuit ; יִלְדִּיתִּי, genui. With the affix תְּ, the (ר) of the first syllable is shortened into (י) and (י) of the second radical is changed into (ו) for euphony ; hence יִלְדִּיתִּי. Hence יָלַד, puer, Ang. a lad ; מוֹלָדָת, nativity ; and תּוֹלְדוֹת, feminine plural, generations.

VERSE 8.

[94.] שְׂאֵל (she-al) pete. The imp. Kal, from שָׁאַל, rogavit, petiit, quæsit, postulavit. Plural שְׂאֵלוּ, petite, for שְׂאֵלוּ, with (י) under a guttural, Ps. cxxii. 6. Hence שְׂאֵל, the grave, as if always unsatisfied, vid. No. 299. Or if שֵׁ be here considered a substitute for ע, שְׂאֵל can mean hollow, cavity, hence pit, hell.

[95.] וְאֶתְּנָה (ve-ettená) et dabo. אֶתְּנָה, is the 1st person singular future Kal, from נָתַן (No. 29), with הֵאֱמַן parag., (ו) being changed into (י). Also in Ps. lxxix. 12, וְאֶתְּנָה, where ו conversive before a guttural requires (י). With affixes וְאֶתְּנָה, constituam eum. In 2nd person תִּתְּנֵנִי, trades me ; תִּתְּנֵנִי, eum ; תִּתְּנֵנִי, dabis (efficies) nos ut oves, &c., Ps. xlv. 12. תִּתְּנֵנִי, dabis vel pones eum, Ps. lxxiv. 14. In the 3rd person and with ו conversive וְיִתְּנֵם, et tradidit eos, Ps. cvi. 41.

[96.] נָחֳלָתְךָ (na-hhala-thé-cha) possessionem tuam. From נָחַל, possedit, comes נָחֳלָה, noun feminine possessio, whatsoever is ceded gratuitously to another. Once written with ה, Ps. xvi. 6, נָחֳלָה.

With a prefix לְנַחֲלָה, in possessionem. In regimen הִּ is changed into הַ, (vid. Gram. p. 16), נַחֲלָה. With affixes, הִּ being changed into תִּ, it forms נַחֲלָתְךָ, (and in a pause נַחֲלָתְךָ), possessio tua, or with וְ, et, prefixed; נַחֲלָתוֹ, ejus; נַחֲלָתֵנוּ, nostra; נַחֲלָתְכֶם, vestra; בְּנַחֲלָתְךָ, in possessione tua; וּבְנַחֲלָתוֹ, et in possessione ejus; וְנַחֲלָתָם, et possessio eorum.

[97.] וְאַחֲזִיתָּךְ (va-ahhuz-zathecá) et hæreditatem tuam. From אֲחָז, prehendit, apprehendit, tenuit, comes the noun feminine without plural אֲחִיזָה, apprehensio, hæreditas, res possessa, as a country house or field. It has a dagesh euph. and is read only in this place in the Psalms, the final הִ being changed into תִ, because of the affix תְּ, thy.

[98.] אֶפְסִי (aphsé) fines. From אָפַס, finivit, cessavit, comes the noun masculine אֶפְסָא, finis, terminus, the extremity of any thing. It is formed like פֶּלֶג, No. 26, and therefore in the plural makes אֶפְסִים, and in regimen אֶפְסִי, in which form it is read five times in the Psalms, being always followed by אֶרֶץ, terminos terræ, i.e. the inhabitants thereof. With a prefix לְאֶפְסֵי הָאָרֶץ, in fines terræ, Ps. lix. 14. אֶפְסִי is also used in the sense, nisi, tantum, tantummodo, &c.

VERSE 9.

[99.] תִּרְעֵם (tero-hém) confringes eos. Targ. conteres eos. LXX. ποιμανῖς αὐτοὺς, reges eos ut pastor, having read תִּרְעֵם from רָעָה, pavit, rexit; hence in Rev. ii. 27, ποιμανῖς αὐτοὺς, reget eos, &c. From the root רָעַע, fregit, contrivit, comes the future of Kal, 2nd person regularly תִּרְעַע, tirhoang, and casting away one ע, תִּרְעֵ, and with the affix ם, it forms תִּרְעֵם. This verb is rather Chaldee than Hebrew, being used for רָעַץ, of the same signification, רָ being changed into ע. Accent, Tiphkha anteposita.

[100.] בִּשְׁבֶּט (be-shébbet) virgá, ב only signifying the instrument. שֶׁבֶט, virga, sceptrum, baculus, a noun of common gender, but more frequently masculine. A pastoral staff, denoting the chief tribunal authority. From the Syriac שְׁבַט, extendit, for the Hebrew verb is צִבַּט, porrexit. Sceptrum is evidently related to σκήπτω.

[101.] בָּרֶזֶל (barzél) ferri, i. e. ferrea. The substantive for the adjective, a noun masculine of four letters without a plural; בָּרֶזֶל also signifies all implements made of iron, as, fetters, chains, &c., as in Ps. cv. 18; בָּרֶזֶל בָּאָה נַפְשׁוֹ, anima ejus ingressa est ferrum; and Ps. cvii. 10, vincti afflictione, וּבִרְזֵל, et ferro, i. e. compedibus.

[102.] כִּכְלִי (kich-lí) sicut vas. From כָּלָה, perfecit, comes the noun masculine כֵּל, vas, instrumentum, applicable to every vessel which is perfectly finished. It is found also in the Psalms with the prefix ב, as in Ps. lxxi. 22; בְּכֵלִי, in instrumento; in both cases כ and ב are marked with (·) on account of the following (:). Accent, Tiphkha posterius.

[103.] יוֹצֵר (yo-tsér) figentis, i. e. figuli. The Benoni participle of Kal (which supplies the place of a noun), from יָצַר, finxit, formavit. It is attributed both to God and man, and means quovis modo aliquid effigiare. It is found without י in Ps. xciv. 9, thus יָצַר, and with ה relative in Ps. xxxiii. 15; הַיּוֹצֵר, qui format.

[104.] תִּנְפֶּצֶם (tenap-petsém) penitus dissipabis eos. Targum, disrumpes eos, and the LXX. confringes eos, scil. συντρίψει αὐτούς. The future of Pihel with the affix ׁם, them, which causes (·) ultimate to be changed into (:). From נָפַץ, sparsit, dispersit, dissipavit. It is said of any scattering which implies breaking. Hence in Ps. cxxxvii. 9, וְנִפְץ, and shall dash.

VERSE 10.

[105.] וְעַתָּה (ve-hatta) et nunc. From עָדָה, comes עַתָּה, and from this the adverb עַתָּה, nunc, jam, expressing the present time, or that about to arrive immediately. With prefix וְעַתָּה, et nunc, and before a pause וְעַתָּה, and without הָעַתָּה. Also מֵעַתָּה, ex hoc nunc, i. e. ex hoc tempore.

[106.] הַשְׁכִּילוּ (has-kee-lu) intelligite. The imperative of Hiphil, 2nd person plural, with dagesh lene after (:), facite ut intelligatis, studete ut sapientes sitis. From שָׁכַל, prudenter se gessit; but more commonly in Hiphil, intellexit, intelligere fecit, as being the cause of prudence to one's self or others. Its primary meaning in Kal is secundari, prosperari. Hence שָׁכַל, successus, prudentia.

[107.] הִנְסִירוּ (hiv-vá-seróo) erudimini vos. Imp. plur. of Niphi., 2nd person plural, י being changed into ו dageshed. From יָסַר, se erudit, castigavit, scil. in word or deed. The Targum renders it, receive chastisement, referring to morals. The Præt. of Niph. is נִסַּר, nosar; future אִנְסַר, evrasēr; imper. הִנְסֵר, inf. idem; Part. Ben. נֹסֵר.

[108.] שֹׁפְטֵי אֶרֶץ (sho-phetè aretz) judicantes, i. e. judices terræ. The nominative plural masculine in regimen for שֹׁפְטִים of the Ben. Kal, of the verb שָׁפַט, judicavit, either simply declared what was legal or illegal, or relatively, absolved or condemned the accused. The Ben. Kal, שֹׁפֵט or שֹׁפֵטָה, judicans, is also used as a noun, judex. It is read with a prefix, Ps. cix. 31, מִשְׁפָּטֵי, a judicibus; and with an affix, Ps. cxli. 6, שֹׁפְטֵיהֶם, judices eorum; שֹׁפְטֵנוּ, judex noster, Is. xxxiii. 22.

VERSE 11.

[109.] עֲבָדוּ (gnibhdoo) colite. The 2nd person plural imperative of Kal, from עָבַד, servivit, implying servitude, whether free or constrained, but when used in reference to God or the earth, it signifies coluit. In the Chald. עֲבַד signifies facere, because servitude implies doing somewhat. The dagesh lene is omitted in עֲבָדִי after the (:) as this sheva comes from a long vowel ; viz. singular עֲבָד. Hence עֲבָד, servus, and עֲבֹדָה or עֲבָדָה, servitus.

[110.] בִּירְאָה (beyir-a) in timore. From יִרָא, timuit, comes the noun feminine יִרְאָה, timor, reverentia, pietas in Deum, religio ; for reverential fear is the chief thing in the worship of God. Hence Horace uses “Metus Deorum.” In regimen it becomes יִרְאָתָה (Gram. p. 16). With prefixes בִּירְאָתָה, in timore, and לִירְאָתָה, ad timorem. With affixes it changes ה into ת and becomes בִּירְאָתָךְ, cum reverentiâ tui ; לִירְאָתָךְ, in timore tuo ; וּבִירְאָתָךְ, et sicut timor tuus, Ps. xc. 11.

[111.] וְגִילִי (ve-ghee-loo) et exultate. The Septuagint read καὶ ἠγαλλιάσθαι αὐτοῖς, scil. ei. Targum, et orate in timore. The 2nd person plural imperative of Hiph. of the form קִיב, (Gram. p. 84), and would therefore by analogy be וְהִגִּילִי, but the characteristic ה is removed by aphæresis, which leaves גִּילִי, from גִּיל, exultare, and implies an exhibition of delight by some outward gesture ; in which it differs from שִׂמְחָה, lætari. Modern grammarians adopt a root גִּיל as well as גִּיל, and declare וְגִילִי to be Kal, not Hiph.

[112.] בִּרְעָדָה (bir-ha-dhá) in tremore. A noun feminine without plural from רָעַד tremuit. It is found twice in the Psalms, scil. Ps. xlviii. 7. רָעַדָה, tremor, and with a prefix בִּרְעָדָה, where ב has (.), on account of the following sheva.

VERSE 12.

[113.] נִשְׁקִי (nash-shekoo) osculumini. Targum, receive instruction, and the LXX. ἀρᾶξασθαι παιδείας, apprehendite disciplinam ; (perhaps they read נִשְׁקִי from נִשְׁק, apprehendit, and understood בֶּרֶךְ, filium, as signifying purity of life and doctrine). נִשְׁקִי is the imperative plural of Pih. from נִשָּׁק, osculatus est, osculum præbuit, meaning thereby respect and obedience.

[114.] בָּר (bhar) filium. A Syro-Chaldaic word, instead of the Hebrew בֵּן, filius. Hence the proper names in the N. T., as Simon Βάρων, Βαρεβάβας, Βαρετιμαῖος, &c. It is read only in this place and in Prov. xxxi. 2, with an affix בְּרִי for בְּנִי, fili mi. Some translate this passage, osculamini purum, deducing בַּר, purus, from בָּרַר, purum esse. Hence בַּר and בָּרַר, wheat, after it has been sifted. Accent, Pazer.

[116.] יֵאָנֵף (ye-enáph) irascatur. The future of Kal, 3rd sing., from אָנַף, flare naribus (ut solent irati). In the 2nd person תֵּאָנֵף, irasceris, Ps. lxxix. 5, and lxxxv. 6. In the 3rd person singular יֵאָנֵף, irascetur (for יֵאָנֵף), the guttural א, that it may be uttered, has (ִ) under it, and therefore changes the preceding (.) into (ִ), vid. Gram. p. 58. [For וְתֵאָבְדִי, vid. No. 48].

[117.] יִבְעַר (yibh-hár) exardescet. The future of Kal, which is found in the Psalms in the 3rd person singular only, from בָּעַר, arsit, exarsit, combustus fuit (of which the opposite is כָּבַה, extinctus fuit). The masculine יִבְעַר, signifies cùm exarserit nasus ejus, i. e. burning with anger. The feminine תִּבְעַר, ardebit, comburet; and with ו conversive וְתִבְעַר, et exarsit (ignis), Ps. cvi. 18.

[118.] כִּמְעַט (kim-hát), quasi parum. LXX. ἐν τάχει, cito, in brevi. From מִעַט, diminutus fuit, comes the noun masculine מַעַט, ramentum, a chip, small piece, thence paucity in general, &c. With verbs it takes the nature of an adverb, as in Ps. viii. 6, Fecisti eum deficere, מַעַט, parum ab angelis. With כ implying similitude, כְּמַעַט, secundum parum, &c. In the plural it takes dagesh euphonic, as מַעַטִּים, pauci, Ps. cix. 8.

[120.] חֹסֵי, from חָסָה, recepit se ad aliquem; to seek protection under any thing, whereby one might be safe from injury from above. Hence, when transferred to the mind, it signifies fidit, confidit, speravit. The Ben. Kal, in the singular חֹסֶה. In the plural ה radical is excluded along with the previous vowel, whence חֹסִים, sperantes, confidentes. And with ה relative, הַחֹסִים, qui confidunt; and excluding ה emphatic, לְחֹסִים בָּךְ, his qui confidunt in te. In regimen חֹסֵי, confidentes. Moreover, in this passage there is an enallage of the construct for the absolute state, but this word is almost always construed with ב, which therefore follows.

[121.] בּוֹ (bho) in eo; ב is the preposition in, and ו the singular affix (see Gram. p. 23), with a prefix ובו, et in eo.

N. B.—The change of לָךְ into לְךָ in the word יִלְדָתִיךָ, [No. 93], has been ably accounted for in the 11th edition of Gesenius's Hebr. Gram. § 27, 3.

PSALMUS III. ג.

VERSE I.

[122.] מִזְמוֹר (mizmór) psalmus. A heemantiv noun masculine without a plural, signifying a poetic song set to music, sometimes found with the addition of שִׁיר, canticum, meaning a song, first composed for an instrument, and afterwards adapted to the voice; but שִׁיר מִזְמוֹר means the opposite. From זָמַר, putavit, præcidiť; in Pihel זָמַר, cecinit, modulatus est, viz., a concise and short song. Bishop Lowth and others explain the connexion between זָמַר and זָמַר, with the idea of cutting, namely, the cæsuras, short parallel sentences of Hebrew songs and poetry.

[123.] לְדָוִד (le-Dhaveedh) of David, or inspired to David. LXX. τῷ Δαυὶδ. From דָּוִד, amicus, dilectus, comes דָּוִד, qu. amabilis. The prefix לְ, to, implying that the Psalms were inspired to him by the Holy Spirit, as he says in Ps. xlv. 2, “my tongue is the pen of a ready writer.”

[124.] בְּבַרְחוֹ (bebhhor-hho) in fugere ejus, for fugá. From בָּרַח, fugit, aufugit, comes the infinitive of Kal, בְּרוּחַ. But on account of the affix וּ, patach furt. vanishes, and וּ is changed into (וּ), בּ being prefixed, the mark of the gerund, signifying cum fugeret ipse. בָּרַח and נוֹס are often synonymes, but the latter chiefly expresses fleeing before the enemy or danger, with some exceptions, as Cant. ii. and iv. where it is used of the shadows; whilst בָּרַח is more related (even in sound) to “break up,” “break through,” as בְּרִיחַ, a bolt, bar; בְּרַח לָהּ, Gen. xxvii. 43, and Num. xxiv. 11, break up, get thyself off; בְּרִיחַ is the poetical epithet of the serpent, on account of its bolting propensity.

[125.] מִפְּנֵי (mip-pené) a faciebus, i. e. the features which denote passion. פְּנֵי, facies, a noun masculine plural from פָּנָה, aspexit, respexit, vertit. In regimen ים being changed into י, (Gr. p. 16), and (ר) into (:), and with the prefix מ, מִפְּנֵי, a faciebus, vel con-spectu.

[126.] אֲבִשָׁלוֹם (Abh-sha-lom) Absalom. The rebellious son of David and Maacah. Derived from אב, pater, et שָׁלוֹם, pax, meaning the Father of Peace.

VERSE 2.

[127.] רָבּוּ (ráb-bu) multiplicati sunt. For רָבּוּ, 3rd person plural pret. Kal, רַב by syncope for רָבַב, auctus est, whether in quantity or quality. Before a pause רָבּוּ becomes רָבוּ.

[128.] צָרִי (tsa-rái) hostes, sive angustiatores mei. LXX. οἱ θλιβόντές με, qui tribulant me. From צָרַר, arctare, angustum reddere; צָר, arctus, angustus, is a participial noun, and as a substantive angustia, a strait, as well of mind as of body; activè, hostis vel angustiator, one who drives into a strait. In the plural צָרִים, and with an affix, excluding ים, it gives צָרִי, and before a pause צָרִי; in feminine צָרָה, angustia. It occurs in Ps. iv. 2, with the prefix פ, in the form פִּצָּר, in angustia (ת emphatic being excluded).

[129.] רַבִּים (rabbim) multi. From רָבַב (see No. 127), comes the noun masculine רַב, multitudo, multus (whence Rabbi, master), וַרַב, et multus. In a pause it is written with (ר), רַב. In the plural it assumes dagesh to supply the defect of the absent letter, and becomes רַבִּים.

[130.] קָמִים (ka-ním) surgentes. The nominative plural masculine of קָם, surgens, the Ben. Kal of the verb קָם, surgere, ו being cast off (vid. Gr. p. 85). In the plural it is always taken in a bad sense, for enemies. With affixes, dropping ים, it becomes קָמִי.

[131.] עָלַי (gna-lái) contra me; עַל receives the affixes of nouns plural, and with the light affixes takes (ַ), as עָלֵינוּ, super nos; but with the grave, (vid. Gr. p. 19, note), it takes (-:), as עָלֵיהֶם, super illos.

VERSE 3.

[132.] אֹמְרִים (o-mereem) dicentes. The plural masculine of אָמַר, the Ben. Kal from אָמַר, dixit, vid. No. 89. Accent, Yerach, preceded by Metheg.

[133.] לְנַפְשִׁי (lenaphshee) animæ meæ. From נַפֶּשׁ, the soul, person, or self, as Isaiah, li. 23, that said לְנַפְשִׁי, to thee, Job. xvi. 4, לֹא יֵשׁ נַפְשְׁכֶם תַּחַת נַפְשִׁי, would that you were in my place; and so the word may be considered, Ps. vii. 3, and ii. 1, not to my soul but to me; a noun of the common gender, but generally used in the feminine. In the plural it changes the former (ִ) into (:), and the latter into (ַ), and gives נַפְשֹׁת, animæ; נַפְשִׁים occurs only in Ez. xiii. 20. Before a pause it is נַפֶּשׁ, and before affixes it first changes both (ִ) into (:), and then the former into (-), thus נַפְשִׁי, anima mea. According to Parkhurst נַפֶּשׁ properly signifies a creature that lives by breathing; hence, the animal frame, including the affections and desires. Accent, Merka Mahpachātum.

[134.] אֵין (pronounced ain) non or nulla. This form is used in the continuation of a sentence for אֵין, a negative particle equivalent to לֹא, non, but always implies the substantive verb, and is therefore used only with nouns, pronouns, and participles.

[135.] לֹא יִשְׁעֶתָּה לוֹ (yeshuhatha-llo) non (est) salus ei. From the root יָשַׁע, salvavit, comes the noun feminine יִשְׁעָה, salus, and emphaticè, with the double feminine sign יִשְׁעֶתָּה, no salvation at all, as if alluding to his great wickedness in the matter of Uriah.

[136.] לוֹ (llo) ei; ל is the sign of the dative, and ו the pro-nominal affix, as וְלוֹ, et ei. Here to supply the absence of Mapach, לוֹ has dagesh forte, which is called by the ancient Hebraists מְרַחֵק, atthe-merahhik, i. e. veniens e longinquo, and is one kind of the dagesh euphonic of the moderns.

[137.] בְּאֱלֹהִים (be-lo-heem) in Deo. In the Elohim. A noun plural formed from the singular אֱלֹהִים, Deus, by the exclusion of patach furtivum and the point mappik. This name Elohim is attributed in the Psalms, not only to the Godhead, but also to angels, as in Ps. viii. 6, and even to the great ones of the earth, as in Ps. lxxxii. 1. With the prefixes וּכְלֹב, it has (·), aleph being quiescent, as בְּאֱלֹהִים, for בְּאֱלֹהִים, in Deo, or per Deum. Perhaps from אָלָה, jurare, or from the Arabic أَلِهَ (aliha) colere. “Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, and serve Him, and swear by His name,” Deut. vi. 13.

[138.] סֵלָה (sela). This word occurs above seventy times in the Psalms, and thrice in Habakkuk, always at the end of a sentence, and never in construction. It is derived from סָלַל or סָלַל, to elevate, and was most probably a note of music, or direction to the singers in the Temple to raise their voices or instruments at this period. The LXX. render it by διαψάλμα, which signifies a variation in singing or melody. Bishop Hare says, “Ad cantûs rationem unice spectat.” Gesenius combines סֵלָה, שֵׁלָה, sileo, and thence deriving a substantive סֵלָה, which with ה of direction becoming סֵלָה, ad silentium! he considers as a sign of the pause where the singing ceased and instrumental music began.

VERSE 4.

[139.] מָגֵן (māghēn) clypeus. This is translated by the LXX. ἀντιλήπτωρ μου, susceptor meus, my protector. An heemantic noun, derived from בָּנָה, textit.

[140.] בַּעֲדִי (bahadhi) circa vel pro me. From עָדָה, transit, comes עַד, ad, usque; and in regimen עֲדִי. With the prefix ב, it is בַּעֲדִי, which, with affixes, changes patach into the composite chateph-patach, which therefore points the preceding with patach, (Gr. p. 58), and hence the form בַּעֲדִי. Moderns give the root בַּעֲד compared to the Arabic بَعَدَ, distitit.

[141.] כְּבוֹדִי (kebhodee) gloria mea. From the verb כָּבַד, gravis fuit, comes the noun כְּבוֹד, gloria, which, in regimen and with affixes, changes (ט) into (:) (Gr. p. 56), as in this place. But with a prefix it preserves (ט), as in הַכְּבוֹד, illius gloriæ. Accent, Rebhia-geresh.

[142.] וַיִּמְרִים (oo-mereém) et exaltans; ו, et, is here read וּ, because “it always assumes this form before its cognate labials, ב, מ, פ, and words whose first consonant has (:),” as וַיְדַעַו, Ps. iv. 4; וַיִּמְרִים, in which מִרִים is the Partic. Ben. in Hiphil, from רוּם, altum esse, ו being excluded and compensated by (·), being formed, as מִקִּים, from קָם, surgere. (Vid. Gr. p. 85).

[143.] רֹאשִׁי (rosheé) caput-meum; רֹאשׁ, a noun masculine, caput, initium cujuslibet rei. Plural רִאשִׁים. In this word and four others the plural is marked by (ט), viz., יּוֹם, a day, יָמִים; עִיר, a city, עָרִים; אִנוּשׁ, a (poor) man, אֲנָשִׁים; and בֵּית, a house, בֵּתִים; being probably formed from obsolete nominatives.

VERSE 5.

[144.] קוֹלִי (kolee) voce meâ. For בְּקוֹלִי, in vel cum voce meâ. From קוֹל, vox, sonus, a noun masculine with a plural feminine. It comprises all sounds, even thunder, Greek φωνὴ Διός, vox Jovis. In Ps. xviii. 14, it is found without ו, as קָלוּ, vocem suam; and in Ps. xciii. 4, in the plural feminine with a prefix, as מִקְוִלוֹת, a sonis aquarum.

[145.] אֶקְרָא (ekrá) clamabo, here used for clamabam, implying a habit. The future of Kal. (like אֶמְצֵא, Gr. p. 87), in which the final א quiesces in (ַ). From קָרָא, vocavit, invocavit. In this word the former א stands for the pronoun אֲנִי, ego, and the latter is the radical א, there never being an א servile after any letter which is radical, except the rare case when it stands for ה.

[146.] וַיִּעֲנֵנִי (vay-yahanéni) et exaudiet me, but with ו conversive of the future, et exaudivit me. From עָנָה, incipere loqui, exaudire, &c., which in the future Kal is אֶעֱנֶה, 1st person singular; תֵּעֲנֶה, 2nd person singular; יֵעֲנֶה, 3rd person singular, and with the affix יֵעֲנֵנִי.

[148.] קֹדֶשׁוֹ (kodsho) sanctitatis suæ. Vid. supra, No. 85, and for סֵלָה, vid. No. 138.

VERSE 6.

[149.] שָׁכַבְתִּי (shachábhti) Ego accubui. Pret. Kal, from שָׁכַב, accubuit. Regular, like פָּקַד or לָמַד.

[150.] וַאֲישָׁנָה (va-ishána) et dormivi. Removing ו conversive of the future (which takes (ַ) before a guttural), and ה paragogic, there remains אִישָׁן, the future of Kal, of the verb יָשָׁן, dormivit, in which the first radical י quiesces in (ֿ). The accent is Merka Mapachātum, a disjunctive of the first class (equal to a colon), preceded by the euphonic Metheg.

[151.] הִקְיָצְתִּי (heki-tsó-thi) evigilavi. The 1st person singular pret. of Hiph. from הִקְיָץ, evigilavit, the Hiph. voice of קִיץ, which in the preterite of this voice, and of Niphal generally, takes ו before ת and ב, (·), penult. being shortened into (:) or compound sheva (·:). (Vid. Gr. p. 84).

[152.] יִסְמְכֵנִי (yis-meché-ni) sustentabit me. The 3rd person singular pret. of Kal, from סָמַךְ, sustentavit, with the pronominal affix נִי, me; future יִסְמֹךְ, תִּסְמֹךְ, אִסְמֹךְ; but on account of the affix, ו, the terminal point of the future, changes into (:). (Vid. Gr. p. 79).

VERSE 7.

[153.] אֵירָא (eerá) timebo. The future of Kal, from יָרָא, timuit, which is thus declined; אֵירָא, (in which י quiesces in (·), and א in (·)), תֵּירָא, יִירָא, plural בִּירָא, תִּירָאוּ, &c.

[154.] מֵרִבְבוֹת (me-ribh-bhóth) a myriadibus. A finite number for an indefinite; רִבְבָּהּ, myrias, a myriad, or 10,000, is a noun feminine. In the plural רִבְבוֹת, and in regimen (·) being shortened into (:), and the former (:) being changed into (·), it becomes רִבְבוֹת. Derived from רָבַב, multiplicavit. Accent, Merka.

[155.] עַם (gnam or ham) populi. A noun masculine derived from עָמַם, like אָמַם and לָאָם, implies connexion, assemblage; compare ἄμα, ὅμος, the German sammeln, &c. &c., the Persian ham. With prefixes מֵעַם, e populo; לְעַם, populo; בְּעַם, in populo; וְעַם, et populus; הָעַם, populus ille.

[156.] סָבִיב (sa-bhíbh) circumquaque. This word is properly a noun, signifying circuitus, but taken also adverbially. Derived from סָבַב, circumdedit. Accent, Rebhia-Geresh.

[157.] שָׁתוּ (shá-thu) posuerunt aciem adversus me, as the following עַל implies hostility. The 3rd person plural pret. of Kal, from שָׁתַּת, ponere. The 3rd person singular is שָׁתַּת, posuit, the second radical (ו) being expunged in the preterite of quiescents of the second radical. (Vid. Gr. p. 84). This שְׁתִּי is distinguished from שְׁתִּי (from שְׁתִּי, bibit), merely by the accent.

VERSE 8.

[158.] קוּמָה (koo-ma) surge. Imperative of Kal with ה paragogic, from קוּם, surgere, which is the infinitive Kal, and with the prefix בְּקוּם, in surgendo. The accent is Mahpakh-zarkātum.

[159.] הוֹשִׁיעֵנִי (ho-shi-hē-ni) salvum me fac. The imperative of Hiph., from יָשַׁע, which in Hiph. changes י into יו, and forms הוֹשִׁיעַ, or contracted הוֹשִׁעַ, salva, and with ה paragogic הוֹשִׁיעָה; accent same as last. Affix נִי, me.

[160.] הִכְיֵתָה (hik-keetha) percussisti. From נָכָה, which in Hiph. gives הִכָּה, נ being absorbed by dagesh, and in the 2nd person singular the third radical ה is changed in י quiescent. Accent, Munach inferius.

[161.] אוֹיְבֵי (oyebái) inimicos meos. A participial noun, formed from אוֹיֵב, the Ben. participle of Kal, from אוֹיַב, odit. Sometimes written without ו, thus אוֹיַב; and with the pronominal suffix אוֹיְבֵי, inimici mei.

[162.] לַחִי (le-hhi) maxillá. To strike on or with the cheek-bone was a mark of ignominy, as we read in the history of Samson. The word is לַחִי, but before the pause (א) לַחִי. Derived from לָחַץ, not used as a verb. In the LXX. version, we find here μᾶταις, gratis, sine causá (my enemies without cause), which word may originally have been μάθνας, jaw bones; they having read לַחֲנָם, from חָנַם, gratis, (from חָן, gratia).

[163.] שִׁנָּי (shinnē) dentes. שֵׁן, dens, a noun of the common gender, from שָׁנַן, acuit. In the dual שֵׁנַיִם, on account of the double row of teeth, (·) being changed into (·), and in regimen יָם being changed into (·), it makes שִׁנָּי. Accent, Tipha posterior.

[164.] שִׁבְרָתָּ (shib-bar-ta) penitus confregisti. From שִׁבַּר, fregit, the regular pret. of Pihel, would be שִׁבַּרְתָּ, but before Maccaph, the Gut., and Resh, (-) is generally used instead of (·); hence the forms שִׁבַּר, shibbar; אִבַּד, ibbad. This voice denotes intenseness of action.

VERSE 9.

[165.] לִיהוָה (lai-ho-vah) Yehovæ, vel, ad Yehovam; scilicet, pertinet, vel adscribenda est illa-Salus. The salvation belongs, or is to be ascribed, to the LORD only. LXX. Τοῦ Κυρίου ἡ σωτηρία. To avoid the utterance of this sacred name, the Jews commonly substituted לְאֱלֹהֵי, which has the same points. Accent, Merca following Metheg.

[166.] הַיְשׁוּעָה (ha-yeshoohá) illa-salus. The noun feminine יְשׁוּעָה, salus, prefixed by the emphatic ה, would regularly be הַיְשׁוּעָה, hayyeshoohá, but dagesh is often removed from letters pointed with (:), especially י and ב, for sake of accelerating the pronunciation. Theme יִשַׁע, salvavit. Vid. No. 135.

[167.] עַל־עַמָּה (gnal gnam-mechá) super-populum-tuum. From the root עָמַם, comes the noun masculine עַם, populus. With the royal accents it takes (ר) as עָם. In the plural עַמִּים, populi. Vid. No. 155.

[168.] בְּרַכְתָּהּ (bir-cha-thé-ca) benedictio-tua, noun feminine בְּרַכָּה, benedictio, copia. In regimen, ה being changed into ת (vid. Gr. p. 16), and (ר) into (:), the preceding (:) becomes (·), and hence the word is בְּרַכָּתָּה, scil. Yehovæ; or with an affix בְּרַכְתָּהּ. In plural בְּרַכּוֹת. From בָּרַךְ, genuflexit, the Pih. is בִּרְךָ, to invoke, praise, bless the Deity, because it was usually done kneeling; hence, generally, for any invocation whether for good or bad, or any blessing conferred. Our word broker probably comes from the same source, since the Spanish alboroque (see John Stephens' Span. Dict.), whence it seems to be derived, was the term for the conclusion of a bargain ratified by drink and a blessing.

PSALMUS IV. 7.

VERSE 1.

[169.] לִמְנַצֵּחַ (lá-menat-seahh) Præcentori, vel Archimusico.—Bythner. מְנַצֵּחַ is the participial noun formed from the pihel voice of the verb נָצַח, præfuit, vicit. It is remarkable that this word is very variously rendered by commentators. The LXX. render it by εἰς τὸ τέλος, in finem. The Chaldee paraphrast, “for triumph, or the *Triumph*er.” Aquila, by τῷ Νικηποίῳ, to the victor or Giver of Victory; so also Jerome, victori. The Prophet Habakkuk concludes his prayer, ch. iii. 19, thus, לִמְנַצֵּחַ בְּנִינֹתַי, “to the chief singer on my stringed instruments.”—Common Version. Which Parkhurst would render, “To the Giver of Victory (celebrated) on my stringed instruments.” It is an emphatic form for לְחִמְנַצֵּחַ, but ל excludes the emphatic ה, and dagesh is removed from the shevaed letter.

[170.] בְּנִינֹתַי (bin - ghee - noth) in - instrumentis - pulsatilibus. בְּנִינֹת, the plural form of the noun feminine בְּנִינָה, pulsatio fidium, from נָנַן, pulsare quasi manu. [For מִזְמוֹר, vid. No. 122.]

VERSE 2.

[171.] בִּקְרָאִי (bekor-ee) in-invocando-me, i. e. in-invocatione-meâ. From קָרָא, vocavit, comes the infinitive קָרָא, vocare, which with ב prefixed, and י affixed, gives the gerundial form בִּקְרָאִי, in my calling; and with the affix נִי, קָרָאֵנִי, our calling, i. e. when we call. Accent, Pazer.

[172.] עֲנֵנִי (gnan-e-nee) exaudi-me. From עָנָה (No. 146), comes the imperative of Kal עֲנֵה, in which ה quiesces in (·), and the guttural assumes compound sheva, which properly belongs to gutturals alone. The LXX. seem to have read עֲנֵנִי, in the preterite, for they have rendered it εἰσῆκουσέ με, exaudivit me.

[173.] אֱלֹהֵי צְדָקָי (Elohē-tsidh-kee) Deus justitiæ meæ. From צְדָקָה, justificavit, comes the noun masculine צְדָקָה, justitia, veritas, which with the affix י changes both segols into (·), and the former again into (·), and makes צְדָקִי. The accent of אֱלֹהֵי is Mahpach-zarkātum, a conjunctive. [For בְּצֵר, vid. No. 128.]

[174.] הִרְחַבְתָּ לִּי (hir-hhābh-ta-lee) dilatationem-fecisti-mihi. The pret. of Hiphil, from רָחַב, ampliatu est, for the heart is enlarged in joy. Accent, Munach inferius.

[175.] לִּי (lee) mihi. Dative of the pronoun אֲנִי, ego. For the dagesh, see No. 136.

[176.] חֲנֹנִי (hhon-né-nee) miserere-mei. The imperative of Kal is חֲנֹן, and by syncope חֲן. On account of the affix it takes dagesh, and changes cholem into kamets chateph, which gives חֲנִי. The imperative is formed like סֶבֶב, from סָבַב. (Vid. Gr. p. 90).

[177.] וּשְׁמַע (oo-shemáng) et audi. The imperative of Kal from שָׁמַע, audivit. Obs. ו for י before a shevaed letter. The imperative is thus declined שְׁמַע, feminine שְׁמַעִי; plural שְׁמַעוּ. Hence Isaiah, liii. 1, “who hath given credit לְשִׁמְעֵתֵנוּ, to our report,” which is rendered in the N. T. by τῇ ἀκοῇ ἡμῶν, to our hearing, i. e. the word of the Gospel. John, xii. 38, and Rom. x. 16.

[178.] תְּפִלָּתִי (tephil-la-thee) orationem vel supplicationem meam. תְּפִלָּה is an heemantiv noun formed from פָּלַל, judicavit de causa vel lite. It implies intercession through a Mediator. In the plural תְּפִלוֹת, preces.

VERSE 3.

[179.] בְּנֵי־אִישׁ (bēne-esh) fili viri. Ye sons of the illustrious man, perhaps of Saul; for such is the force of the word אִישׁ, equivalent to vir in Latin, quasi a virtute. Observe also אָדָם equivalent to homo, and אָנָשׁ, a low or mean person (vid. supra, No. 2). From בֶּן, filius, comes the plural בָּנִים, and in regimen בְּנֵי. Th. בָּנָה, cedificavit.

[180.] עַד־מָה (gnad-mé) usquequo. עַד is a particle of time; and מָה, an interrogative pronoun; it is used also in the forms מַה and מֶה, see above לָמָּה. [For כְּבוֹדִי, see No. 141].

[181.] לְכַלְמָה (lich-lím-ma) in ignominiam vertetis. כַּלְמָה is a noun feminine formed from כָּלַם, the Niphal voice of פָּלַם not in use, puduit, erubuit. From this noun the Latin calumniā seems to be derived. The LXX. having translated this passage ὡς πότε βαρυστάδεσσι; ἰνατί, &c., seem to have read כְּבוֹדִי, graves, and לֵב לָמָּה, probably from the error of a transcriber in the copy which they used. An ellipse of some such verb as הִתְנַחֵם, which must be supplied in this sentence before the word כְּבוֹדִי, is not seldom in Hebrew, and we shall have some more to take notice of in these Psalms. In his Lehrgebäude, p. 851, Gesenius supposes the word תִּכְבֹּא to be understood, Ps. iii. 9; upon thy people come thy blessing.

[182.] תִּהְיֶה בְּיָדֶיךָ (te-chá-bhoon) diligetis, רִיק, inane (No. 54). The 2nd person plural masculine future of Kal, from אָהַב, dilexit; in the 1st person singular of the future, the radical א is usually dropped, lest two alephs should come together (vid. Gr. p. 41). ׀ paragogic being added to verbs ending in ׀, points the preceding second radical with a long vowel. The opposite to this verb is שָׂנְאָה, odio habuit.

[183.] תִּבְחָשׁוּ (tebhak-keshoo) studiose-quæretis. The 2nd person plural future of Pihel, which implies intensity. From בִּקֵּשׁ, quæsivit, which is not used. Future of Pih. אִבְקֵשׁ, inquiram. This is the reading of Stephens in this place; other editions have not the dagesh.

[184.] פִּזֹּב (ca-zábh) mendacium. A noun masculine from פִּזַּב, of which the participle of Kal occurs, Ps. cxvi. 11. In Pih. (and Niph. Hiph.), this verb is used of deception, telling lies, not in Kal, and it is a wrong supposition, that in that passage David meant all men to be liars; he merely says, “I said in my haste,” (not כָּל־אָדָם all men, but) “כָּל־הָאָדָם, the whole of man” is “פִּזֹּב,” a vanishing, transient being, without any better part in him. Still more unwarrantable and harsh does our English version make Jeremiah (xv. 18) say to God, wilt thou be altogether unto me like a liar, whilst the Prophet himself explains his own meaning, “waters that fail;” אֲכֹזֵב signifying a vanishing brook which mocks the longing traveller in the desert. The words, which in Scripture correspond to liar, are כָּחַשׁ, Is. xxx. 9; אִישׁ פִּזֹּב, Prov. xix. 22; דִּבֵּר פִּזֹּב, Ps. v. 6; דִּבֵּר שֶׁקֶר, Ps. lxxiii. 12; דִּבֵּר שֶׁקֶרִים, Ps. ci. 7; שֶׁקֶר is a lie, which stands for him that utters it, only Prov. xvii. 4.

VERSE 4.

[185.] וְדַעַי (oo-dhehoo) Quin scitote. The imperative of Kal, from יָדַע, scivit, which, like most verbs beginning with י, drops י in the imperative and infinitive of Kal. When the third radical is a guttural, the infinitive ends in ת, not תּ, as יָדַעַת, scire. In Hithpahal it changes י into ו, as הִתְדַּעַו, הִתְדַּעַוָה, (vid. Gr. p. 42).

[186.] הִפְלָה (hiph-lá) segregavit. The 3rd person singular pret. of Hiphil, in which ה final quiesces in (ו), from the unused פִּלְהָ, divisit, separavit. Whence the LXX. have rendered it by ἰθαυμάστωσι, mirabilem fecit.

[187.] חֲסִיד-לֹ (hhascedh-lo) pium sibi, i. e. to his own glory. A noun masculine חֲסִיד, pious, beneficus, and in relation to God, one who hath received a benefit from Him. From חֶסֶד, miserecordia, &c.; plural חֲסִידִים, mercies. Hence also, חֲסִידָה, noun feminine, the name of a bird, supposed to be the stork, from the account given by naturalists of its affectionate nature. Gr. στοργή, from ἔστοργα, perfect middle of στέργω, amo, desidero.

[188.] יִשְׁמַע (yishmáng) exaudiet. 3rd person singular future of Kal, אֶשְׁמַע, audiam, from the root שָׁמַע, audivit. Accent, Rebhia Geresh.

[189.] בִּקְרָאֵי אֵלָיו (beköree-elav) in-clamando-me ad-eum. From the root קָרָא, vocavit, scil. ב, in, קָרָא, vocare, and י, me; as the letters of the technical word בִּכְלָם placed before the infinitive form the Hebrew Gerunds. [For a full account of אֵלָיו, see No. 77].

VERSE 5.

[190.] רִגְזוּ (righ-zoo) contremiscite. 2nd person plural imperative of Kal, from רָגַז, horruit, tremuit. It signifies especially the tremor arising from anger, and hence the LXX. have rendered it by ὀργίζεσθαι, irascimini.

[191.] וְאַל (ve-al) et-ne. אַל, ne, a particle signifying discouragement. It is generally prefixed to futures, and when doubled implies deprecation.

[192.] תִּחְטְאוּ (te-hhe-tá-oo) peccetis. From חָטָא, a scopo erravit, he erred from the mark, and hence he sinned, comes the future of Kal אֶחְטָא, peccabo, in which א final quiesces in (ַ), and the guttural assumes (׃), and therefore punctuates the preceding letter with (·), Gr. p. 58. In the 2nd person plural, on account of the accent Merca Mahpachatum, א is preceded by (τ) for the regular form—

תַּחֲמֹאוּ תַּחֲמֹאוּ

[193.] אַמְרוּ (im-roo) cogitate. 2nd person plural imperative of Kal, אַמְר, dic, in which the guttural takes compound sheva as usual; from אָמַר, dixit.

[194.] בִּלְבַבְכֶּם (bhil-bhabh-chem) in-corde vestro; scil. ב, in, לְבַב, cor, and כֶּם, the grave affix, vester. See Gram. p. 19, note 1. “As (·) penultimate, in every final augment and regimen, is shortened into (:),” and “(τ) ultimate, before the grave affixes, and in regimen, changes into (-),” לְבַב becomes in this place לְבַב, whence the form above. Note, dagesh lene is omitted from ב, in, because the (·) under ל is derived from (·); and from כ in כֶּם, being never placed in this affix.

[196.] וְדַמּוּ (ve-dhómmoo) et-tacete. The 2nd person plural imperative of Kal, syncopated for דַּמְמוּ, from דָּמַם, siluit.

VERSE 6.

[197.] זָבַחְוּ (zibh-hhoo) sacrificate. 2nd person plural of זָבַח, the imperative of Kal from זָבַח, pecudes-mactavit. This verb is used in Kal, signifying to sacrifice to the true God; but in Pihel usually to idols.

[198.] זָבַחֵי (zibh-ché) sacrificia, scil. justitiæ. In regimine for זָבַחֵי the plural of זָבַח, victima, a noun masculine. The (τ) is shortened into (:), and the previous (·) becomes (·). [For צָדִיק, see No. 173]. LXX. Θύσατε θυσίαν δικαιοσύνης.

[199.] וְבִטְחוּ (oo-bhit-lhoo) et-confidite. 2nd person plural imperative of Kal, בִּטַּח, from the verb בִּטַּח, fidit.

VERSE 7.

[200.] יִרְאֶה (yar-é-noo) videre-faciet. Future of Hiph. הִרְאָה, which being used with an affix, ה radical is excluded. From רָאָה, vidit. Accent, Yerahh.

[201.] טוֹב (tóbh) bonum. An adjective bonus; also as a substantive bonum and bonitas, goodness. For רַבִּים, see No. 129, and for אֲמָרִים, No. 132.

[202.] נִסְחֵ-עֲלֵינוּ (nesa-gnalēnoo) eleva super-nos. נִסַּח, the imperative of Kal, from נָשָׂא, levavit, in which נ quiesces in (י), but here ש is changed into ס, and נ into ה. Sometimes it also loses the initial נ, as in וְשָׂא, et tolle, plural שִׂאוּ, attollite, Ps. xxv. 18, and xxiv. 7. The LXX. have rendered it ἡρῶμεν, deriving it perhaps from נֶסֶם, vexillum. For עֲלֵינוּ, see No. 131.

[203.] אוֹר (ōr) lucem. Lux, splendor, ideoque lætitia, feminine אֹרֶה. Plural אֹרִים, lucēs, i. e. luminaria. Accent, Tiphkha anterior.

[204.] פָּנֶיךָ (pa-né-cha) facierum tuarum. Vid. No. 125. פָּנִים, facies, in regimen פָּנֶי. With the light affixes it retains (י), as פָּנֶיךָ, vultus tuus; but with the grave it shortens it into (י), as in לְפָנֵיהֶם, in faciebus eorum, Ps. lxix. 23.

VERSE 8.

[205.] נָתַתָּ (na-thát-ta) dedisti. With ה paragogic, for נָתַתָּ, 2nd person singular pret. of Kal from נָתַן, dedit, a verb of special irregularity, which sometimes drops both the former and latter נ, as in the infinitive of Kal נָתַת for נָתַתָּ. Vid. Gr. pp. 45, 46.

[206.] שִׂמְחָה (sim-hhá) letitiam. A noun feminine from שִׂמַּח, letari. In regimen שִׂמְחָת, and in plural שִׂמְחוֹת.

[207.] בְּלִבִּי (bhelib-bee) in-corde-meo, i. e. בִּי, in, לֵב, cor, contracted for לִבָּב, (vid. No. 194), and י, meus. In the plural לִבּוֹת, corda, dagesh being compensative for the lost ב. [For עֵת, tempus, see No. 30].

[208.] דֶּגָּנָם (deg-ha-nám) frumentum-eorum. From the noun masculine, דֶּגָּן, frumentum, a general term for all kinds of corn. It has no plural. In regimen the former (ד) is shortened into (ד:), and the latter into (-), as דֶּגָּן-שָׂמִים, frumentum calorum. With the affix the former (ד) is also changed into (ד:) as in this place דֶּגָּנָם. Accent, Tiphkha posterius.

[209.] וְתִירוֹשׁ (vethee-ro-shám) et mustum eorum. תִּירוֹשׁ, mustum, seu vinum novum, an heemantiv noun, formed from יָרַשׁ, possedit, either because it is part of the possessions of man, or as Buxtorf says, because it takes possession of man. [For רָבוּ, see No. 127.] This verse is to be understood thus: “Thou hast given gladness into my heart, מֵעַתָּה, more than the time (i. e. more than they had at the time when) their corn and wine were plentiful.” To supply the ellipse in Hebrew, the verse would require four words instead of the one מֵעַתָּה, namely, גְּדוּלַּת מִשְׁמַחָתָם בְּעֵת אֲשֶׁר.

VERSE 9.

[210.] בְּשָׁלוֹם (besha-lóm) in-pace; שָׁלוֹם, pax, a noun masc. plural, שָׁלוֹמִים. From שָׁלַם, pacem colere; also in Pihel שָׁלַם, perficere, complere, rependere.

[211.] יַחְדָּו (yahh-dáv) pariter. From יַחַד, simul, una, and sometimes with י interposed, יַחְדָּי, in which form it is found but thrice in the Scriptures. Accent, Zarka.

[212.] אִשְׁכַּבְּהָ (esh-kebhà) accubabo. LXX. κοιμηθήσομαι. The future of Kal with ה paragogic, from שָׁכַב, cubuit, jacuit. [וְאִישָׁן, et dormiam, future of Kal from יָשָׁן, dormivit, which see in No. 150. Accent, Merka mahpachātum, a greater disjunctive].

[213.] לִבְדָּד (lebha-dád) solum. From בָּדַד, unicus fuit, comes the noun masculine בְּדָד, solitudo. LXX. κατὰμόνας.

[214.] לְבִטָּח (la-bhe-tahh) in-fiducia; בְּטָח, fiducia, a noun masculine without a plural from בָּטַח, fidit. It is taken adverbially with the prefix ל, which takes (־) before a penacute dissyllable. LXX. ἐλπίδι.

[215.] הוֹשִׁיבֵנִי (to-shee-bhé-nee) facies-habitare-me, 2nd person singular future of Hiph. from יָשַׁב, No. 13, the first radical being changed into ה. (Vid. Gr. p. 81). Accents, Metheg, and Sylluk before Soph-pasuk.

P S A L M U S V. ה.

VERSE 1.

[216.] אֶל־הַנְּחִילֹת (el-hannechee-loth). “Forsan, super instrumentis pneumaticis quæ perforari (חלל), solent.”—Bythner. Accordingly, it would stand for נְחִילֹת; an opinion still supported by the Moderns. From the same root, also חֲלִיל, a pipe, is derived. But the LXX. and others render it ὑπὲρ τῆς κληρονομώσης, “for her who hath obtained the inheritance,” i.e. the Church. It would thereby be derived from בָּחַל, possedit. It does not occur again in the Scriptures.

VERSE 2.

[217.] אָמַרִי (ama-rái) verba-mea. A noun masculine אָמַר, dictum, verbum, from אָמַר, dixit. Plural אָמַרִים, formed by changing ו into (-:), and (·) into (·). In regimen אָמַרִי; with the affix אָמַרִי; also a noun feminine אָמַרָה, plural אָמַרוֹת

[218.] הָאָזִינָה (ha-azee-nah) percipe-auribus. From the noun אָזֶן, auris, is formed a verb in Hiphil הָאָזִין, of which this is the imperative, with ה paragogic, and (-:) under the guttural. Plural הָאָזִינוּ. Accents, Munahh after Metheg.

[219.] בִּינָה (bee-na) intellige. Imperative of Kal from בִּין or בִּין, intelligere. In Hiph. הִבִּינֵנִי, make, or cause me to understand.

[220.] הִגִּי (haghee-ghee) meditationem-meam. A noun masculine הִגָּה, meditatio, formed from the verb הִגָּה, vid. No. 19, by doubling the second radical, and casting away the third. LXX. κραυγῆς μου, clamorem meam. הִגִּי probably implies fervour, from a root הִגָּה, which in Arabic signifies to burn.

VERSE 3.

[221.] הִקְשִׁיבָה (hak-shee-bha) attende. Imperative of Hiph. with ה paragogic, from the root קָשַׁב, aurem advertit. audis

[222.] שָׁוְעִי (shav-hee) clamoris-mei. Regularly שָׁוַע, but on account of the affix, (·) being changed into (-:), and (-) into (-:), the former (-:) is changed into (-), hence שָׁוְעִי, from שָׁוַע, in Pihel שָׁוַע, clamavit.

[223.] אֶתְפַּלֵּל (eth-pal-lal) orabo. From פָּלַל, oravit, in hith-pahel, se judicavit, oravit se judicando. It takes (·) on account of the pause.

VERSE 4.

[224.] בִּקֶּר (bó-ker) manè. From בִּקֶּר, quæsit, as “that may then be sought for, which lay concealed because of the dark.” Gesenius assigns to בִּקֶּר, its Arabic meaning, splitting, cleaving, hence in both languages בִּקֶּר, (ploughing) cattle; (compare the Latin armentum for aramentum); as also, the word under consideration, בִּקֶּר, morning, day-break, when day and light break forth. [For תִּשְׁמַע, see No. 188, and for קוֹלִי, No. 144].

[225.] אֶעֱרֶה (e-heroch) disponam, scil. preces. The future of Kal of the verb עֲרָה, both active and neuter. Activè, disponere, instruere. Neutraliter, æstimari, in which latter it seems to be derived from עֲרָה, pretium.

[226.] לְחִי (lechá) tibi. Dative singular from אָתָּה, tu. It seems to be compounded of ל, the sign of the dative case, and חִי, the affix. Before a pause לְחִי, the points being transposed. In the plural לְכֶם, vobis. Accent, Rebhia Geresh.

[227.] וְאֶצְפֶּה (va-atsappé) et-speculabor. The future of Pih. in which ה quiesces in (◌), and ו is pointed with (◌) because of the following compound sheva. From צָפַה, speculatus est, oculos animum-que intendit. Accents, Metheg, and Sylluk before Soph-pasuk.

VERSE 5.

[228.] אֵל (el) Deus. From אֵיל, fortis, and by elision of י, אֵל, fortitudo, potentia. In the plural אֱלִים, fortes, i. e. angeli, et principes.

[229.] חָפֵץ (cha-phéts) volens. Ben. Kal of the same form, with the 3rd person singular pret. of Kal, חָפֵץ, voluit, from which it can only be distinguished by the sense.

[230.] רָשַׁע (ré-shang) impietatem. A noun masculine from רָשַׁע, see No. 7. The accent of this with the previous word forms Merca-zarkātum מֶרְעָא.

[231.] יִגְרֶה (ye-ghoorchá). 3rd person sing. future of Kal, from גָּר, incoluit (of the form of קָוִים, Gr. p. 85), with the affix הָ, tecum. גָּרְהִי is the same as עָמְדָה, or אָמְדָה, so in Ps. cxx. 5, גָּרְהִי מִשֶּׁשֶּׁה, I have lived (with) Mesech.

[232.] רָע (ráng) malum. A noun masculine concrete (also רָע), malus, and abstract, malum. From רָעָה, malum esse. The LXX. took it in the concrete sense, πονηροῦμενος.

VERSE 6.

[233.] יִתְצַבּוּ הוֹלְלִים (yith-yat's'bhoo ho-leleem) non consistent vesani. For יִצַּב, see No. 55; הוֹלְלִים, plural masculine of the Ben. Kal, from הָלַל, insanivit, gloriatus est. Accent, Tiphha antierius.

[234.] לִנְגַד (lené-ghedh) coram. From נָגַד, coram, לְ pleonastic being prefixed.

[235.] עֵינַי (gne-né-cha) oculis-tuis; עֵין, oculus, before a pause changes (-) into (ר). In regimen, from the affix and dual number (-) and (·) are contracted into (·), thus עֵין. In the dual it gives עֵינַי, oculi (before a pause עֵינַי). In regimen, יֵ is changed into י, as עֵינַי, oculi Yehovæ, &c. עֵין is feminine, like all members of the animal body which nature has made double; one exception in the Kéthibh, Cant. iv. 7, בַּאֲחֶה, the Kéri has changed into בַּאֲחֶה, making it conform to the rule. Vid. No. 254.

[236.] שָׂנְאָה (sa-né-tha) odisti. The pret. of Kal, 2nd person singular, from שָׂנֵא, odio habuit, א quiesces in (·). Accent, Rebhia-Geresh.

[237.] פְּעָלִי (po-halé) operantes. Ben. Kal plural masculine in regimen, for פְּעָלִים, from פָּעַל, fecit. From this verb the names of the voices, Niphal, Pihel, Hiphil, &c. are borrowed; formerly it served also for a general paradigm, but has by modern Grammarians been discharged from this office, on account of the dagesh forte required by three conjugations, which is inadmissible in ע, besides the uncertain pronunciation of this letter; also פ has the inconvenience of requiring a dagesh lene in certain positions.

[238.] אָוֶן (áven) iniquitatem. LXX. ἀνομίαν. “Ex metricâ liquet vocem hanc semper esse monosyllabam.”—Bishop Hare. Scil. on, seu awen. With affixes אֹנִי אֹנֶה, &c., this word actually resembles the word אֹנִי, riches, power, manly vigour, with which it must not be confounded.

VERSE 7.

[239.] תֵּאבֹד (teab-bédh) perdes. 2nd person singular future of Pihel, perdes; for in that voice it has an active signification, אֵבֹד, perdidit, perire-fecit; but in Kal, neuter, אָבֹד, perit.

[240.] דְּבָרִי (do-bheré) loquentes, i. e. locutores. Nominative plural masculine in regimen, of the Ben. Kal, from דָּבַר, locutus est. Accents, Yerahh, following Methcg. [For כָּזָב (ca-zábh) mendacium. Noun mas. from כָּזַב, see No. 184. Accent, Merca-Mahpachātum].

[241.] אִישׁ־דָּמִים (cesh da-meem) virum sanguinum, i. e. sanguinolentum. From אָדָם, rubuit, comes דָּם, sanguis; plural דָּמִים, sanguines.

[242.] וּמִרְמָה (oo-mir-má) et doli, i. e. dolosum. A heemantiv noun feminine, from רָמָה, jecit, projecit. In plural מִרְמוֹת, fraudes. The LXX. translate it, καὶ πικρίας, et amaritudine; perhaps they read מִרְרָה, bitterness.

[243.] יִתְעַב (ye-tha-héb) abominabitur. Fut. of Pihel from תַּעֲב, abominatus est, scil. visu vel alio sensu. Observe, this form יִתְעַב, does not admit the characteristic dagesh, as the middle radical is a guttural, although the vowel before ע does not, on that account, always become long, thus Deut. vii. 26, וְהָיָה הַתַּעֲבָנִי, we find ת remaining both times. Accent, Mahpahh-zarkātum.

VERSE 8.

[244.] בְּרֹב (berobh) in multitudine; רֹב, copia, multitudo; a noun masculine, from רָבַב, copiosum esse.

[245.] חֲסָדָה (hhas-dechá) misericiordiæ-tuæ. Formed from the noun masculine, חֶסֶד, miserecordia, benignitas. With the affix הָ, both (·) being changed into (:), and the former again into (-), the compound becomes חֲסָדָה. In the plural it makes חֲסָדִים, and in regimen חֲסָדֵי. Accent, Tiphhha antierius.

[246.] אָבֹא (a-bhó) introibo. The future of Kal (ו being omitted sometimes, thus אָבֹא), from בָּוֹא, venire, ingredi. Accent, Munahh inferius.

[247.] בֵּיתָה (be-thé-cha). From בֵּית, domus, which in regimen and with affixes contracts both vowels into (·), as בֵּיתָה, domus tua; עַד-בֵּית אֱלֹהִים, usque-ad domum Domini. From בֵּית, pernoctari; or we derive בֵּית from בֵּית, and this from בָּנָה, ædificavit.

[248.] אֶשְׁתַּחֲוֶה (esh-ta-hha-vé) incurvabo-me. Future of Hithp. from שָׁחָה, incurvatus, humiliatus est. As the first radical is one of the sibilant letters, it is transposed with the preformant ת, for euphony (vid. Gr. p. 27, Note b). This verb assumes in Hithp. ו before the final ה, and omits dagesh from the second radical as it is a guttural. Accent, Merka, following Metheg.

[249.] אֶל-הַיְּכָל (el-he-chal) in templo; יְכָל, a noun masculine, signifying a temple, tabernacle, or royal palace. In regimen it changes (·) into (-). In the plural יְכָלִים, whence in regimen יְכָלֵי, (·) being changed into (:). [For קִדְּשָׁה, vid. No. 85, and for פִּירָאָה, No. 110].

VERSE 9.

[250.] נָחֵהְנִי (nehhe-nee). Imperative of Kal, from נָחָה, duxit, with the affix נִי; contracted for נִיחָהְנִי. Accent, Munach superius.

[251.] בְּצִדְקָתָהּ (bhetsidh-kathé-cha) in-justitiâ-tuâ. From צִדְקָה, justificavit, comes the noun feminine צִדְקָה, justitia. With the affix it changes ה into ת, (τ) penult. into (:), and the former (:) into (·). In the plural צִדְקוֹת.

[252.] לְמַעַן (lemá-han) propter. מַעַן, is an indeclinable word, always formed with the adjunct ל. With a verb it signifies ut, as לְמַעַן תִּצְדַּק, ut justificeris. Probably derived from עָנָה, respondit, as if “answering to a cause.”

[253.] שׁוֹרְרִי (sho-rerái) inimicos-meos. From שָׁרַר, intuitus est, observavit, comes the Ben. Kal שׁוֹרֵר, observator, which is always taken in a bad sense. It is used in the Psalms with the affix י, only, as here; and before a pause with (τ), as שׁוֹרְרִי, Ps. xxvii. 11.

[254.] הוֹשֵׁר (hav-shár) dirige. From יָשַׁר, rectus, planus fuit, comes הוֹשֵׁר, in Hiph. י being changed into ר. It takes (-) in the last syllable in place of (·), which, gutturals, or ר when final, reject; and ו instead of י. The mark (o) refers to the marginal reading, הוֹשֵׁר, which takes the same vowel points. This is called the קְרִי, Këri, read; and the text, the כְּתִיב, Kethîbh, written. Vid. Gr. p. 102. [For לִפְנֵי, see No. 204].

[255.] דַּרְכָּךְ (dar-ké-cha) viam-tuam. From דָּרַךְ, via, which with the affix changes both segols into (:), and the former (:) into (-).

VERSE 10.

[256.] בְּפִיהוּ (bephee-hoo) in-ore-ejus. Scil. ב, in, פִּי, ore, הוּ, ejus. From פֶּה, os, oris, the interior cavity of the mouth. In regimen, and with affixes it changes ה into י, as מִפִּי עוֹלָלִים, ex-ore parvulorum, Ps. viii. 3. Accent, Pazer.

[257.] נֶכֶחָה (necho-ná) recta via; scil. יָדָה, i.e. rectum, rectitude, “veritas firmata.” The feminine singular and plural are used like the neuter singular and plural in Latin, or “thing,” “things,” in English, to express something general, not tangible; נִכְוֶה, any thing proper; גְּדִלוֹת, Ps. xii. 4, magna, great things; Ps. xxvii. 4, אֶחָת, one thing; אוֹתָהּ, the same thing. The masculine plural is seldom applied in the same manner, it occurs, e.g. Prov. viii. 6, בְּגִידִים, honestia, nobilia. It is the participle in Niphal, נִכְוֶן; in the feminine (י) being changed into (י), נִכְוֶה; from כוֹן, aptum vel stabilis esse, cholem quiescing in י. LXX. ἀλῆθεια.

[258.] קִרְבָּם (kir-bám) intimum eorum. From קָרַב, appropinquavit, comes קִרְבִּי, pars interior, quæ aliis appropinquat. With affixes, both (י) are first shortened into (י), and then the former (י) into (י), which with the affix ים, their, them, gives קִרְבָּם.

[259.] חֲוִית (hav-voth) pravitates. The plural of the noun feminine חֲוָה, accidens seu eventus malus, from חָוָה, fuit. This passage the LXX. render ἡ καρδία αὐτῶν ματαία, cor eorum vanum est. Accents, Merka Mahpachātum, disjunctive major.

[260.] קִבֵּר (ké-bher) sepulchrum. A noun masculine from קָבַר, sepelivit. Accent, Metheg, because of Maccaph which connects this word with the next in respect of accent.

[261.] פָּתוּחַ (pa-thoó-ahh) semper patens. The participle pahul of Kal from פָּתַח, aperuit. Accent, Merka.

[262.] גִּרְנָם (gero-nám) guttur-eorum. An heemantiv noun masculine, גִּרְנִי, guttur, from גָּרַח, attraxit, excitavit. With the affix it changes (י) into (י), and gives גִּרְנִי, guttur meum; גִּרְנָם, guttur eorum. Some derive it from גָּרַר, succidit, ruminavit; but since with affixes it changes (ר) into (:), it is of the form רָצוֹן from רָצָה. Besides if it were from בָּרַר, kamets would remain immutable, since it would include dagesh compensative for בָּרוֹן.

[263.] לִשְׁוֹנָם (lesho-nám), for בְּלִשְׁוֹנָם, in-lingua-eorum. Scil. ב, in, לִשְׁוֹן, lingua (common gender), ם, eorum. In plural feminine לִשְׁוֹנוֹת. Accent, Rebhia Geresh.

[264.] יַחֲלִיקוֹן (ya-hhalee-koon). Future of Hiph. plural, with ך paragogic, from חָלַק, lubricum-reddidit. LXX. δολοῖσαν, dolosè agebant. Accents, Metheg and Sylluk.

VERSE 11.

[265.] הֶאֱשִׁימֵם (ha-ashee-mém) desola-eos. The imperative of Hiph. from אָשַׁם, vastavit. In Hiph. הֶאֱשִׁימֵם, and in the imperative, and with the affix ם, הֶאֱשִׁימֵם. Accent, kadma, a conjunctive, preceded by Metheg and followed by Pesik.

[266.] אֱלֹהִים (Elo-heem) O Deus. See No. 137.

[267.] יִפְּלוּ (yip-peloo) decidant. The future of Kal, the first radical נ being changed into dagesh; from נָפַל, cecidit, accidit, ruit, decidit e loco vel statu superiore melioreque. Vid. No. 370, וַיִּפֹּל.

[268.] מִפְּעֻלֵּיהֶם (mim-mo-hatso-the-hém) a consiliis-suis. From פָּעַל, consuluit, by changing ם into ם, comes the heemantiv noun feminine מִפְּעֻלָּהּ, consilium, but it is read only in the plural, as מִפְּעֻלוֹת. Accents, Metheg, Yerahh, and Merka Mapachātum.

[269.] פִּשְׁעֵיהֶם (pish-he-hém) prævaricationum-eorum. A noun masculine פֶּשַׁע, defectus, from פָּשַׁע, transgressus est. In the singular, with affixes it changes (ר) and (ר) into (:), and again the former (:) into (ר), as in פֶּשַׁעִי, defectio mea; פֶּשַׁעִים, eorum. In the plural (ר) is changed into (ר), and (ר) into (:), as in פֶּשַׁעִים, which with the light affixes retains (ר), but with the grave shortens it into (:), as in פֶּשַׁעִים, defectiones meæ. Accent, Tiphkha antierius.

[270.] הִדְּיָמוּ (had-dee-hhé-mo) expelle-eos. LXX. ἔξωσον αὐτούς. The imperative of Hiph. נ being changed into dagesh. From נִדָּה, impulit, expulit. Here occurs the poetical affix מוּ instead of ׁם, eos, them.

[271.] פִּירְמוּ (kee má-roo) quoniam rebellaverunt. 3rd person plural preterite of Kal, of the verb מָרָה, rebellis fuit, mutavit verba; amarum reddidit, in which latter it approaches to מָרַר, amarus fuit. LXX. παρῆκανάν σε, from πικραίνω, amaritudinem affero, to cause bitterness or dissatisfaction to a person.

[272.] בָּךְ (bhách) contra-te. Scil. ב, in, ך, te, from whence בָּךְ, in te, and with ה paragogic בָּכָה; but before a pause the points being transposed, it becomes בָּךְ.

VERSE 12.

[273.] וַיִּשְׂמְחוּ (veyis-mehhoo) et lætabuntur. From שָׂמַח, lætatus est, comes אֲשַׁמֵּחַ, lætabor, the future of Kal, and with ה paragogic אֲשַׁמְּחָה. [For חוֹסִי, see No. 120].

[274.] לְעוֹלָם (leho-lám) in-sæculum; עוֹלָם, ævum, is derived from עָלַם, abscondit, because the future ages are hidden from us. It is attributed indiscriminately to future as well as past time, from whence, perhaps, the Latin olim. When spoken of the Jubilee, it stands for fifty years.

[275.] יִרְנְנוּ (yeran-né-noo) præconia-canent. The 3rd person plural future of Pih. which is רָנַן, from רָנַן, exclamavit præ lætitiâ. Future of Pih. אֲרַנֵּן, and in the 3rd person plural, (:) being changed into (·) before a pause, it is יִרְנְנוּ for יִרְנְנוּ.

[276.] וְתִסֶּה (vetha-séch) et-operire-facies. LXX. καὶ κατασκηνώσεις ἐν αὐτοῖς, et habitabis in eis; having borrowed the signification from סוּה, tabernaculum. From סָכַךְ, operuit, comes by syncopating the second radical, the Hiphil הִסִּיף, operire fecit, and 2nd person הִסִּיפְתָּ, &c. [עֲלִימוֹ, from עַל, super, לוֹ, illos].

[277.] וַיַּעֲלִצּוּ (veyah-letsoo) et-exultabunt. 3rd person plural future of Kal, from עֲלָץ, laetatus fuit, exultavit. The 1st person singular future of Kal, is אֶעֱלֹץ, for אֶעֱלִצָּה from אֶעֱלֹץ, in which (·) loses (:) on account of the following sheva. So (·) in the 3rd person plural וַיַּעֲלִצּוּ, loses its (·), and sometimes its (-) making וַיַּעֲלִצּוּ and וַיַּעֲלִצּוּ.

[278.] אֲהַבִּי (o-habbé) amantes. From אָהַב, or אָהַבְתָּ, amavit, comes אָהַבְתָּ, Ben. Kal, which in the plural, by changing (·) into (·) becomes אֲהַבִּים, in regimen אֲהַבִּי, diligentes nomen tuum. Accent, Merca after Metheg.

[279.] שְׁמֶךָ (shemé-cha) nomen-tuum; שֵׁם, nomen, is a noun masculine, perhaps from the Syriac שָׁמִי, nominavit. With affixes it always changes (·) into (:), but previously into (·) if another (·) follows, as בְּשֵׁמִי, in-nomine-meo; שְׁמֶךָ, nomen tuum, and with a pause שְׁמֶךָ. In the plural by a feminine form שְׁמוֹת, and with affixes, by changing (·) into (:), שְׁמוֹתֶךָ, nomina-eorum.

VERSE 13.

[280.] תְּבַרְכֶּךָ (tebha-réch) benedices. 2nd person singular future of Pihel, for תְּבַרְכֶּךָ, the excluded dagesh being compensated by (·), from בָּרַךְ; in Pihel בִּרְךָ or בִּרְךָ, benedixit. Future אֲבַרְכֶּךָ, for אֲבַרְכֶּךָ. When used in reference to God, it is taken both actively and passively, thus, He blessing us with His gifts, and we blessing Him for His gifts. See No. 168.

[281.] כַּעֲנָה (cat-tsin-ná) sicut-scuto; הּ emph. being excluded by כּ, sicut; צִנְהָ, spina, a thorn, but more frequently scutum, probably, from the projection in the centre. From the unused

צָנָן, frigescere, in allusion to the piercing nature of cold. Gesenius makes one meaning of צָנָן equivalent to גָּנָן, whence צִנְהָ, a shield, scutum, which covered the whole body. The צִנְהָ was different from the מָגֵן, as appears from Ps. xxxv. 2. Apprehende מָגֵן וְצִנְהָ, clypeum et scutum; and also larger. 1 Kings, x. 16, 17, “Solomon made צִנְהָ, targets, and מִגְנֵי, shields.”

[282.] רָצוֹן (ra-tson) benevolentia. A noun masculine heem. from רָצָה, benevolus fuit. In regimen and with affixes רָצוֹן.

[283.] תַּעֲמֹרְנִי (tah-teren-noó) coronabis-eum. 2nd person sing. of the future of Kal (with the affix נִי), for תַּעֲמֹר, from עָמַר, coronavit. On account of the affix, ו changes into (:), and then, as “compound sheva does not admit simple sheva after it,” (-:) loses its own vowel (-). The meaning of to crown belongs to this root, properly only in Pih. (see No. 401), here it is better translated by “surround,” or affect round about for the sake of protection; 1 Sam. xxiii. 26, עָמְרוּ, Saul and his men surround David and his with a hostile intention.

PSALMUS VI. ו.

VERSE 1.

[284.] עַל־הַשְּׁמִינִית (gnal-hash-shemineeth) super octavam. Super instrumento octo chordarum.—Bythner. שְׁמִינִית, octava, is the feminine ordinal, of which the masculine is שְׁמִינִי, octavus, from the numeral noun שְׁמִנָה, octo, vid. Gr. p. 75. The LXX. render it ὑπὲρ τῆς ὀκτῆς, pro octavā. Gesenius contends that 1 Chr. xv. where three different voices are designated, verse 21, שְׁמִינִית, octave, implies the ground-tone, i. e. bass; verse 20, עֲלָמוֹת, maidens' voice, the treble; verse 19, לְהַשְׁמִיעַ, to sing aloud, clear, the tenor, and that שְׁמִינִית is no where the name of an instrument. It must have been these verses of the Chronicles which suggested to former translators the idea of the base voice, and accordingly, we find them render here, “ad gravem symphoniam,” and “ad pinguem, sive bassum, tonum;” with regard to “ad pinguem” we may remind the learner that שֶׁמֶן is expressive of fatness, although, at present, it is generally agreed that pinguis has nothing to do with our שְׁמִינִית. [For the words לִמְנַחַח פְּנִיכֹר, see Nos. 169, 170, and for בִּאֲפֶה, No. 78.]

VERSE 2.

[285.] תּוֹכִיחֵנִי (tho-chee-hhé-nee) arguas-me. The 2nd person singular future of Hiph. תּוֹכִיחַ, with the affix נִי, from יָכַח, arguit, י being changed in Hiph. into י. Hence future of Hiph. אֲוִכִיחַ; 2nd person תּוֹכִיחַ; (3rd person יוֹכִיחַ), and with the affix תּוֹכִיחֵנִי.

[286.] בַּחֲמַתְּךָ (ba-hhama-thechá) in-ardore-tuo. Compounded of בַּ, in, חֶמֶה, ardor, æstus, noun feminine and the affix תְּךָ, tus. With the prefix, בַּחֲמַה, in furore; in regimen חֲמַת, and with the affix חֲמַתְּךָ. Plural חֲמֹת. From יָחַם, incaluit.

[287.] תִּיפְּרֵנִי (theyas-seré-nee) corripias-me. The 2nd person singular future of Pihel, from יָסַר, corripuit, castigavit, saltem acriori reprehensione. In Pihel יִפֵּר; future אִיפֵּר, תִּיפֵּר, &c.; (vid. Gr. p. 81), with the affix נִי, me.

VERSE 3.

[288.] [For חַנְּנִי, see No. 176.] אֲמַלִּל אֲנִי (um-lál ā-nee) debilis ego sum. A noun masculine formed from the conjugation Puhāl, ל being doubled instead of dagesh, for אֲמַל; wherefore it would be more correctly written with (ר). From אֱמַל, debilis fuit. Accent, the great distinctive, Merka mapachātum. Modern Grammarians call the conjugation of אֱמַלְלִי, Pulal, and assert, that by way of exception the pronoun singular absolute of the first person with what usually is the 3rd preterite of the verb, is used here for אֱמַלְלִיתִי.

[289.] רְפָאֵנִי (repha-é-nee) sana-me. The imperative of Kal of רָפָא, sanavit, with the affix נִי, me. Accent, the conjunctive Merka.

[290.] נִבְהַלּוּ (nibh-haloo) conturbata-sunt. The 3rd person plur. preterite of Niph. which is in the singular, נִבְהַל; from בָּהַל, turbatus est. Accent, the conjunctive Munahh.

[291.] עֲצָמַי (gnatsa-mai) ossa mea. From עָצָם, robustus fuit, comes the noun of common gender עֲצָם, robur, os, vel aliquid solidum. With the affix it changes both (◌◌) into (◌:), and then, the former into (◌-), thus עֲצָמִי, os meum. In the plural the latter (◌◌) being changed into (ר) and the former into (◌:), it admits both terminations, עֲצָמִים, and עֲצָמוֹת, ossa. Hence עֲצָמִי, ossa mea, and before a pause עֲצָמִי.

VERSE 4.

[292.] וּנְפָשִׁי נִבְהַלָּה. For נֶפֶשׁ, anima, see No. 133. Accent, Tiphhaa antierius. And for נִבְהַלָּה, see No. 290. Accent, Munahh inferius, here called Hillui, being followed by Athnahh.

[293.] מְאֹד (meódh) valdè. An adverb, derived from the noun masculine, מֵאֹד, vehementia.

[294.] עַד־מָתַי (gnad-ma-thai) usque-quo; מָתַי, quando, and before a pause מָתַי. The ellipse “differes auxilium?” or a similar expression, is easily supplied after usque-quo.

VERSE 5.

[295.] שׁוּבָה (shoo-bhá) revertere. From שָׁב, reverti; and with an accusative restituere. The imperative of Kal, in which ו, the second radical, quiesces in ו, thus שׁוּב, and with ה paragogic, שׁוּבָה; feminine, שׁוּבָה; plural, שׁוּבוּ.

[296.] חֲלִצָה (hhal-letsá) eripe animam meam. The imperative of Pihel, which is read in the Psalms in the 2nd person plural only, and with ה paragogic. From חֲלָץ, extraxit. [For הוֹשִׁיעֲנִי, see No. 159. For לִמְעַן, No. 252, and for חֲסִידָךְ, No. 245.]

VERSE 6.

[297.] בַּמּוֹת (bam-má-veth) in ipsa morte, quoniam ה emphatic, excluditur. A noun masculine מוֹת, mors. In regimen and with affixes (ַ) and (ִ) are contracted into ו, thus מוֹת, as לְמוֹתָם, ad mortem eorum.

[298.] זִכְרָךְ (zich-ré-cha) memoria-tui. From זָכַר, recordatus est, comes the noun masculine זָכַר, memoria, tam privata quàm publica, thus לְזָכַר, in memoriam. With affixes it changes (ִ) penult. into (ִ), and (ִ) ult. in (ִ), and again the former (ִ) into (ִ), whence זִכְרָךְ.

[299.] בִּשְׂאוֹל (bish-ól) in-sepulchro. שְׂאוֹל, a noun of the common gender, but oftener feminine, derived from שָׂאֵל, petiit, rogavit, as if never satisfied; or according to modern etymology שְׂאוֹל, quasi שְׂעוֹל, cavity, hollow, hollowness, thence hell. The prefix ב takes (ִ) on account of the following (ִ). In Ps. ix. 18, we read לְשְׂאוֹלָה, with ה local, signifying in, ad, versus. LXX. ἐν τῷ ᾗδῃ, in Hades.

[300.] יוֹדֶה-לָךְ (yo-dhel-lách) confitebitur-tibi. From יָדָה, jecit, projecit, comes the Hiphil הוֹדָה, vocem projecit, confessus est. The future of Hiph. הוֹדָה, is of double irregularity, for י is changed into ו, and ה quiesces in (ִ). The dagesh in ל, occurring after maccaph is called dacheek, and possesses a double connecting power. Accents, Metheg, and Sylluk ante Soph-Pasuk.

VERSE 7.

[301.] יָגַעְתִּי (ya-gháh-tee) laboravi. The 1st person singular preterite of Kal, from יָגַע, laboravit, defatigatus fuit. Accent, Mahpach.

[302.] בְּאִנְחָתִי (bean-hha-thee) in-gemitu-meo. From אִנַּח, gemit, used only in Niphal and related to the verbs אָנַח, אִנֵּן, אִנָּה, comes the feminine noun אִנְחָה, gemitus, suspirium. With affixes it changes ה into ת, (◌) penult. into (◌:), and therefore (◌-) is changed into (◌-), thus אִנְחָתִי. Accent, Rebheea, preceded by Gahya.

[303.] אֲשַׁחֶה (as-hhé) natare-faciam. The future of Hiph. in which ה quiesces in (◌), from שָׁחַח, natavit; this root occurs a second time, Is. xxv. 11, and lastly Ez. xlvii. 5.

[304.] מִטָּתִי (mit-ta-thee) lectum-meum. A noun feminine heem. מִטָּה, lectus, for מִנְטָה, and on account of the affix, ה being changed into ת. From נָטַח, extendit, inclinavit. Comp. κλίω and κλίνω.

[305.] בְּדִמְעָתִי (bedhim-ha-thee) in-lachrymâ-meâ. From דָּמַע, lachrymatus est, comes the noun feminine דִּמְעָה, lachryma, ה being changed into ת, with the affix. In plural דִּמְעוֹת. Accent, Rebhiā Geresh.

[306.] עֲרֵשִׁי (gnar-see) stratum-meum. From עָרַשׁ, stratus seu lectus ex ligno factus. With the affix, it changes both (◌) into (◌:), and the former (◌:) into (◌-), and makes עֲרֵשִׁי. The proper meaning of עָרַשׁ is a bedstead with a tester to it, or bridal bed; the idea of wood is none of its essentials; that of Og was of iron, see Deuter. iii.

[307.] אֲמַסֶּה (am-sé) liquefaciam. Future of Hiphil, in which ה quiesces in (◌), from מָסַח, liquefacit.

VERSE 8.

[308.] עֲשֵׂשָׁה מִכֶּסֶּס עֵינַי (gna-she-shá mic-cá-has gné-nee) cor-

rosus-est præ-indignatione oculus meus; עֵשֶׂשׁ, 3rd sing. feminine preterite of Kal, from עֵשֶׂשׁ, tineas genuit, it produced moths. Accent, Munach, following Metheg.

[מַעֲסֵם, from מ, præ, and פַּעַס, which signifies, actively, provocation; passively, indignation or anger. From פַּעַס, indignatus fuit.]

[עֵינִי, from עֵין, oculus, with the affix עֵין, and י, meus. Vid. No. 235.]

[309.] עֲתָקָה בְּכָל-צוּרָי (gna-thecá bechol-tso-reraí) inveteravit propter omnes angustiatores-meos. עֲתָקָה, 3rd person singular preterite of Kal feminine, to agree with עֵין, from עֲתָק, transferri ideoque ætate provehi.

צוּרָי for צוּרֵי, without a pause; from צוּרִים, the plural masculine of צוּר, Ben. Kal, from צָרַר, ligavit, vinxit, and Metaph. coarctavit, Angl. straitened. With the suffix י, my, after a noun plural.

VERSE 9.

סוּרוּ (soóroo) recedite. 2nd person plural imperative of Kal, from סוּר, formed like קוּם, see Gr. p. 84. Accent, Munahh inferius. [For פָּעַלִי, see No. 237, for אֶוֶן, No. 238, and for שָׁמַע, No. 177.]

קוֹל בְּכִי (kól bich-ye) vocem fletus-mei. [For קוֹל, see No. 144.] From בָּכָה, flevit, comes the noun masculine בְּכִי, fletus; before a pause בְּכִי, and with the affix י, בְּכִיִּי, fletus-meus.

VERSE 10.

תְּחַנְּנֵנִי (tehhin-na-thee) supplicationem-meam. An heem. noun feminine תְּחַנְּנָה, from חָנַן, gratiosus fuit; and with the affix י, my, it changes ה into ת, thus תְּחַנְּנֵנִי.

תְּפִלָּתִי (tephil-la-thee) orationem-meam. Vid. No. 178. Accent, Merca preceded by a Gahya. See Nos. 1 and 302.

יָקַח (yik-kahh) accipiet. 3rd person sing. fut. of Kal, from לָקַח, accepit, ל being compensated by dagesh. Future יִקַּח, יִקְחֶהָ, יִקְחוּ, and before a pause יִקַּח.

VERSE 11.

יִבְשׂוּ (yebhó-shoo) pudore-afficientur. 3rd person plural future of Kal, from בָּשָׁה, erubescere. Future יִבְשׂוּ, and with ה paragogic, יִבְשׂוּהָ. Accent, Mahpach.

וַיִּבְהֲלוּ (veyib-bá-haloó) et-terrebuntur. 3rd person plural future of Niph., the omitted נ being compensated by dagesh. From בָּהַל, turbatus est, which in Niph. is נִבְהַל. Accent, Munahh.

כָּל-אֹיְבָי (col-oyebhaí) omnes-inimici-mei. Vid. No. 161.

יָשְׁבוּ (ya-shoo-bhoo) revertentur. 3rd person plural future of Kal, which is אָשַׁב, revertar, from שָׁב, redire, reverti, of the form of קוּם, vid. Gr. p. 84. Accent, Rebhia-Geresh.

יִבְשׂוּ (ye-bhō-shoo) pudore-afficientur. More properly יִבְשׂוּהָ, third person plural future of Kal, from בָּשָׁה, erubuit.

רָגַע (rá-ghang) subitò. As an adverb, from the noun substantive רָגַע, scissio, disruptio, item momentum. Before a pause רָגַע. LXX. σφόδρα διὰ τάχους.

PSALMUS VII. †.

VERSE 1.

SHIGGAION, Hebrew שִׁגְיוֹן. The meaning of this term is much disputed. The root being שָׁגָה, erravit, peccavit. Buxtorf and Bythner render the word by “ode erratica, vel varia, quæ omnibus rationibus musicæ simul decantabatur.” The same meaning seems applicable to the “Prayer of the Prophet Habbakkuk,” ch. iii. 1, which is said to be עַל שְׁגִיחוֹת, “according to variable songs or tunes.” Margin Engl. Version. Parkhurst understands the term to refer to David’s and Israel’s wanderings from God’s law, and from their own place, on that account. It occurs only in these two places of Holy Scripture. The LXX. render it here by Ψαλμοις, and in Habb. by ΜΕΤΑΨΑΛΜΩΝ. Gesenius supposes this שְׁגָה to be like שֹׁגָה, to be great, lofty. The Pael of the latter root in Syriac means to sing praises, hence he calls שְׁגִיחָא, nomen verbale pœlicum, hymnus.

¶ שָׁר (shár) cecinit, preterite of Kal, from שָׁר, canere. Also the Ben. Kal is שָׁר, canens, cantor, plural שָׁרִים.

[310.] עַל־דִּבְרֵי (gnal-dibhray) super verba. From the noun masculine דִּבְרָא, verbum, sermo, comes the form דִּבֵּר in regimen, by changing the former (ר) into (:), and the latter into (-), thus עַל־דִּבֵּר. In the plural דִּבְרִים, verba, (ר) is changed in (:), and the preceding (:) into (·), hence עַל־דִּבְרֵי־כֹשׁ. With affixes, and also in the plural, it shortens the former (ר) into (:), thus דִּבְרָךְ, verbum tuum, דִּבְרֵיךְ, verba tua.

[311.] כֹּשׁ (Choosh). The proper name of one of the sons of Ham, from whom the Ethiopians were descended. Here it seems to have been one of those enemies of David, who exasperated Saul against him, 1 Sam. xxvi. 19. Bythner suspects, that David here alludes to Saul himself, the son of קִישׁ.

[312.] בְּנֵי־יִמִּינִי (ben-yemee-nee) filiî Jemini, quasi Jeminæi, a patronymic from Benjamin. The Targum renders it, “On the destruction of Saul, the son of Kish, of the tribe of Benjamin.” Benjamin is derived from בְּנֵי־יָמִין, filius dextræ, or filius senectutis meæ, יָמִין, quasi יָמִים; vel filius fortunæ, nam יָמִין, dextra, etiam Fortunam significavit.

VERSE 2.

[313.] בָּךְ חֲסִיתִי (bechá hha-seethee) in-te speravi. From חָסָה, confidit, comes, by changing ה into י, the 1st person singular, חֲסִיתִי for חֲסִיתִי. In the plural by casting away ה, חָסוּ, sperârunt, for חֲסִיתוּ, see Nos. 120 and 333.

הוֹשִׁיעֵנִי (ho-shee-hē-nee) salvum-me-fac. See No. 159.

[314.] מִכָּל־רֹדְפָי (mic-col ro-dhephai) ab-omnibus persequentibus-me. [מ, from, פֶּל־, before Maccaph for פֶּל, changing ו into (ר). See Nos. 33 and 119.] רֹדֵף, is the Ben. Kal, from רָדַף, secutus vel persecutus est. In plural רֹדְפִים, in regimen רֹדְפֵי, and with the affix רֹדְפֵי. Accent, Rebhîa-Geresh.

[315.] וְחֲצִילָנִי (ve-hat-see-lé-nee) et-eripe-me. From נָצַל, rapuit, eripuit, which in Hiphil compensates נ by dagesh, thus חֲצִיל, and with the affix נִי, חֲצִילָנִי, rescue me. In plural חֲצִילֵי, eripite.

VERSE 3.

[316.] פֶּן־יִטְרֹף (pen-yit-róph) ne-forte rapiat. [For פֶּן, see No. 115.] The verb after פֶּן is found only twice in the preterite tense; 2 Sam. xx. 6, and 2 Kings, ii. 16. יִטְרֹף, future of Kal from טָרַף, eripuit, dentibus-dilaceravit. Future אִטְרֹף, &c. Accent, Munahh inferius. טָרַף means also alimentum, like τροφή.

[318.] פֶּרֶק (po-rék) lacerans. Ben. Kal from פָּרַק, rupit, carnem-laceravit. Accent, Rebhîa-Geresh.

[319.] וְאֵין מַצִּיל (ve-én mat-seel) et-non liberans. [For אֵין, see No. 134.] מַצִּיל, participle of Hiph. liberans seu liberator, for מַנְצִיל, נ being compensated by dagesh.

VERSE 4.

[320.] עָשִׂיתִי (gna-see-thee) fecit. 1st person singular preterite of Kal from עָשָׂה, fecit, ה being changed into י quiescent.

[321.] זֹאת (zóth) hoc, istud. The demonstrative pronoun feminine which supplies the place of a neuter, which the Hebrews have not.

[322.] יֵשׁ (yesh) est, which is of all genders and persons, from the unused יָשָׁה, est, sunt. Before Maccaph, it is written with (·); with a prefix יִישׁ; and with ה interrogative הֲיֵשׁ, an est?

[323.] עוֹל (gná-vel) iniquitas. A noun masculine without a plural from עוֹלָה, Pih. עָוִל, iniquus fuit, impie egit. Accent, Merchah.

[324.] בֶּכַפִּי (bechap-pái) in-volis-meis. From בָּ, in, and פָּה, concaritas cujuslibet rei, vola manûs, a noun feminine derived from פָּפָה, incurvavit. With affixes, and in the dual number it assumes dagesh to compensate the defect of the absent letter. In the dual בֶּפַּיִם, and with the affix פִּי, or before a pause פִּי, manus meas.

VERSE 5.

[325.] גִּמְלָתִי (ga-mál-tee) retribui. From גָּמַל, retribuit, preterite of Kal, of which גִּמְלָתִי is the 1st person singular. Hence the noun masculine, rarely feminine, גִּמְלָה, a camel, so called, says Bochart, from the unrelenting and revengeful nature of his temper when excited; insomuch that it has become a proverb among those nations which are most familiar with it. Accent, Tiphkha anteposita.

[326.] שְׁלָמִי (sho-lemee) pacifico-meo, i. e. to him who was at peace with me. Ben. Kal from שָׁלַם, pacificus fuit, pacem coluit.

[For רָע, malum, see No. 232.]

[327.] וְאַחֲלֵצָהּ (va-ahhal-letsá) etiam erui. The future of Pihel from חָלַץ, extraxit, liberavit, periculo-extraxit, for חָלַץ, with ה

paragogic, (·) being changed into (:), and ו conversive taking (·) before א. [For צוֹרְרִי, vid. No. 309.]

[328.] רִיקָם (re-kám) gratis. From רִיק, רִק, רִיק, vanus, inanis, which with ה heemantiv forms the adverb, רִיקָם.

VERSE 6.

[329.] יִרְדֹּף (yee-rad-dóph) persequatur, et alios ad persequendum incitet. A future compounded of Kal and Pihel, from יִרְדֹּף, secutus est, &c., vid. No. 314. In Kal the future is יִרְדֹּף, persequar; 3rd person singular יִרְדֹּף; and 3rd person singular in Pihel, is יִרְדֹּף, from both which is formed יִרְדֹּף. LXX. καταδιώξαι ἄρα, persequatur meritò. [For אוֹיֵב, see No. 161.] Modern Grammarians nearly all deny the original existence of what the ancient called formæ mixtæ, like יִרְדֹּף. Eichhorn says, “rectius legitur vel in Kal vel in Pihel;” Ewald (3rd Ed. Lz. 1838, § 290) goes so far as to suppose the dagesh in יִרְדֹּף to be lene even after the vowel patach, which, on account of ר (he thinks) has grown out of sheva. According to Kennicott there are manuscripts “qui shva sub ר legunt, &c., alii chateph patach.” Gesenius has devoted four pages to the formæ mixtæ. See his Lehrgebäude, Leipzig, 1817, pp. 460–4. With regard to נַפְשִׁי, we have mentioned above that נַפֿשׁ stands for person as well as soul.

[330.] וַיִּשֹׁב (ve-yas-ségh) et-comprehendat. The future of Hiph. from נָשַׁב, attigit, apprehendit, נ being changed into dagesh.

[331.] וַיִּרְמֹס (ve-yir-mós) et conculcet. The future of Kal from רָמַס, calcavit.

[332.] לֹאֲרֶץ (là-á-rets) in-ipsam-terram. From אֲרֶץ, terra, Gr. ἔρα. With ה emphatic הָאֲרֶץ, ipsa terra, which being excluded after the letters ב, ל, ב, gives לֹאֲרֶץ, in-ipsa-terra.

[333.] חַיִּי (lhay-yai) vitam-meam. From the plural noun חַיִּים, vita (like זְקֵנִים, old age; פְּנִים, face, and others) we say חַיִּי, my life, in pause, חַיִּי. חַיִּים occurs also as plural masculine of the adjective חַי, vivus, vivens. The dagesh in י, and the same חַי being used (in the Pentateuch), also as third person masculine singular of the preterite for חָיָה, induced Kimchi to assign for its root חַיִּי, an opinion still held by Grammarians of the present day, who, in fact, acknowledge no last radical ה to be genuine where it has not a Mappik, as in גָּבַהּ; any other ה radical at the end of the word being a mere substitute for the genuine י (seldom ו) which always appears in corresponding roots in Arabic, and in the Hebrew itself before נ and ת, and in participle Pahul (see Paradigm גָּלָה). Also before ה and ו such original י is not very scarce. Examples are Deuter. xxxii. 37; Jes. xxi. 12; and Psalms, xxxvi. 8 and 9; lvii. 2; lxxiii. 2; lxxvii. 4; lxxviii. 44; cxxviii. 3.

[334.] לַעֲפָר (le-ha-phár) in ipso pulvere; עֲפָר, pulvis, a noun masculine with a plural feminine עֲפָרוֹת, in regimen.

[335.] יִשְׁכֵּן (yash-kén) habitare-faciat. 3rd person singular future of Hiph. from שָׁכַן, habitavit.

VERSE 7.

קִוְּמָה (koo-ma) surge. Vid. No. 158. Accent, Mahpahh Zarqatum.

בְּאַפְּךָ (be-ap-pe-cha) in-furore-tuo. Vid. No. 78.

[336.] הִנְשֵׂא (hin-na-sé) eleva-te. Imperative of Niph. from נָשָׂא, tulit, elevavit. In plural הִנְשִׂאוּ, attollite-vos. Accent, Tiphha antérieur.

[337.] בְּעִבְרוֹת (behabh-róth) propter-indignationes. A noun fem. עֲבָרָה, ira in alium transiens, from עָבַר, transiit. In plur. עֲבָרוֹת, and in regimen (ר) being shortened into (:), (-:) loses its sheva; and the word becomes בְּעִבְרוֹת, scil. hostium-meorum. The idea of over is prevalent in the word עֲבָרָה, whether as over-flowing (of anger), or over-bearing (of pride). It may be translated here by superbia, ὑψηλός. The congruity of sound remarkable in this translation with the original, is not a mere chance.

[338.] וְעוֹרָה (ve-hoo-ra) et-suscita, אֵלַי, ad-me, &c. The imperative of Kal, from עוּר, evigilare, of the form of קוֹמָה. No. 158.

[For מִשְׁפָּט, see No. 43.]

[339.] צִוִּיתָ (tsiv-vee-tha) præcepisti. From צוּה, comes in Pihel צָוָה, jussit, &c. In the 3rd person singular preterite, ה quiesces in (ר), as צוּהָ, ipse mandavit, and in the second, ה is changed into ו, as צוֹוִיתָ, and sometimes with ה paragogic.

VERSE 8.

וַעֲדָתָם (va-hadhàth) et-congregatio. Vid. No. 45.

לְאֻמִּים (le-um-mim) populorum. Vid. No. 53.

[340.] תִּסְבְּבֶנָּהּ (teso-bhebhéc-ca) circumdabit-te. From סָבַב, circumivit, comes in pihel by changing dagesh into ו, סוֹבֵב, which with ה paragogic gives in the future אִסְבְּבָהּ, (·) being changed into (:). In the affix ת in this place, dagesh is found, compensative for the excluded נ epenthetic in תִּסְבְּבֶנָּהּ.

וְעָלֶיהָ (ve-ha-leha) וְ, et, עַל, propter, הָ, illam. Vid. No. 131.

[341.] לְמָרוֹם (lam-ma-róm) in-altum; מָרוֹם, altum, a noun masculine heemantiv, and as an adjective, altus, sublimis, from רָוַם, altum esse. [For שׁוֹבָה, vid. No. 295.]

VERSE 9.

[342.] יִדְּיוֹן (ya-dheen) judicabit populos. Targum causam aget populorum.—Bythner. The future of Kal of the root יִדְּיוֹן or יִדְּיוֹן.
[For עֲמִים, vid. No. 167.]

[343.] שִׁפְטִי (shoph-té-nee) judica-me. From שִׁפֵּט, judicavit, comes the imperative of Kal, שִׁפּוּט, and with the affix גִּי, שִׁפְטִי. In the plural שִׁפְטוּ, judicate.

פְּצִדְקִי (ke-tsiddh-kee) secundum-justitiam-meam. Vid. No. 173.

[344.] וּכְתָמִי (oo-che-thum-mee) et-secundum-perfectionem-meam super me. LXX. καὶ κατὰ τὴν ἀκαρίαν μου, innocentiam. A noun masculine תָּמַם, perfectio, from תָּמַם, integer fuit. With affixes it takes dagesh, and changes י into (י), as פְּתָמִי, in-integritate-mea. Before the following word עָלַי, we may supply an ellipse such as גְּמוּלָה, retribue, and render the verse, “Judge me, O Lord, (and) reward me, according to my perfection and innocence.”

VERSE 10.

[345.] יִגְמַר (yigh-mor) consumatur, deficiat. From גָּמַר, which is taken both in a good and a bad sense. In the former it signifies perfecit, absolvit. In the latter defecit, destructus fuit. The 3rd person singular future of Kal יִגְמַר, but י being shortened into (י) chatoof on account of Maccaph, יִגְמַר.

[346.] נָא רַע וְרִשְׁעִים (ná-ráng-reshaím) נָא, nunc quæso. A particle of time, denoting entreaty. Accent, Munahh superius. [For רַע, vid. No. 232, and for רִשְׁעִים, No. 7.]

[347.] וּתְכַוֵּן (oo-thecho-nén) et-stabilies, justum. 2nd person future of Pihel, which is כָּוֵן, aptavit, stabilivit, from כָּוַן, in which verb in Pihel the second radical quiesces in י, and the third is doubled.

In Ps. vii. 13, it is found in the 3rd person singular with ו conversive of the future, as ויכֹנֵחַ, et aptavit, vel paravit illum. Accent, Yerahh. [For צִדִּיק, see No. 46. Accent, Merca Mapachātum.]

[348.] וּבָחַן (oo-bho-chén) et-probans. The Ben. Kal, with ו before a labial, from בָּחַן, probavit. [For לְבוֹת, see No. 207. Accent, Tiphkha antérieur.]

[349.] וְכִלְיֹת (oo-chela-yóth) et renes. A noun plural feminine without a singular, from כָּלָה, desideravit, as being the supposed seat of desire, “(τ) penult. in every increment, or in regimen, being shortened into (:),” it becomes כִּלְיֹת.

VERSE 11.

[350.] מַגֵּנִי (ma-ghin-née) clypeus-meus. LXX. ἡ θώραξ μου, adjutorium meum, by metaphor. From גָּבַן, texit, comes מַגֵּן, clypeus. Vid. No. 139. In affixes, and change of number it changes (·) into (·), but always retains (τ), because the heemantiv noun formed by מ comes from a defective verb. In plural מַגֵּנִים and in regimen מַגֵּנֵי אֶרֶץ, scuta terræ, i. e. princes and magistrates.

[351.] מוֹשִׁיעַ (mo-sheeang) servantem. The participle of Hiphil, from יָשַׁע, which, by changing י into ו, gives in Hiph. הוֹשִׁיעַ, auxilium tulit. With an affix it is found, Ps. cvi. 21, מוֹשִׁיעֵם, salvatoris eorum.

[352.] יֹשֶׁר־לֵב (yish-rē lébh) rectos corde. From יָשַׁר, rectus fuit, comes the noun adjective יָשַׁר, rectus, and as a substantive rectum, rectitude. In the plural by changing (τ) into (:), it makes יֹשְׁרִים. In regimen (τ) being changed into (:), of the previous (:) it makes (·), hence יֹשְׁרֵי.

VERSE 12.

שׁוֹפֵט (sho-phét) judicans, i. e. judex. Vid. No. 108.

צַדִּיק (tsad-deek) justus. Vid. No. 46.

[353.] זֶעֶם (ve-El zo-hēm) et-Deus indignans. For זֶל, vid. No. 228. זֶעֶם, Ben. Kal from זָעַם, indignatus, detestatus fuit. It implies the external exhibition of anger. Accent Merca. Mendelssohn, the German Translator of the Psalms, renders זֶעֶם an accusative parallel to צַדִּיק, and זֶל, as a poetical repetition of the nominative, “God judges the righteous and him that acts wantonly every day.”

VERSE 13.

לֹא יָשׁוּב אִם (im-lo-yáshoobh) si non conversus fuerit, which the LXX. read in the 2nd person ἐπιστρέφῃς. The 3rd person singular future of Kal, scil. יָשׁוּב, תֵּשׁוּב, from שׁוּב, redire, reverti. Accent, Tiphkha anteposita.

[354.] חֶרֶב (hhar-bó) gladium-suum. A noun feminine חֶרֶב, gladius, from חָרַב, exsiccatus vel vastatus fuit. With an affix it first changes both (◌◌) into (◌:), and then the former (◌:) into (◌-), thus חֶרְבּוֹ, gladius-suus; חֶרְבִּי, gladius-meus. Before a pause it changes only the former (◌◌) into (◌), thus חֶרֶב. With a prefix it makes no change in the points, thus מִחֶרֶב, a-gladio; and with the letters ב, ל, כ, it excludes ה emphatic, as בַּחֶרֶב, tantum ipsum gladium. In plural feminine the latter (◌◌) is changed into (◌), and the former into (◌:), as חֶרְבוֹת, gladii.

[355.] יִלְטֹשׁ (yil-tósh) acuet. Future of Kal from לָטַשׁ, acuit, polivit, as of instruments of iron or brass.

[356.] קֶשֶׁת (kash-tó) arcum-suum. From the Chaldaic קֶשֶׁת, jaculatus est, comes קֶשֶׁת, arcus, a noun of common gender, but oftener feminine. Before a pause קָשַׁת. In the plural קָשָׁתוֹת. Modern Grammarians derive קָשַׁת from קוֹשׁ, a curvitate, (unde τὸ ξα καμπύλα, apud Hom. et Hesiod.); a similar form is זָפַת from זוּף. The Chaldee קָשַׁת is a denominative from קָשַׁת.

[357.] דָּרַךְ (da-rách) tetendit, when used in reference to a bow or arrows, alias, calcavit. Preterite of Kal.

וַיְכֹנְנָה (va-yecho-nenéha) et-paravit-illum. Vid. No 347.

VERSE 14.

[358.] חִכֵּן (he-cheen) parare-fecit. 3rd person singular preterite of Hiph., ו being excluded, from כוּן, aptare. Before servile נ and ת it assumes ו, thus חִכִּינוֹת, aptásti, &c., 3rd person plural, חִכִּינוּ, aptârunt.

[359.] כֵּלֵי־מָוֶת (kele-má-veth) vasa-mortis. From the noun masc. כֵּל, comes the plural כֵּלִים, by syncope כֵּלִים, and in regimen כֵּלֵי. [For מוֹת, vid. No. 297].

[360.] חֲצִי (hhit-sáv) sagittas-suas. From חָצָץ, discidit, dimidiavit, comes the noun masculine חֶצֶץ, sagitta; plural חֲצִים, in regimen חֲצִי, and with the affix חֲצִי, by assuming dagesh compensative, and changing (·) into (·).

[361.] לְדֹלֵקִים (ledho-lekeem) in ardentibus, vel persecutores. The Ben. plural of Kal from דָּלַק, insecutus est, item metaph. exarsit ut ignis.

[362.] יַפְעֵל (yiph-hál) efficiet. The 3rd person singular future of Kal with (·) before a pause, for יַפְעֵל, from פָּעַל, fecit. This verb gave names to the voices of Hebrew verbs, see No. 237. Some have also rejected פָּקַד, because of the changes of פ and פ, and have adopted לָמַד or קָטַל, in its place. Gesenius renders the three last words thus elegantly: "He turns (renders) his arrows burning ones, that is, he hurls burning arrows."

VERSE 15.

[363.] הִנֵּה (hin-né) ecce. From הֵן, en, ecce, and with ח paragogic הִנֵּה. A demonstrative particle, used also with affixes הִנֵּךְ, ecce tu or ecce te; הִנֵּנִי, ecce ego; in pause הִנֵּנִי, ecce me, &c. &c.

[364.] יִחַבֵּל-אֶוֶן (yehhab-bel áven) parturiet iniquitatem. The future of Pihel, in which, on account of Maccaph, (·) changes into (·), from חָבַל, in pignus accepit, in Pihel, corruptit, perdidit; etiam, parturivit. [For אֶוֶן, see No. 238.] The ground meaning of חָבַל is binding and winding, hence its various renderings of rope, pledge, injury, destruction, perversion, labour, and pangs.

[365.] וַהֲרָה (veha-rá) et-concepit. The preterite of Kal, with ו conversive of the preterite.

[366.] עָמַל (gna-mál) perversitatem, ærumnosum-laborem. A noun masculine from עָמַל, laboravit. In regimen the former (·) is changed into (·), and the latter into (-), whence עָמַל, Ps. cxl. 10.

[367.] וַיִּלֶּךְ שָׁקֶר (veyá-ladh shá-ker) et-peperit mendacium. [For וַיִּלֶּךְ, vid. No. 93]. שָׁקֶר a radical noun from שָׁקַר, mentitus est. Before a pause the former (·) is changed into (·), thus שָׁקֶר, plural שָׁקָרִים, mendacia. Observe: the Munahh is moved back to prevent the concurrence of two accented syllables. The same see above, [108], [237], and [326].

VERSE 16.

[368.] בּוֹר (bōr) cisternam, vel foream. A radical noun of masc. gender signifying as well a cistern for water, as a pitfall, also a grave.

[369.] פָּרַח (ca-rá) excīdit, vel fodit. Preterite of Kal, of which the 2nd person is פָּרַחְתָּ, the third radical, ח, being changed into י quiescent; and 3rd person plural פָּרַחוּ, in which the third radical ח is cast away before ה. See [333]. Accent, Tiphkha antea.

[370.] וַיַּחֲפְרוּ (vay-yahh-peréhoo) et-effodit-eam. The 3rd person singular future of Kal, with the affix חֲפַר, which causes the י in יַחֲפֹר, to be changed into (י), and (י) loses its own (י). It has י conversive of the future. From חָפַר, fodit, excavavit.

יִפֹּל (vay-yippōl) et-cadet, for et-cēcidit, with י conversive future from נָפַל, ruit, cecidit. Vid. No. 267.

[371.] בִּשְׁחָתָה (beshá-hhath) in-foveam. A noun feminine שְׁחָתָה, fovea, item corruptio, as in Ps. xvi. 10, which the LXX. render διαφθορά, which is also quoted in Acts, ii. 27. Before a pause שְׁחָתָה. The root שָׁחַת, to descend, sink down, has probably given rise to this word like נָחַת to נִחָה, although διαφθορά evidently aims at שְׁחָתָה, which in Pihel is used of corruption and destruction. [For יַפְעַל, see No. 362.]

VERSE 17.

יִשׁוּב (ya-shoóbh) convertetur. Vid. verse 13. For עָמְלוֹ, vid. No. 366, and for בְּרָאשׁוֹ, No. 143.

[372.] קֹדְקֹד (kodh-kedhó) in-caput-ejus; קֹדֶקֶד, vertex, the highest part of the head, a noun masculine without a plural, from קָדַד, verticem inclinavit. On account of the affix, י is changed into (י). Hence קֹדְקֹד.

[373.] חָמָס (hhamā-só) violentia-ejus; חָמָס, vis, violentia, a noun masculine. In regimen חָמָס. With an affix חָמָסוֹ, violentia ejus, and in the plural חָמָסִים, a viro violentiarum, i. e. violentissimo.

[374.] יֵרֵד (ye-rédh) descendet. 3rd person singular future of Kal from יָרַד, descendit. In the future י is concealed in (י), thus יֵרֵד (for יִירֵד), in pause we find יֵירֵד with (י), also in the feminine plural before בָּח.

VERSE 18.

יִפְצֹדֶקָה for this word see No. 300, and for פְּצֹדֶקָה, No. 173.

[375.] וְאֶזְמְרָה (va-azam-merá) et-psallam. From זָמַר, putavit, præcidit, comes in Pihel זָמַר, cecinit, modulatus est. See No. 122. Future of Pihel אֶזְמְרָה, and with paragogic changing (·) into (:) אֶזְמְרָה, which it resumes again before a pause.

[376.] עֲלִיּוֹן (gnel-yón) Altissimi. A noun masculine heemantiv, excelsus, sublimis, being also considered as one of the names of THE MOST HIGH. From עָלָה, ascendit.

PSALMUS VIII. ה.

VERSE 1.

לְמִנְנִיָּה, For this word, vid. No. 169.

[377.] עֲלֵיהֶגְתִּית (gnal hag-git-teeth) pro torcularibus, vel super instrumento musico torculari. From גָּת, torcular, comes גְּתִית, a noun feminine of uncertain signification. The LXX. render it ἐπὶ τῶν ληνῶν, for the wine presses, as if the Psalm were composed for the time of vintage. Parkhurst thinks it had respect unto Him who “trod the wine-press alone,” Isa. lxiii. 4. The Targum explains it thus, “on the harp which David brought from Gath,” מִן גָּת. Gesenius imagines a word גָּת, (in a third sense, namely) contracted from גִּגִּית, pulsatio instrum. musicorum, and from that derives גְּתִית, an instrument which serves for such pulsation or striking.

VERSE 2.

[378.] אֲדֹנָיִינוּ (Adho-né-noo) Domine-noster. From אֲדֹנָי, Dominus (vid. No. 72), is formed the plural אֲדֹנָיִים, Domini, which with the affix נֵינוּ, our, excluding ים, gives אֲדֹנָיִינוּ.

[379.] מֶה־אֲדִיר (ma-addîr) quam illustre; אֲדִיר, magnificus, validus, a noun adjective. In plural אֲדִירִים, potentes, sublimes, regimen אֲדִירֵי. From אָדָר, fortis, admirabilis fuit, not used in Kal.

[380.] אֲשֶׁר תִּנָּה (ashér tená) quòd ponere, i. e. quod, potius, qui posuisti. From תָּנָה, dedit, comes, by casting off ב, the imperative תִּנָּה; and assuming ה paragogic, (·) being changed into (:), תִּנָּה. Hence the infinitive after the imperative form is used for the preterite.—Bythner. But Bishop Hare says, “there is no example of an infinitive of this form in תִּנָּה, (of which the infinitive is תִּנָּה for תִּנָּה), but it is proved by various examples that this is the form of the imperative. To me, therefore, the imperative seems to be put for the 2nd person of the preterite, which, I think, is also done in שִׁמָּה (from שָׁם, ponere), Ps. lvi. 9.” Vid. Gr. p. 45, in fine. Gesenius (Lehrgebäude, p. 777) considers this תִּנָּה as the imperative used for future optative. Having laid down certain rule how the imperative following or preceding a future thereby becomes itself a future, as Ps. cxxviii. 5, וְיִרְאָה for וְיִרְאָה; Is. vi. 9, תִּשְׁמְעוּ for תִּשְׁמְעוּ, he continues, “so, perhaps, likewise the difficult passage, Ps. viii. 2, How glorious is thy name in all lands who mightest set thy glory over the heaven, i. e. would that thou spreadest thy glory over the heaven; may it be spread over the heaven in the whole creation.” With regard to אֲשֶׁר, he refers to Job. ix. 15, for a comparison.

[381.] הוֹדָה (ho-dhechá) laudem-tuam; הוֹד, gloria, laus, a noun radical, and with the affix הוֹדָה, gloria-tua. With a pause (:) is changed into (·), thus הוֹדָה. [For הַשְׁמִים, vid. No. 70].

VERSE 3.

[382.] מִפִּי עוֹלָלִים (mip-pee gno-lelím) ex-ore parvulorum. [For מִפִּי, vid. No. 256]. From עָלַל, egit, fecit, comes the participial noun in Kal, עוֹלָל; plural עוֹלָלִים.

[383.] וִינְקִיָּם (veyo-nekeem) et-sugentium. The masculine plural from יִנְקַן, lactans, a participial noun in Kal, from יָנַק, suxit.

[384.] יִסְדָּהּ עוֹ (yis-sádh-ta gnóz) fundásti-fortitudinem. 2nd person singular preterite of Pihel in which the dagesh implies firmiter. From יָסַד, fundavit. LXX. κατηρτίσω, perfecisti. Accent, Merca Mapachātum, præcedente Yerahh.

[385.] עוֹ (gnóz) robur, imperium, laus. A noun masculine without a plural from עָזַז, fortis, potens vel robustus fuit. With an affix it assumes dagesh, and changes ו into (ו), thus עָזִי, robur meum.

¶ For לְמַעַן, propter, vid. No. 252, and for צוֹרְרֵיהֶם, angustiatores tuos, No. 309.

[386.] לְהַשְׁבִּית (lehash-beeth) ad-cessare-faciendum. From שָׁבַת, cessavit, comes in Hiphil, הִשְׁבִּית, infinitive, preceded by ל the sign of the gerund.

¶ אוֹיֵב (o-yēbh). Vid. No. 161.

[387.] וּמִתְנַקֵּם (oo-mith-nak-kém) et-ulciscensem-se. The participle in Hithpahel, from נָקַם, ultus est.

VERSE 4.

[388.] כִּי־אֶרְאֶה (kee er-é) Quum videbo. Alii, quoties. The future Kal, from רָאָה, vidit. 1st person אֶרְאֶה; 2nd person תִּרְאֶה; 3rd person יִרְאֶה, &c. Accent, Munahh inferius.

[389.] שָׁמַיְךָ (sha-mé-cha) cælos-tuos. From שָׁמַיִם, cæli, which casts away the termination because of the affix הָ, thy. In regimen it changes יִם into י, and (ר) into (:), thus בְּשָׁמַיִם, in cælis. Accent, Tiphhha antierius.

[390.] מַעֲשֶׂה (ma-hasé) opus. From עָשָׂה, fecit, comes the noun masculine heemantiv, מַעֲשֶׂה, which in regimen changes (ו) before ה into (ו) as above. In the plural מַעֲשִׂים, which is in regimen מַעֲשִׂי.

[391.] אֶצְבְּעוֹתָיָהּ (ets-beho-thé-cha) digitorum-tuorum. From צָבַע, tinxit, coloravit, comes the noun feminine heemantiv, אֶצְבֵּעַ, digitus, formed by א. In the plural (-) is changed into (ר), thus אֶצְבְּעוֹתָיָהּ; but with an affix (ר) is shortened into (:), as אֶצְבְּעוֹתַי, digitos meos.

[392.] יָרַח (ya-ré-ahh) lunam. A radical noun, akin to יָרַח, odor, fragrantia, from the fragrance of night. But the Latins derive Luna from luceo, because she shines so brightly by night.—Bythner. Hence the conjunctive accent Yerahh' יָרַח (more correctly יָרַח) receives its name. יָרַח is in modern times considered a primitive noun, from which יָרַח, month, is derived.

[393.] וְכוֹכָבִים (vecho-cha-bheem) et-stellas. The plur. of the noun masculine כּוֹכֵב, stella, with ו prefixed. The derivation of this word is uncertain, unless, as Bythner suggests, it may be derived, per antiphrasin, from כָּבַח, extinxit. Parkhurst says, that the word כּוֹכֵב, in Arabic, signifies to glister. From this word the impostor Bar-Cochab, Son of a Star, in the reign of Adrian (or as the Romans called him Barcochebas), took his name, with evident allusion to the prophecy in Num. xxiv. 17, as if he were the “Star out of Jacob.” But this false Messiah was destroyed by the Emperor’s General, Julius Severus, with an incredible number of his followers.

[394.] כּוֹנֵנְתָהּ (co-nán-ta) (quas) præparâsti. The 2nd person singular preterite of Pihel, with ה paragogic, and (-) changed into (ר) because of the pause. From כּוֹנֵן, stabilivit; Pihel כּוֹנֵן, and in 2nd person כּוֹנֵנְתָהּ. Vid. No. 347. Between the verse just finished and that which follows there is understood an expression like אֲנִי אֹמֵר, “then I say.”

VERSE 5.

[395.] מֶה־אֲנוֹשׁ (ma-enósh) quid (est) homo; אֲנוֹשׁ, a noun masc. signifying wretched man, and similar to the Latin mortalis, as being liable to wretchedness and even to death. From אֲנֵשׁ, lethalis morbo ægrotavit. In the plural it is irregular, viz., אֲנָשִׁים, homines miseri, in regimen אֲנָשִׁי.

[396.] כִּי־תִזְכְּרֶנּוּ (kee-thiz-kerén-noo) quod recorderis-ejus. The future of Kal תִּזְכֹּר, recordabor; תִּזְכֹּר, from whence with the affix כִּי, him, it, after a verb, comes תִּזְכְּרֶנּוּ.

[397.] אָדָם (a-dham) hominis. From אָדָם, rubuit, comes אָדָם, homo terrenus ex rubra terra formatus. It includes both sexes, as in Gen. v. 2, et vocavit, nomen eorum אָדָם. When opposed to אִישׁ, it means a plebeian. See also Nos. 2 and 395.

[398.] תִּבְקַדְנָהּ (thiph-kedhén-noo) visites-eum. The 2nd person singular future of Kal from בָּקַד, visitavit, with the affix נָה, as above, No. 396. This verb is taken both in a good and a bad sense, signifying to visit with blessings as well as with judgments.

VERSE 6.

[399.] וַתִּחַסְרֶהוּ (vat-tehhas-seré-hoo) et-deficere-facies eum. LXX. ἡλάττωσας, minuisti. The future of Pihel with ו conversive, from תִּחַסַּר, in which, on account of the affix, (·) changes into (:). Root חֶסַר, defecit. A better rendering of וַתִּחַסְרֶהוּ is carere fecisti, privasti eum. See מִחַסַּר, Eccles. iv. 8, bereave, deprive.

¶ For מַעַט, vid. No. 118. מֵאֱלֹהִים, a Deo, vel ab angelis.

[400.] וְהָדָר (veha-dhár) et-decore. A noun masculine radical with ו prefixed. In regimen הָדָר. With affixes, and in the plural number, the former (·) is changed into (-), thus הִדְרָה. In the plural הִדְרִים.

[401.] תִּעֲטֶרְהוּ (tehat-teré-hoo) coronabis-eum. 2nd person singular future of Pihel תִּעֲטֵר, on account of the affix (·) changes into (:), from עֲטַר, circumdedit. Vid. No. 283.

VERSE 7.

[402.] תַּמְשִׁילֶהוּ (tam-shee-lé-hoo) dominum-constitues-eum. 2nd person singular future of Hiphil, which is מְשַׁל, from מָשַׁל, dominatus est. Accent, Tiphkha antepositive, a prepositive.

בְּמַעֲשֵׂי (bema-hasé) in operibus. Vid. No. 390.

[403.] יָדֶיךָ (ya-dhé-cha) manuum-tuarum, i. e., of thy creatures. From יָדָה, projecit, jaculatus est, comes יָד, manus, a projiciendo. Hence יָדִי, manus mea. In regimen it changes (ד) into (ד), thus בְּיָד, in manum inimici, but with an affix it again resumes (ד), as בְּיָדוֹ, in manu ejus. In the dual יָדַי, duæ manus, which in regimen changes יָדַי into יָדַי, and (ד) into (ד), thus יָדַי.

[404.] שָׁתָה (shat-ta) posuisti. שָׁתָה, posuit, the preterite of Kal, from שָׁתָה, ponere; of which the feminine is שָׁתָה, illa posuit, as in Ps. lxxxiv. 4. But in the 2nd person singular שָׁתָה, posuisti, with ה paragogic, for שָׁתָה, which is for שָׁתָה, and which, by analogy, would be שָׁתָה. In the 1st person singular שָׁתָה, posui.

[405.] תַּחְתִּי (tá-hhath) sub, infra, also loco, vice. A preposition, which assumes the plural affixes of nouns, with which it changes (ת) ultimate into (ת), thus תַּחְתִּי, sub me; תַּחְתֵּינוּ, sub nobis.

[406.] רַגְלָיו (ragh-láv) pedibus ejus; רַגֶּל, pes, is a noun feminine from רָגַל, detraxit, because (says Bythner) “detractors go to and fro detailing slanders.” But Parkhurst derives it from רָגַל, to smite, strike, or impress, as the feet are pressed against the ground. Thus the LXX. render it in Isa. xxxii. 20, by παταῖν. Before a pause it changes the former (ר) into (ר), as בְּרַגְלֵי, in pede. With affixes and in the dual or plural number it changes both (ר) into (ר), and then the former (ר) into (ר), as רַגְלֵי, pes meus; and from the dual רַגְלָיִם, pedes; רַגְלָיו, sub pedibus ejus. The phrase “to put under his feet” denotes on the one hand the highest power, and on the other, the lowest subjection. At the present day it is established to derive the verb רָגַל from רָגַל, and not the contrary, which is certainly the more natural way.

VERSE 8.

[407.] זִנְיָה (tso-né) ovis, i. e., ovēs, pecus lanigera. A noun formed from זָאן, ovis, by omitting א and adding ה paragogic. It is applied to sheep and goats.

[408.] וְאַלְפִים (va-ala-phím) et boves vel armenta. From אָלַף, docuit, duxit (and in Pihel, discere fecit), comes the radical noun אָלַף, dux, also bos, as it were, the leader of the herd. In the plural the former (·) changes into (-:), and the latter into (·), and forms with the prefix וְאַלְפִים. Hence comes the first letter of the alphabet, Aleph, and also the Greek words ἐλέφας, an elephant, and ἄλος, a stag. A satisfactory deduction of אָלַף is given by Gesenius thus: it means firstly, to become accustomed, intimate with something or some one, hence אָלַף, he learned; אָלַף, he taught; מְאָלַף (for מְאַלַף), a teacher; אֲלוֹף, an intimate friend; בֶּבֶשׂ אֲלוֹף, a pet (lamb); אָלַף, ox (still from the idea of tameness), which occurs only in the plural masculine form, but common gender, אֲלָפִים, thy, &c., and in the form אֲלוֹף, likewise plural, Ps. cxliv. 14. Secondly, great number and connexion, אֲלָף, thousand, and the same as מִשְׁפָּחָה, smaller division of a tribe, Judges, vi. 15, &c., also of Bethlehem as the seat of such a division, Micha, v. 1. בְּאַלְפֵי יְהוּדָה, inter præfecturas Judææ. (Gesenius and others deny the meaning of אָלַף, dux, princeps). אֲלוֹף derived from אָלַף, φύλαρχος.

¶ כָּלָם (cullám) omnia-illa. From כָּל, omne, vid. No. 33. With an affix it assumes dagesh, and changes ו into (·), thus כָּלוּ, omne ejus; כָּלָם, totalitas illorum.

וְגָם (veghám) et etiam; גַּם, etiam, indeclinable; has an increasing force.

[409.] בַּחֲמוֹת (ba-hamóth) bestias. The noun feminine בַּחֲמָה, bestia, comprises all the larger quadrupeds, both wild and tame. This and חַיָּה are thus used; but when both are found together, חַיָּה signifies a wild animal. 2. עוֹף, volatile, includes all species of birds. 3. רֶמֶשׂ, calcatile, all inferior animals. 4. שָׂרָץ, motabile, all reptiles. Plural בַּחֲמוֹת. This word is used Ps. lxxiii. 22, with allusion to ignorance or rather tacit submission to the dispensation of Heaven, the root being probably בָּחַם, which, like אֵלֶם, דוֹם, דָּמָם, and other roots with ב, μῦω, mute, dumb, are expressive of dumbness.

[410.] שָׂדֵי (sa-dái) agrorum; שָׂדֶה, ager, a noun masculine radical (in regimen שְׂדֵה). In plural it becomes שְׂדוֹת. A Syrian singular is שְׂדֵי, and before a pause שְׂדֵי.

VERSE 9.

[411.] צִפּוֹר (tsip-pór) volatile cælorum. A noun of common gender, including generally all birds, but particularly the sparrow, as it is supposed to imitate its note, thus tsip tsip. In the plural צִפּוֹרִים, a Hebrew noun which affords the rare example of changing צ (:) into (ר), Ps. civ. 17. [For שְׁמַיִם, vid No. 70.]

[412.] דָּג (oo-dheghé) et pisces. A noun masculine דָּג, piscis, from דָּגָה, multiplicari, being remarkable for its fecundity. In plural דָּגִים, which in regimen, by changing (ר) into (:), gives דָּגִי. In the feminine form it is דָּגָה, from whence with an affix it changes ה into ת, thus דָּגָתָם, pisces eorum.

[413.] הַיָּם (hay-yám) ipsius maris. From the unused יָמָם, comes יָם, mare, which denotes not so much the water itself, as the place thereof. In the plural it assumes dagesh and changes (י) into (-), thus ימים, Maria.

[414.] עִבֵּר (gno-bhér) transiens. The Ben. Kal from עִבֵּר, transivit. LXX. τα διαπορεύμενα.

[415.] אֲרָחוֹת (or-hhoth) semitas; אֶרֶץ, a noun masculine with a plural feminine from אֶרֶץ, iter fecit. In the plural (-) changes into (י), and י sometimes into (י) and sometimes remains; hence אֲרָחוֹת and אֲרָחוֹת, and in regimen אֲרָחוֹת.

¶ Verse 10 is the same with the first verse.

PSALMUS IX. ט.

VERSE 1.

[416.] עַל־מִוֶּת לִבֵּן (gnal-moóth lab-ben) super mortem Labben, vel, ejus qui in medio stetit, scil. Goliath, who is called, 1 Sam. xvii. 4, אִישׁ הַיְבָנִים, vir medietatum sive intermedius, scilicet, inter duas acies. The LXX., apparently deriving עַל־מִוֶּת from עָלָם, occultavit, have rendered the passage, ὑπὲρ τῶν κρυφίων τοῦ υἱοῦ, pro occultis filii. Rabbi Kimchi says it is contracted for עַל־מִוֶּת, a species of musical instrument. מִוֶּת, mors (same as מוֹת), is derived from מוֹת, mori. Agreeably to Kimchi's reading עַל־מִוֶּת, Junius and Tremellius translate symphonice acutæ (treble); having translated שְׁמִינִית, ad gravem symphoniam (bass); see above, 284.

VERSE 2.

[417.] נִפְלְאוֹתֶיךָ (niph-leo-thé-cha) mirabilia-tua. The participle of Niphal נִפְלָא, mirabilis, from פָּלָא, which in Niphal signifies mirum, admirabile esse vel fieri. Likewise occultari. (It seems to be closely allied to פִּלָּה, which in Niphal, נִפְלָה, signifies segregari.) In the plural נִפְלָא gives נִפְלְאִים, but oftener the feminine נִפְלְאוֹת, mirabilia, which with affixes changes (ט) into (י), sometimes also dropping the ו of י, as נִפְלְאוֹתֵיהֶן.

VERSE 4.

[418.] בִּשְׁוֹב (beshoobh) in-revertendo. From שׁוּב, reverti, the infinitive of Kal with בִּ prefixed, the Gerund. Vid. No. 295.

[419.] אַחֲרֵי (a-hhór) retrosum. From אַחֲרֵי, post, comes אַחֲרֵי, posterius, and adverbially retrosum. Vid. Gr. p. 74, in voce אַחֲרֵי, note (b).

[420.] יִפְשֹׁל (yic-ca-sheloo) impingent. 3rd person plural future of Niphal from פָּשַׁל, impegit, pedibus-offendit, which in Niphal is נִפְשַׁל, and in the future the נ is changed into dagesh forte in כ. Hence פָּשִׁיל, securis.

VERSE 5.

[421.] וְדִינִי (vedhee-nee) et-causam-meam; דִּין, causa, judicium, lis, is a noun masculine without a plural, from דִּין, judicare.

[422.] לְכִסֵּא (lechis-sé) in-solio; כִּסֵּא, solium, a throne, is a noun of masculine gender with a feminine plural כִּסְאוֹת.

VERSE 6.

[423.] גַּעַרְתָּ (ga-hár-ta) increpásti; 2nd person singular preterite of Kal, from גָּעַר, increpavit, and with an accusative, increpando perdidit.

[424.] אֶבְדָּתָּ (ib-bádh-ta) perdidisti; 2nd person singular pret. of Pihel, which is אֶבַד, perdidit, from אָבַד, perii.

[425.] מָחִיתָ (ma-hhee-tha) delésti; 2nd person singular pret. of Kal, for מָחַתָּ, ה being changed into י quiescent. From מָחָה, delevit, abolevit.

[426.] וְעַד (va-hédh) in sempiternum. From עָדָה, transiit, comes עַד, usque, adhuc, and hence it signifies eternity. It conveys the idea of a longer time than עוֹלָם, seculum, as appears from Ps. x. 16. It always departs from the rule according to which it ought to be וְעַד like וְעַם, or וְעַד like וְאַחַד; it occurs only in a pause, whence, perhaps, the transposition of (ַּעַד) into (ַּעַד).

[427.] תַּמּוּ (tam-moo) consummatæ sunt. From תַּמָּם, integer fuit, finivit, comes the preterite of Kal by syncope תַּם, and in the plural, the second radical being compensated by dagesh, תַּמּוּ.

[428.] חֲרָבוֹת (hhora-bhóth) vastitates. Plural of חֲרָפָה. From חָרַב, to be dry, waste. The LXX. render τοῦ ἐχθροῦ ἐξέλκον αἱ ῥομφαῖαι, and so does Luther, “the swords of the enemy have come to an end;” accordingly, they suppose the punctuation חֲרָבוֹת, plural of חָרַב, and, moreover, assume a suffix יוּ, (חֲרָבוֹתֵי). A construction of this kind begins with what grammarians call an absolute nominative, thus: the enemy—his swords have come to an end; so Ps. xi. 4, Yehovah—in Heaven is his throne; Ps. xviii. 31, God—perfect is his way. Gesenius (who imagines חֲרָבוֹתֵי, his devastations) adduces as examples of such ellipsis suffixi, לַהֲחַיּוֹת, for להחיותם, Gen. vi. 19, וּזְמַרְתִּי, for וּזְמַרְתִּי, Ps. cxviii. 14. See also פָּרַם, for פָּרַם, No. 598. חָרַב combines the ideas of dryness and destroying, like ξηρός and ξέω, siccus and seco; related in sound, and partly in meaning are κάρπω, κείρω, carpo, &c.

[429.] לִנְצַח (la-né-tsahh) in æternum; נִצַּח, and four times in the Psalms, נִצַּח, victoria, &c., implying the finishing of an action, and when prefixed by עַד or ל, signifying perpetuity, viz., in perpetuum. From נִצַּח, vicit.

[430.] וְעִירִים (ve-ha-rím) et urbes; עִיר, urbs, is a noun of fem. gender. By preeminence applied to Jerusalem. In the plural עִירִים, in regimen עָרִי. From עוּר, excitare, quasi excitata muris, &c. etiamque incolis. עָרִיָּה probably means thy adversaries; in the same sense it occurs, Ps. cxxxix. 20; 1 Sam. xxviii. 16.

[431.] נִתְּשָׁה (na-thásh-ta) destruxisti; the preterite of Kal, from נִתַּשׁ, extirpavit, proprie de arboribus dicitur, et metaph. de idolis et nationibus.

[482.] אָבַד (a-bhád) periiit. The preterite of Kal. Vid. No. 48.

[433.] הֵמָּה (hém-ma) ipsis. From the singular הוּ, ille, comes plural הֵם, illi, and with ה paragogic הֵמָּה. The absolute pronoun after the suffixes is used for the sake of emphasis, “their very memory;” see Prov. xxiii. 15, גַּם אֲנִי, also mine, &c. Sometimes it is the accusative גַּם אֲנִי, Gen. xxvii. 34, bless also me; or prepositional לֹא עָלֶיךָ אֶתָּה, 2 Chr. xxxv. 21, not against thee.

VERSE 8.

[434.] יֵשֵׁב (ye-shébh) sedebit. The future of Kal, in which the first radical י is lost in (·), thus אֵשֵׁב, sedebō; תֵּשֵׁב, from יָשַׁב, sedīt.

VERSE 9.

[435.] וְהוּא (vehoó) et ipse. The pronoun masculine of the 3rd person הוּא, ille.

[436.] יִשְׁפֹּט (yish-pót) judicabit; 3rd person sing. fut. of Kal, which is אֲשַׁפֵּט, judicabo, from שָׁפַט, judicavit, condemnavit.

[437.] תֵּבֵל (te-bhél) orbem habitabilem. A noun radical, feminine gender, not so general in signification as אֶרֶץ, but answering to the Greek οἰκουμένη. It seems akin to תְּבִלָּה, confusio, (from בָּלָה, confudit, miscuit, quasi commixtio terræ). The modern derivation is from יָבֵל, High. הוֹבֵל, whence the substantive בּוֹל, proventus (terræ), תֵּבֵל, the habitable world, here, by Metonymy, its inhabitants.

[438.] פְּמִישְׁרִים (beme-sha-rím) in rectitudinibus. From יִשָּׁר, rectus, æquus fuit, comes the plural noun heemantiv מִישְׁרִים, rectitudines, in which י quiesces in (·). With ב, in, having an adverbial force.

VERSE 10.

[439.] וְיָהִי (vee-hee) et erit. From הָיָה, fuit, which in the future is אֶהְיֶה, ero, (wherein ה quiesces in (·)). But more frequently it loses the third radical ה by Apocope, the medial י quiescing, which is peculiar to this verb. But, that י may quiesce, it requires (·) before it; and (:) as well simple as compound, is placed beneath the letters אֶהְיֶה, as their natural point. Thus it becomes אֶהְיֶה, ero; יָהִי, sit, erit; and וְיָהִי, et-erit, in which (:) under י is taken away, because (·) precedes it. Accent, Mahpahh-zarkātum.

[440.] מִשְׁגָּב (mis-gábh) exaltatio, seu locus editus. A heemantiv noun masculine from שָׁגַב, exaltatus fuit.

[441.] לֶדָךְ (lad-dách) ipsi pauperi; דָּךְ, pauper, miser, a noun masculine without a plural, from דָּכָךְ, contudit, contrivit. Before a pause לֶדָךְ, pauperi, wherein ל excludes ה emphatic.

לְעֵתוֹת (lehit-tóth) ad-tempora. Vid. No. 30.

[442.] בַּצָּרָה (bat-sa-rá) in ipsa angustia. From צָר, arctare, comes the participial noun צָר, arctus, angustus; feminine צָרָה, angusta, and as a substantive angor animi, et cruciatus corporis. With the prefix ב, בַּצָּרָה, and when ה emph. is excluded בַּצָּרָה, in hac angustia, Ps. x. 1. For greater emphasis (vid. Gram. p. 12, note a), it is sometimes found with the double feminine sign, thus בַּצָּרָתָה, in ipsa summa angustia. With an affix it changes ה into ת, as, “In die צָרָתִי, angustie mee.” In the plural צָרוֹת.

VERSE 11.

[443.] וַיִּבְטְחוּ (veyibh-techoó) et sperabunt; 3rd person plural preterite of Kal, from בִּטַּח, fidit. Future אֲבַטֵּחַ, &c.

[444.] לֹא־עָזַבְתָּ (lo-ha-zábh-ta) non dereliquisti. The preterite of Kal, 2nd person sing. from עָזַב, deseruit, dereliquit. From this verb and person comes the form in Ps. xxii. 2. אֱלֹהֵי אֱלֹהֵי לִמְחָ עֲזַבְתָּנִי, which is in the Targ. אֱלֹהֵי אֱלֹהֵי לִמְחָ שְׁבַקְתָּנִי, thus in Mark, xv. 34. ἰλωι, ἰλωι, λαμῶ σαβαχθανί, in which (ἰλωι), from אֱלֹהֵי, the ה is omitted, because the Greeks do not admit the aspirate in the middle of a word; and the (:) in לִמְחָ is lengthened by means of the vowel A.

[445.] דֹּרְשֵׁיךָ (do-reshé-cha) quærentes te. The Ben. Kal דֹּרַשׁ, and with ו, דוֹרֵשׁ, from דָּרַשׁ, studiose-quæsit. In the plural דוֹרְשִׁים, and in regimen דֹּרְשֵׁי, and with the affix הָ, דֹּרְשֵׁיךָ.

VERSE 12.

[446.] זָמְרוּ (zam-meroo) cantate; 2nd person plural imperative of Pihel, from זָמַר, (see 122). Before a pause it resumes its regular form in Pihel, זִמְרוּ, for the verb in Pihel is זָמַר.

[447.] הַגִּידוּ (hag-ghee-doo) annunciate. For הַגִּיד, the 2nd person plural imperative of Hiphil, from the verb הִגִּיד, annunciavit, which is found only in Hiphil. Derived from נִגַּד, coram, by rejecting נ.

[448.] עֲלִילוֹתַי (gnalee-lo-tháv) opera ejus. A noun feminine עֲלִילָה, opus, studium, and in a bad sense, fraus. In the plural עֲלִילוֹת.

VERSE 13.

[449.] אוֹתָם (o-thám) eorum. This form, which is given as the accusative plural of הֵם, they (vid. Gram. p. 18), is really derived from the particle את, the sign of the accusative case. With the light affixes it changes (·) into ו and becomes אוֹתִי, me; אוֹתְךָ, te; אוֹרֹנוּ, eum; אוֹתָהּ, eam ipsam rem; אוֹתָם, eos. But with the grave affixes it changes (·) into (·:), as אַתְּכֶם, vos.

[450.] זָכַר (za-chár) recordatus est. The preterite of Kal with a pause, for זָכַר, memor fuit.

[451.] לֹא שָׁכַח (lo-sha-cháhh) non oblitus est. The preterite of Kal; occurs again in Ps. x. 11.

[452.] צָעָקָה (tša-hakáth) clamoris. From צָעַק, clamavit, comes the noun feminine צָעָקָה, clamor. In regimen ה is changed into ת, and (·) penult. into (·:), which under the guttural becomes (·:), which points the preceding letter with its own (·).

[453.] עֲנִיִּים afflictorum, pauperum. From עָנָה, afflixit, comes the noun masculine עָנִי, humilis, and in the plural (·), being changed into (·:), עֲנִיִּים, mansueti. This form is found in the marginal reading. From the same verb comes also the noun masculine עָנִי, afflictus; plural עֲנִיִּים (which is here the reading of our text, the points (··) belonging to the word in the margin), and in regimen עֲנִי. There is much connexion between the two words, as men are rendered lowly and meek by affliction.

VERSE 14.

[454.] חֲנֹנֵנִי (hchon-né-nee) miserere mei. Some copies read חֲנֹנֵנִי, but the former is the better reading, for the imperative of Kal would be חֲנֹן, and on account of the affix, ו is changed into (·) kametz chatooph. From חָנַן, misertus est. Vid. No. 176.

[455.] רֵאֵה (re-é) vide. The imperative of Kal from רָאָה, vidit, of the form of גָּלָה (vid. Gram. p. 88), which, with all verbs ending in ה quiescent, forms the imperative in (·), as גָּלֵה. In the feminine gender and in the plural number it casts away ח, thus וִירָאִי, et vide (filia); וִירָאִי, et videte.

[456.] עֲנִי (hon-ye) afflictionem meam; עָנִי, afflictio, both mental and bodily, is a noun masculine without a plural, from עָנָה, afflixit. With affixes (·) before י changes into (:), and (·) loses its (:), thus עֲנִי.

[457.] מִשְׁנָאִי (mis-so-ne'ée) ab odientibus me; שֹׁנֵא, (so-nē) odio habens, osor, a participial noun in Kal, from שָׁנָה, odit. Plural שֹׁנָאִים, Vid. No. 236.

[458.] מְרוֹמְמִי (mero-memee) exaltans me. From רוֹם, altum esse, which in Pihel causes the second radical to quiesce in ו, and doubles the third, thus רוֹמַם, elevavit, whence the participle, with the affix, מְרוֹמְמִי. Gesenius (Lehrgebäude, p. 802) considers this מְרוֹמְמִי as an imperative (be) elevating me; as, on the other hand, we sometimes find the participle preceding the finite verb assimilates the latter to itself, thus, Prov. xix. 26, יִבְרִיחַ instead of מִבְרִיחַ; Is. lvii. 3, וַהֲלֹנָה for וַהֲלֹנָה, &c.

[459.] מִשְׁעַר־יְמוֹת (mish-sha-hare-má-veth) de portis mortis. A radical noun masculine שַׁעַר, porta, and synecd. ipsa urbs. In the plural it becomes שַׁעֲרִים, by changing the former (-) into (:) and the latter into (·). In regimen שַׁעֲרֵי, (·) being changed into (-), which, therefore, points the preceding consonant with (-). Vid. Gr. p. 58.

VERSE 15.

[460.] כָּל־תְּהִלָּתְךָ (col-tehil-la-thé-cha) omnem laudem tuam, but more strictly laudem tuas, for the plural affix יך is joined to a singular noun תְּהִלָּה, laus, in a distributive sense. From הִלֵּל, laudavit.

[461.] בֶּת־צִיּוֹן (bhath-tsiy-yōn) filice Sion. From בֶּן, filius, comes the noun feminine בַּת, filia, for בָּנָה, the נ being elided, as the plural בָּנוֹת, plainly shews; which in regimen becomes בְּנוֹת. From בָּנָה, ædificavit, domum scilicet metaphorice.

[462.] אָגִילָה (a-glhee-la) exultabo. The future of Hiph. in which the middle radical ו is cast away, and ה paragogic added. From גִּיל, exultare. Vid. No. 111. In modern times the root is considered גִּיל as well as גִּיל (the latter in Prov. xxiii. 24, and only according to the Kteeb), and אָגִילָה Kal, not Hiphil.

[463.] בִּישׁוּעֵתְךָ (bee-shoo-ha-thé-cha) in salute tua. Vid. No. 166, for יְשׁוּעָה, salus, a noun feminine, and therefore in regimen changing ה, into ת, thus יְשׁוּעַת; with the affix יְשׁוּעֵתְךָ, and in a pause יְשׁוּעֵתְךָ, and the (:) under י being removed because of the preceding ב. From יָשַׁע, salvavit.

VERSE 16.

[464.] טַבְּעוּ (ta-bhehoo) demersæ sunt, gentes. The preterite of Kal, from טָבַע, immersus, vel demersus est.

[465.] עָשׂוּ (gna-soo) fecerunt. The preterite of Kal, in which ה quiesces in (ט), from עָשָׂה, fecit.

[466.] בִּרְשֶׁת (beré-sheth) in rete; רֶשֶׁת, rete; a noun feminine radical without plural, from whence, by excluding the middle radical ש, comes the Latin rete. רֶשֶׁת, quasi יִרְשֶׁת, the root being יִרַשׁ in the sense of capio.

[467.] זֶה (zoo) quod. A poetical pronoun of time, place, and thing, of common gender and of both numbers. Hic, is, iste, and hi, illi, isti. As in Ps. x. 2, זֶה, quas, &c.

[468.] טָמְנוּ (ta-má-noo) absconderunt. For טָמְנוּ, (:) in this place returning into (ט) because of the accent Rebbia.

[469.] נִלְכְּדָה (nil-kedhá) captus est. The 3rd person fem. pret. of Niphal, to agree with its nominative רֶגֶל, pes. From לָכַד, cepit, apprehendit.

VERSE 17.

[470.] נוֹדַע (no-dháng) notus est. The preterite of Niphal in which י is changed into ו, from יָדַע, novit.

[471.] בִּפְעַל (bephó-hal) in opere. From פָּעַל, operatus est, comes the noun masculine פֶּעַל, opus.

[472.] נוֹקֵשׁ (no-késh) illaqueatus est. It is either the Ben. Kal, from נָקַשׁ, a verb of the same signification, and is then active, or the preterite of Niphal of יָקַשׁ, illaqueavit, י being changed into ו, and the usual (-) into (·).

[473.] הַגִּיּוֹן (Hig-ga-yōn). A noun masculine without a plural meditatio, murmur, from הָבַה, removere, as if removed from within. The ἡ διαψάλματος of the LXX. anciently explained vocis intercanendum mutatio is supposed by Gesenius to mean the interruption of the instrumental music, and he accordingly takes הַגִּיּוֹן here like סִלְחָ, as an indication to the performers, rendering the former, (compare Ps. xcii. 4), playing of the harp (to begin), the latter, pause, (to singing).

VERSE 18.

[474.] שִׁכְחִי (sheche-hhé) oblitæ. In regimen from שִׁכְחִים, the plural masculine of שָׁכַח, (the (ר) being changed into (:)). From שָׁכַח, oblitus est.

VERSE 19.

[475.] יִשְׁכַּח (yish-sha-cháhh) oblivioni tradetur. The 3rd person singular future of Niphal, from שָׁכַח, oblitus est.

[476.] אֲבִיּוֹן (ebh-yōn) egenus. A noun masculine heemantiv, from אָבַח, voluit, cupiit.

[477.] תִּקְוַת (tik-váth) expectatio pauperum, LXX. ἡ ὑπομονὴ τῶν πενήτωρ, scil. patientia; הַקָּוָה is a noun feminine heemantiv in regimen הַקָּוָה, from קָוָה, in Pihel, expectavit.

[478.] עֲנִיִּים (gnaniy-yeem) pauperum, vel afflictorum; עֲנִי, afflictus, pauper, which in the plural assumes dagesh euphonic, thus עֲנִיִּים, in regimen עֲנִי. Vid. No. 453. The word לֹא of the preceding clause must be supplied here.

VERSE 20.

[479.] אֶל־יָעֹז (al yah-óz) ne praevaleat, vel roboretur. LXX. μεκραταίσουσθαι. The 3rd person singular future of Kal, formed by syncope of the middle radical, and found in this person only; feminine הָעֹז, illa praevalebit. From עָזָה, praevaluit, robustus fuit.

[480.] יִשְׁפֹּטוּ (yish-sha-phe-tōō) judicentur. 3rd person plural future of Niphal, from שָׁפַט, judicavit.

VERSE 21.

[481.] שִׁירָתָה (shée-tha) pone, vel incute. The imperative of Kal, the ה paragogic being added. From שָׁיַת or שָׁיַת, ponere. Accent, Mahpakh-zarkātum.

[482.] מוֹרָה (mo-rá) timorem. A heemantiv noun מוֹרָא, timor, and by change of the letters א and ה, מוֹרָה. From יָרָא, timuit, the י being changed into ו.

[483.] לָהֶם (la-hém) super eis. Compounded of ל, the sign of the dative case (which before affixes takes (י)), and the affix הֶם. It is used as the dative plural of הוּא, ille. Vid. Gr. p. 18. Accent, Merka Mahpachātum.

[484.] יִדְעוּ (ye-dhehoó) ut sciant. The 3rd person plural future of Kal, from יָדַע, novit. The first person is אֶדְעֶה, novi, the י being lost in (·).

PSALMUS X. 1.

VERSE 1.

[485.] תַּעֲמֹד (ta-hamód) stabis. 2nd person singular future of Kal, in which the guttural assuming the compound sheva (-:), punctuates the preceding letter with the simple vowel (-), (vid. Gr. p. 58), from עָמַד, stetit.

[486.] בְּרָחוֹק (bera-hhók) in longinquo. A noun masculine רָחוֹק, longinquus, and adverbially longè, as well of time as of place; here we are to understand keeping aloof from rendering assistance. From רָחַק, longe, procul abfuit. In plural (ר) being changed into (:), it makes רָחוּקִים.

[487.] תִּעְלֵם (tah-leem) abscondes te, vel oculos tuos. LXX. ὑπεροφῆς. 2nd person singular future of Hiph. from עָלַם, abscondit.

[488.] לְעֵתוֹת (lehít-tóth) in temporibus. LXX. ἐν ὑκαιρίαις, in opportunitatibus. From עָתָה, tempus. Vid. No. 30.

VERSE 2.

[489.] בְּגִאוֹת (begha-aváth) in superbia. From גָּאָה, elatus, elevatus fuit, comes by changing ה into ו, the noun feminine גִּאוּה, elatio, superbia. In this place ה is changed in ת because of regimen.

[490.] יִדְּלֶךָ עֲנִי (yidh-lák gna-nee) insequetur afflictum. LXX. ὑμπεριζέται ὁ πτωχός. Bythner, with the LXX., Luther, and Gesenius, consider עֲנִי as a nominative; the latter renders accordingly “ängstigt sich der Leidende, i. e., angit se afflictus. Hare and our authorized version make it the accusative. The future of Kal from דָּלַק, exarsit, and metaph. ardenti animo persecutus est.

[491.] יִתְפָּשׂוּ (yit-ta-phesoo) capiantur. 3rd person plural future of Niphal, from תִּפְשׂ, prehendit. Accent, Shalsheleth.

[492.] בְּמִזְמוֹת (bhim-zim-móth) in cogitationibus, scil. pravis. A noun feminine heemantiv מִזְמָה, cogitatio, from זָמַם, cogitavit, generally taken in a bad sense. Plural מִזְמוֹת.

[493.] חָשְׁבוּ (hha-shá-bhoo) quas excogitaverunt. 3rd person plural preterite of Kal, from חָשַׁב, excogitavit. Thus before a pause חָשְׁבוּ. [זוּ, quas, see above. Ps. ix. 16].

VERSE 3.

[494.] חִלֵּל (hil-lél) laudavit se, seu gloriatur. The LXX. rendered it, ἡπαινείται ὁ ἀμαρτωλός, laudatur peccator. The preterite of Pihel, insanum reddidit, from חָלַל, insanivit. In Hiph. splendere, lucere; and in Hithp. laudibus se efferre. [See 233.]

[495.] תַּאֲוָה (ta-aváth) super desiderio. A noun feminine heem. תַּאֲוָה, cupiditas, which in regimen changes תַּ into ת; from תַּוָּה, cupiit.

[496.] וַיְבָרֶךְ בִּרְיָ (oo-bho-tseang be-réch) et avarus sibi benedixit, seu blanditur. Hare. Alii, et avaro benedixit. בָּרַךְ, the Ben. Kal, from בָּרַעַ, Quæstui deditus fuit, item, Divisit. Mendelssohn and Gesenius render this בָּרַעַ, plunderer, robber; the former translates, “and the robber blesses himself that he scoffs at the Godhead.”

[498.] נֶאֱפַץ (nee-éts) exacerbavit. The preterite of Pihel, from נָאֵץ, sprevit, contempsit. Accent, Merca-zarkátum.

VERSE 4.

[499.] כְּגֹבָהּ (kegho-bháh) secundum fastum, scil. nasi, i. e., superbiæ suæ, גִּבְיָהּ, a noun masculine without a plural, from גִּבַּהּ, altus, sublimis fuit.

[500.] בַּל- (bal) nequaquam. A negative particle, not used in prose; root בָּלָה, implying annihilation, related to נָבַל, [32].

[501.] יִדְרֹשׁ (yid-rósh) inquiret. The future of Kal, from דָּרַשׁ, studiose quæsit. Vid. No. 445. Poole, in his Synopsis Criticorum, here quotes Grotius, saying, “Nomen Deus hîc supplendum est.” The ancient Hebrew commentator Yarchi makes the same supply in the nominative, and so does in our times Gesenius assert (Lehrgebäude, p. 850), that אָמַר בְּלִבּוֹ of the 11th verse, which begins a similar strain, is to be supplied here; thus, “he says in his heart God does not inquire.”

VERSE 5.

[502.] יִחִילֻּ (ya-hhee-loo) dolore-afficientur, scil. viæ ejus. The future of Hiph. from חָוַל, dolere, scil. in partu. It is formed by casting off the middle radical ו, and is read in the 3rd person only, viz., יִחִיל, dolore afficiet, Ps. xxii. 8, and in the plural as above. The root חָוַל, חוּל, whose more hardened form is חָבַל [No. 364] includes the ideas of turning, winding, writhing (hence also parturition, and trembling), swinging, hurling, waiting, remaining, to be strong, lasting, and prosperity. The last meanings have been countenanced in this passage by various authorities, thus the Geneva French version “son train prospère en tout tems,” the same idea of prosperity is supported by Yarchi and Gesenius. Luther and Mendelssohn give the sense of continuance, lasting. So Poole’s Synopsis, “Sed malim permanent sive perdurant, nempe pravæ consuetudines (ut Ps. i. 6) nunquam emendantur. חָוַל, permanere significat, Jer. xxiii. 19, et xxx. 23; sic et יִחִיל, Job. xx. 21.” Observe, the form under consideration may be Kal as well as Hiphil; it is the latter in Ps. xxix. 8, “causes to tremble.”

[503.] יִפִּיתַ (ya-phecahh) sufflabit in illos. The future of Hiph. which is found in the Psalms in 3rd person singular only. Formed from פִּוּחַ, flare, sufflare, by casting away ו.

[504.] בָּהֶם (ba-hém) in illos. The preposition ב, in, with affixes takes (ַ).

VERSE 6.

[505.] בַּל־אֲמוֹט (bal-em-mót) non movebor. The 1st person sing. future of Niphal, which always adopts ו, from מוּט, dimotus fuit.

[506.] לְדֹר וְדֹר (ledhor va-dhor) in generationem et generationem. A noun masculine דֹּר, generatio, duratio humanæ vitæ. From דָּוַר, habitare. In plural דֹּרוֹרִים and דִּרְוֹרֹת.

VERSE 7.

[507.] אֵלֶּה (a-lá) execratione. A noun feminine from אָלַה, juravit, execratus est, and denominative from אֵל, God being invoked in swearing or cursing.

[508.] מָלֵא (ma-lé) plenum est. The preterite of Kal, from מָלַא, plenus fuit, in which א quiesces in (ַ); feminine מְלֵאָה, plena fuit, Ps. xxvi. 10.

[509.] וְתֹחַ (va-thóch) et dolo; תֹּחַ, or without ו, תֹּחַ, fraus, dolus, and with ו, et, with (ַ) before athnac, תֹּחַ, et dolus, from תֹּחַ, medium, because deceit lies “in medio, i. e., corde hominis.” The word תִּכְכִּים, Prov. xxix. 13, supposes a root תִּכַּךְ, not found in Hebrew, but in Arabic, in the sense of cutting, oppression; so does likewise תִּנַּךְ in Chaldee and Syriac imply damage and robbery. Compare the root בָּעַע [496], which similarly contains the ideas of division, cutting, and oppression.

[510.] בַּמְּאָרֶב (bema-arábh) in insidiis; מְאָרֶב, insidiae, latebræ, a noun masculine heemantiv, from אֲרַב insidiatus est. In regimen, as above, it changes (τ) into (-).

[511.] חֲצֵרִים (hhatse-reem) villarum. The nominative plural masculine, and חֲצֵרֹת, nominative plural feminine of חֲצֵר, atrium, properly the court-yard. The LXX. render it μετὰ πλουσίων, cum divitibus, having read, perhaps, עֲשָׂרִים, divites.

[512.] בַּמִּסְתָּרִים (bam-mis-ta-reem) in latibulis. A noun masc. heemantiv, מִסְתָּר, absconsio, from סָתַר, abscondit.

[513.] יַהֲרֹג (ya-harógh) occidet. The future of Kal, from הָרַג, occidit.

[514.] נָקִי (na-kee) innocentem. An adjective, from נָקָה, to be clean, pure. In regimen it shortens (τ) into (:); thus נָקִי כַפַּיִם, purus manibus, i. e. insons.

[515.] לַחֲלֹכָה (lehhē-lechá) contra pauperem. LXX. εἰς τὸν πίνητα, in pauperem; חֲלֹךְ, pauper, afflictus, is formed from the unused חֲלָךְ, and with the prefix ל, and the paragogic ה, לַחֲלֹכָה. In verse 14, the accent being drawn back to the penult. in a pause, it is חֲלֹכָה. In verse 10, ה being changed into א, the plural חֲלֹפְאִים is found; which, however, some understand as two words, thus חֲלֹפְאִים, catus pauperum, viz., חֲלֹ for חֵיל, and פְּאִים, a plural masculine from פָּאָה, attrivit, by which reading the verb נָפַל, singular, will agree in number with חֲלֹ.

[516.] יִצְפֹּנִי (yits-pó-noo) delitescet. The 3rd person plural future of Kal, from צָפַן, abscondit. Regularly יִצְפֹּנִי, but in a pause the original cholem remains.

VERSE 9.

[517.] יֵאֲרֹב (ye-erobh) insidiabitur. The future of Kal from אֲרַב, insidiatus est. Observe (◌:) under the guttural, which punctuates the preceding with the vowel with which it is compounded. [בִּמְסָתָר, in latibulo, scil. ב, in ; מְסָתָר, latibulum heemantiv, from סָתַר, latuit. See Nos. 512 and 526.]

[518.] בִּסְכּוֹ (besue-có) in tugurio suo. From סָכַךְ, texit, comes the noun masculine סֹכֵךְ, tegumentum, latibulum. On account of the affix it assumes dagesh, and changes ו into (ו), making סָכּוֹ, and ח being substituted for ו, סָכּוֹחַ, tugurium ejus, and in Ps. lxxvi. 3, with ו in place of (ו) סוֹכְוֹ in the Këri, but in the Këthibh (or text) סָכּוֹ.

[519.] לַחֲטוֹף (la-hhatóph) ad-rapiendum. The infinitive of Kal, from חָטַף, cito rapuit, with ל the sign of the gerund; wherein also the guttural ח takes the compound (-:) in place of (:), which punctuates the preceding letter with (-).

[520.] יַחֲטוֹף (yahh-tóph) rapiet. The future of Kal from the last, for יַחֲטוֹף, (-:) returning into (:).

[521.] בְּמֹשֶׁכוֹ (bemosh-chó) in trahendo ejus, i. e., cum traheret. From כָּ, in מִשְׁכּוֹ, trahere, the infinitive of מָשַׁךְ, traxit, and the suffix ו, which causes the change of (:) into (ר) chatoof, as in No. 124.

VERSE 10.

[522.] יִדְבֶּה (yidh-ké) conteret se. So read in the Këri, but in the text וִדְבֶּה. The 3rd person singular future of Kal, from דָּבַךְ, contrivit, infregit, but in the future signifying he shall break or bow down himself. We may either read וִדְבֶּה for יִדְבֶּה, with ו instead of י, or reading the letters irrespective of the points (since they are always intended for the word in the margin), וִדְבֶּה will signify et contritus factus est, and he boweth himself.

[523.] יִשָּׁח (ya-shóahh) humiliabitur. The future of Kal with patach furtive, from שָׁחַךְ, curvatus est, succubuit, the middle radical being syncopated. See Gram. p. 45.

[524.] נָפַל (ve-na-phál) et cadet. Preterite of Kal, from נָפַל, cecidit, of which see more in No. 267. It is here read with ו con-versive of the preterite.

[525.] בָּעֲצוּמָיו (ba-hatsoo-mav) in robustis ejus. As the strength of the body consists much in the bones, this may mean also, in his bones, i. e., into the power of his strength; the word עֲצָם, signifying a bone or substance. Derived from עָצָם, robustus vel fortis fuit. The participle Pahul of Kal is עָצוּם, of which the plural is עֲצוּמִים, as the general rule is, that “(ט) penult. is shortened into (:) in every increment and also in regimen.” The Geneva French translation is here very appropriate, “entre ses griffes” (gripe, claws), the word עֲצוּמִים, being, according to Gesenius, an epitheton poeticum, (like אֲפִיר, לִבְנָה, &c.) used for “strong members,” “teeth,” “claws.”

VERSE 11.

[526.] הִסְתִּיר (his-teer) occultavit vultus ejus, which the LXX. render ἀπέστρεψε, avertit, inasmuch as the angry are wont to turn away the face. The preterite of Hiph. from סָתַר, abscondit, which in Hiph. implies through aversion.

[527.] בַּל־רָאָה (bal-ra-á) nequaquam vidit; רָאָה, vidit, feminine רָאָתָה, and in the second and first persons of both numbers, הָ being changed into י quiescent, it gives רָאִיתָ, vidisti, and with הָ paragogic, רָאִיתָה, and by suppressing י, רָאָתָה; 1st person רָאִיתִי; but in the plural הָ is lost before ו, which gives רָאוּ, viderunt. See [333].

VERSE 12.

[528.] אֶל־תִּשְׁכַּח (al-tish-cáhh) ne obliviscaris. The 2nd person singular future of Kal, which is אֲשַׁכַּח, obliviscar, (with dagesh lene after (:)), from שָׁכַח, oblitus est, for which see No. 451.

[529.] עֲנִיִּים (pauperum sive afflictorum, or (taking ו for י), as in the margin עֲנִיִּים (hana-veem) mansuetorum. See No. 453.

VERSE 14.

[530.] תִּבְיֵט (tab-beet) respicies. The future of Hiph. 2nd person singular from תִּבְיֵט, aspexit, respexit, from the root (not used) in Kal נִבְט, of which the נ is changed in Hiph. into dagesh.

[531.] לַתֵּת (la-thēth) ad dandum vel rependendum. The infin. of Kal with ל the gerundial sign prefixed, from נתן, dedit, of which both the letters נ are lost in the infinitive תֵּת, dare. Observe, before a monosyllable, ל takes (י).

[532.] יִעֲזֹב (ya-hazóbbh) relinquet se. The 3rd person singular future of Kal, from עֲזַב, deseruit, dereliquit. Observe, the compound sheva under the guttural points the preceding letter with (-).

[533.] יָתוֹם (ya-thóm) pupillo. From the unused יָתֵם, of same meaning, comes יְתוֹם, and in the plural (י) being changed into (י:), יְתוֹמִים, pupilli.

[534.] עֹזֵר (ho-zér) adjutor. The Ben. Kal. which supplies the place of a noun; and in the plural עֹזְרִים; from עָזַר, adjuvit.

VERSE 15.

[535.] שִׁבֵּר (shebhór) contere vel frange. The imperative of Kal from שָׁבַר, fregit, res duras comminuit.

[536.] זֵרֹעַ (ze-róang) brachium. A noun of common gender, but oftener feminine.—Buxtorf. Plural זֵרֹעוֹת, brachia; Ps. xxxvii. 17; from זָרַע, seminavit, as it seems to grow from the body, or by metathesis, from עָזַר, auxiliatus est, quasi auxilium corporis. The root זָרַע (as well as זָרָה, זָרַח, זָרַם, זָרַק, זָרַר) contains the ideas of spreading and extending, and thus gives expression to sowing seed and the arm. The Latin sero dropping the r in seri, satum, is more akin to the English to sow, German säen. It is remarkable, however, that these and other languages by inserting the letter p or t in the sound of זר, which the above six trilaterals have in common, represent like them, in a great variety of words, some modification or other of the same ideas of spreading and extension; thus the Greek σπείρω, σπορέω, &c., Latin spargo, spiro, sterno, &c.; in English we need only glance over those columns in the Dictionary beginning with spr, str, sprout, sprite, spread, sprig, spring, sprinkle, (זרק) &c. &c., strew, straw, streak, strut, street, &c. &c. The German (changing the vowels) has nearly all the same words and even more, as strahl, a beam, (זרח, to shine), the same word in Italian and Russian signifies a dart; for stream the German has strom, strudel, strut; the latter having become obsolete, is found in its vigour still in Irish; although, like the Hebrew, that language not admitting spr, str, at the beginning of a word, it is simply Sruth, a stream, (compare זרם).

[537.] בַּל־תִּמְצָא (bal-tim-tsá) non invenies. The 2nd person singular future of Kal, from מִצָּא, invenit.

VERSE 16.

[538.] מֵאֶרֶץ (me-ar-tsó) de terra ejus. From מ, de, (which takes (·) before א), and אֶרֶץ, terra. In the plural the former (·) being changed into (·:), and the latter into (·), we obtain אֶרְצוֹת, terræ.

VERSE 17.

[539.] שָׁמַעְתָּ (sha-mang-ta) audivisti. The 2nd person singular preterite of Kal, from שָׁמַע, audivit.

[540.] תִּכְנֶן (ta-cheen) stabilies. The 2nd person singular future of Hiph., of which the 1st person is אֶכְנֶן; from כָּנַן, which in Hiph. is כִּנֵּן.

[541.] תִּקְשֹׁב (tak-sheebh) attendere-facies. The 2nd person singular future of Hiph., from קָשַׁב, properly aurem advertit.

[542.] אוֹזְנָךְ (oz-né-cha) aurem-tuam; אוֹז, auris, a noun of the feminine gender. In the dual (or plural) אוֹזְנַיִם, utraque auris, and with the affix, ם being excluded אוֹזְנֶיךָ, ures tuæ. Hence אָזַן, a verb in Pihel, attendit.

VERSE 18.

[543.] לִשְׁפֹּט (lish-pōt) ad judicandum, i. e., ut judicet. The infinitive of Kal preceded by the gerundial ל, which takes (·) on account of the following (:). Root שָׁפַט, judicavit.

[544.] בַּל-יֹסִיף (bal-yo-seéph) ne addat, i. e., ne pergat. The 3rd person singular future of Hiph., from יָסַף, addidit. In Hiph. הוֹסִיף, in which י is changed into ה.

[545.] עוֹד (hōdh) amplius, ultra. Indeclinable.

PSALMUS XI. יא.

VERSE 1.

[547.] אֵיךְ (ēch) quomodo! or with ה paragogic אֵיכָה, an interrogative particle expressive of wonder.

[548.] תֹּאמַרְוּ (to-meróo) dicetis. 2nd person plural future of Kal, which in the 1st person is אֹמַר, for אָמַר, the second א being suppressed in order that two should not come together; 2nd person תֵּאמַר; 3rd person יֵאמַר; in Ps. xlii. 10, the 1st person is found with ה paragogic, thus אֶמְרָה.

[549.] נִדְדוּ (noodhoo), or in the Kēri נִדְדִי (noo-dhee) fuge. The imperative of Kal of נָדַד, migrare, profugere, and with a dative, condolere. It expresses the removal of the body from place to place, and in this differs from נוּעַ, which signifies an unsteady position, shaking, nodding, hovering, reeling; some passages excepted where it agrees with נָדַד and נִדְדוּ, for example, Jer. xiv. 10.

VERSE 2.

[550.] יִדְרְכוּן (yidh-rechóon) intendent. The 3rd person plural future of Kal with ן paragogic, from דָּרַךְ, tetendit. Vid. No. 357.

[551.] עַל־יֵתֶר (gnał-yé-ther) super nervum. LXX. εἰς φάρτσαν. Simonis settles the noun masculine יֵתֶר, thus, 1. chorda, nervus, funis, restis, a tensione vel extensione, plural יֵתֶרִים (מֵיתֶרִים occur in the same sense and more frequently); 2. excellentia, eminentia; 3. abundantia; 4. reliquum, residuum: to these may be added, 5. another name for יֵתֶר, the father-in-law of Moses. Of the root יָתַר, the same author says in Kal inusit., proprie tendit, intendit, extendit. The words עַל־יֵתֶר of Ps. xxxi. 24, are rendered abundantly, in full measure.

[552.] לִירוֹת (lee-rōth) ad jaculandum. LXX. τοῦ κατατοξεύσαι, scil. ῥίπα. The gerundial form of the infinitive of Kal, which is ירוֹת, but with ל prefixed, the (·) is removed because of the preceding (·).

[553.] בְּמוֹ־אֶפֶל (bemo-6-phel), בְּמוֹ for בְּ, in. The syllable מוֹ, says Gesenius, is a paragogic syllable attached to the prepositions, בְּ, לְ, מִן, merely to make independent words of them (there being in Hebrew no word of one letter). These words are exclusively poetical except כְּמוֹ, (with grave suffixes, and כְּמוֹ with light suffixes), which will be found also in the ordinary style. A comparison with the Arabic, where the same trilateral compounds are of common use, would point out the origin of מוֹ to be the word מֶה, what (used relatively).

[554.] אֶפֶל (ó-phel) caligine. A noun radical, denoting denser darkness than חֹשֶׁךְ, tenebræ, and here means in ipsa caligine.

VERSE 3.

[555.] הַשְׁתוֹת (hash-sha-thōth) fundamenta ipsa. The plural of שֵׁת, fundamentum, with the article ה prefixed. From נִשְׁתָּה, ponere. The LXX. seem to have read הַשְׁתָּה, quæ posuisti, as they have rendered it ὅτι ἂν σὺ κατακτίσῃς, quoniam quæ tu perfecisti.

[556.] יִהְרָסוּן (ye-ha-re-sōn) destruentur. The 3rd person plur. future of Niph. with ך paragogic (which draws the accent to the last radical, see 596), the (..) under י being compensative for the excluded dagesh, and the latter under ר being on account of the accent Athnach. From הָרַס, destruxit, diruit, which is said properly of buildings, and is the opposite to בָּנָה, ædificavit.

VERSE 4.

[557.] יִחְזֹז (yé-hhezóo) intuentur. The 3rd person plural future of Kal, which is in the 1st person אֶחְזֹז, contemplabor. From חָזָה, perspexit mente et oculis, which is the Chaldee and Syriac for רָאָה, and substituted in Hebrew only in the more lofty and prophetic style.

[558.] עִפְפֵּי (gnaph-hap-pav) palpebræ ejus, i. e., pupillæ oculi ejus. The word עִפְפֵּי, (which never occurs), palpebræ, is a dual noun, of which the termination ים, is excluded on account of the affix יי. From עָפַף, volare. The first and last radical being repeated, the conjugation (thus formed from a biliteral root) is called Pilpel; עִפְפֵּי bearing the same relation to עָפַף, as flutter does to fly.

שָׁרַח applied to the first rays of the rising sun, is used by Job, like Ἀμέρας βλέφαρον, (Soph. Antigone).

[559.] יִבְחֶנּוּ (yibh-hhanóo) probabunt. The 3rd person singular future of Kal, thus, יִבְחֶנּוּ, יִבְחֶנּוּ, יִבְחֶנּוּ, &c. ; in the 3rd person plural ה takes (-:) on account of the guttural. From בָּחַן, probavit, periculum fecit, Anglicè, he tested, assayed. LXX. ἔπειράζει.

VERSE 6.

[560.] יִמְטֵר (yam-tēr) pluet. The 3rd person singular future of Hiph. and therefore signifies pluere faciet. From מָטַר, pluere, as a verb only used in Hiphil.

[561.] פָּחִים (pa-hhéem) laqueos. The plural of פָּח, laqueus, from פָּחַ, illaqueare. Vid. No. 503.

[562.] אֵשׁ (ēsh) ignis. A noun of common gender, but oftener feminine. It has no plural. It signifies also calamity, war, destruction. The Jewish Targum renders this passage thus, “He will cause the rain of his vengeance to come down upon the impious who breathe out fire.”

[563.] וּגְפִירִית (ve-goph-réeth) et sulphur. A noun fem. without plural. This word may be considered a derivative of גִּפְרִית, (for which also פִּפְרִית is used), rosin, pitch; whence Gen. vi. 14, עֵצֵי גִפְרִית, trees containing such combustible matter, and it is probable that originally it was synonymous with גִּפְרִית.

[564.] זִלְעָפוֹת (zil-ha-phōth) procellarum, i. e., procellosissimus. The plural of the quadriliteral noun feminine זִלְעָפָה, procella. It is also found in the plural with ז. The expression alludes to the scorching or glowing winds well known and dreaded in the East; the letter ל being added to the root זעף, which in Syriac means to glow, in Hebrew to burn with anger. A similar insertion we find in שְׂלֵאֲנָן, otherwise שְׂאֲנָן.

[565.] מִנְתָּ פֹסֶם (menāth cosām) portio calicis eorum. מִנְתָּ, portio, pars, a noun feminine from מִנָּה, numeravit. פֹּסֶם, calix, a cup, and hence metaphoricè a portion, as he who presided over a feast distributed to each his portion. See Ps. lxxv. 8; “For in the hand of the Lord there is a cup,” &c. Also, St. Matt. xxvi. 29. To פֹּסֶם is added the pronominal affix ם, eorum. Plural of מִנְתָּ is מִנְתּוֹת and מִנְיֹת, see Neh. xii., verse 44 and 47.

VERSE 7.

[566.] אָהֵב (a-hébh), or אָהֵב, dilexit, amavit, the 3rd person singular preterite of Kal; 2nd person singular אָהַבְתָּ, dilexisti; 1st person singular אָהַבְתִּי, dilexi, or in a pause אָהַבְתִּי.

PSALMUS XII. יב.

VERSE 2.

[567.] כִּי־פָסוּ (kee-phás-soo) quoniam desierunt. The 3rd person plural preterite of Kal, from פָּסַם, by syncope for פָּסַם, desiit, defecit.

[568.] אֱמוּנִים (emoo-néem) fideles, veraces. A noun masculine plural signifying veritates, fidelitates. From אָמֵן, in Niphal נֶאֱמָן, verax, fidus est. LXX. ὡς ἡ θεία ἀληθεία, diminutæ sunt veritates. The singular occurs Deuter. xxxii. 20, אֱמֵן, (the same as אֱמִין), where (·) is put for (·:), per Syriasmum, as Grammarians term this change with which we meet occasionally in Scripture, as אֶפֶי for אֶפֶי, Exod. xvi. 23; אֶתִּי for אֶתִּי, Jes. xxi. 12.

[569.] מִבְּנֵי (mib-benáy) a filiis. The noun masculine בֶּן, filius, in the absolute form of the plural, and with the light affixes takes (ר) in place of (·) and makes בְּנִים; but in regimen, and with the grave affixes it changes (ט) into (ז) and makes בִּנְיָ, and with the prefix מ, מִבְּנִי.

VERSE 3.

[570.] שָׁוֵא (sháv) mendacium. A radical noun masculine without a plural, sometimes used adverbially, frustra, temere, as in Ps. lxxxix. 48, עַל־מַה־שָׁוֵא, "propter quid frustra creásti omnes filios hominis."

[571.] אֶת (eth) cum; but this particle generally denotes the accusative.

[572.] רֵעָהוּ (ray-háy-hoo) proximo suo. The noun masculine רֵעַ, or רֵעָה, socius familiaris, plural רֵעִים is derived from רָעָה, pavit, or according to some, from the Chaldaic רָעָא, voluit. In the plural, being formed from רֵעָה, it "casts away ה radical along with the preceding vowel," according to the general rule when ה is the last radical; and makes רֵעָהוּ for רֵעָהְהוּ; for the affix הוּ does not unite with nouns except those ending in ה.—Bythner.

[573.] שֶׁפֶת (sepháth) labio. A noun feminine שֶׁפֶת, labium, in regimen changing ה into ת, and (ט) into (ז).

[574.] חֻלְקֹת (hha-la-kōth) blanditiarum, i. e. sermone blando. The plural of the noun feminine חֻלְקָה, blanditiæ, item pars, portio, From חָלַק, dispertivit, divisit. In Gen. xxvii. 16, חֻלְקֹת signifies the smooth part of Jacob's neck. The primary meaning of חָלַק is smoothness, as here and above 264; we find the same in words of similar sound in other languages, as glac-ies, glass, glib, glaber, gladius, glide, German glatt, Russian gladkee; καλός, calculus, the latter word, which in Chaldee is חֻלְקָה (smooth pebbles for calculation and casting lots), gave rise to the secondary meaning, which is that of division.

[575.] יִכְרֹת (yach-rayth) excindet. The 3rd person singular future of Hiph., from כָּרַת, scidit, excidit, amputavit.

[576.] שִׁפְתָּי (siph-tháy) labia. From שִׁפָּה, labium (vid. No. 573), comes the dual שִׁפְתַּיִם, ה being changed into ת. In regimen ים is changed into י, and (י) into (י), the former (י) also in (י), from whence שִׁפְתָּי. In the plural feminine שִׁפְתוֹת.

[577.] לִשׁוֹן מְדַבֶּרֶת (la-shón medhab-béreth) linguam eloquentem. The participle feminine in Pihel, from דִּבֵּר, locutus est. Vid. No. 76.

[578.] גְּדֻלוֹת (gedho-lōth) magna, superba. The feminine plural of the adjective גָּדוֹל, magnus, feminine גְּדוּלָה, plural masculine גְּדוּלִים, feminine גְּדֻלוֹת. From גָּדַל, crevit, magnus fuit. See [257.]

VERSE 5.

[579.] נִגְבִּיר (nagh-béer) prævalebimus. The 1st person plural future of Hiph. from גָּבַר, prævaluit, scilicet, robore, virtutibus, &c.; in Hiphel הִגְבִּיר, potentem reddidit.

[580.] אִתָּנוּ (it-tá-noo) nobiscum. From אִתְּ the preposition, which with affixes changes (־) into (י), as אִתִּי, mecum; אִתָּנוּ, nobiscum, &c.

[581.] לָנוּ (lá-noo) nobis. From ל the sign of the dative, and נו the affix. See Gram. pp. 18 and 21.

VERSE 6.

[582.] מִשֹּׁד (mish-shōdh) a vastatione, i. e. propter vastitatem; שֹׁד, vastatio, is a noun masculine without a plural, from שָׂדַד, vastavit.

[583.] מֵאֲנָקָה (may-en-káth) a gemitu, i. e. propter gemitum; אֲנָקָה, gemitus, is a noun feminine, and therefore in regimen changes ה into ת, (י) being also changed into (י), and (־י) losing its (י), it should be אֲנָתָה, but in certain cases (specified in Gesenius' H. G. translated by Conant, § 27) (־י) is changed into (־י), and it becomes אֲנָקָה, with the prefix מִ. LXX. ἐνεκα τῆς ταλαιπωρίας.

[584.] אָקום (a-kóom) surgam, i. e. potentiam meam ostendam. The 1st person singular future of Kal, from קום, surgere.

[585.] אָשית (a-shéeth) ponam. The 1st person singular future of Kal, from שות or שית, ponere. The 2nd person is תָּשית or תָּשַׁת, and before maccaph תָּשַׁת.

[586.] בְּיָשַׁע (be-yay-sháng) in salute; יָשַׁע, salus, is a noun masculine without a plural, from יָשַׁע, Hiphil הוֹשִׁיעַ, salvavit.

VERSE 7.

[587.] אִמְרוֹת (cem-róth) verba. From the noun feminine אִמְרָה, verbum, sermo, and in regimen אִמְרַת. The plural is אִמְרוֹת, but in regimen, as here א takes (·), and (·) is changed into (:); hence אִמְרוֹת.

[588.] מְהֻרֹּת (teho-róth) pura verba. From מְהֻר, mundus, purus fuit, comes the noun masculine מְהוּר, purus, used often with respect to the mind, as לֵב מְהוּר, cor mundum. Feminine מְהוּרָה; plural מְהוּרוֹת.

[589.] כֶּסֶף (ké-seph) argentum. A noun masculine, which, like the other precious metal זָהָב (compare צָהָב, yellow), owes its name to its colour; כֶּסֶף implying in Chaldee to be pale, and in Hebrew (to turn pale with) longing.

[590.] צָרוּף (tsa-róoph) excoctum. The participle pahul of Kal, from צָרַף, igne purgavit, properly said of metals.

[591.] בַּעֲלִיל (ba-h'-léel) in catino terreno. Hebr. לְאָרֶץ, super terram. עֲלִיל is a noun masculine derived from עָלַל, operatus est, and occurs only here; Gesenius translates it werkstatt, i. e. workshop.

[592.] מְזוּקָה (mezuk-kāk) defæcatum. The participle Puhul of זָקַק, fudit, defæcavit.

[593.] שִׁבְעָתַיִם (shibh-ha-thá-yim) septies, i. e., sæpius. From the masculine שִׁבְעָה, septem, comes, by changing ה into ת, and adding the dual termination שִׁבְעָתַיִם, and before a pause שִׁבְעָתַיִם, here taken adverbially.

VERSE 8.

[594.] תִּשְׁמְרוּם (tish-me-ráym) custodiet eos. From the verb שָׁמַר, custodivit, comes the future of Kal אֲשָׁמֹר, of which the 2nd person is תִּשְׁמֹר, which, with the affix ׁם, becomes תִּשְׁמְרוּם.

[595.] תִּצְרְנֶנּוּ (tit-s'rénnoo) servabis eum. The future of Kal, from צָרַר, servavit, which sometimes retains and sometimes loses ׁ, the loss being compensated by dagesh, as in this place. Future אֲצַר.

VERSE 9.

[596.] יִתְהַלְכוּן (yith-hal-la-chōōn) obambulant. The 3rd person plural future of Hithpahel, which voice is הִתְהַלֵּךְ; future אִתְהַלֵּךְ, &c. From הִלֵּךְ, ambulavit, ivit. Before a pause (-) is changed into (׃), and ׁ paragogic being added, the word becomes יִתְהַלְכוּן, with the accent on the last radical, (see 556).

[597.] פָּרַם (k'-róom). From פָּ, quùm, secundùm, and רָם for רָם, altum esse. The infinitive of Kal. It therefore signifies secundum exaltationem, i. e. quum exaltatur.

[598.] זָלוּת (zul-looth) vilitas. Buxtorf refers זָלוּת (as some copies have it) to the singular זָלָה, vilitas, vel res vilis; and assigns it to the root זָלָה, vile esse, vilipendere. Gesenius derives זָלוּת from זָלָה, and renders it schrecken, i. e. fright. In his Lehrgebäude, p. 734, he considers פָּרַם as implying the suffix, (for פָּרוּמָם), and translates accordingly, “when they rise (then there is) fright to the children of men.” (See 428).

[599.] לִבְנֵי אָדָם (libh-nay adhám) inter filios hominis. Vid. No. 569.

PREFACE.

IN presenting the following elementary work to the Hebrew student, the compiler puts forward no claims to originality of thought or discovery, in a path that has already been trodden by so many learned Hebraists, both Jewish and Christian. It will suffice for his object if he has been able successfully to glean from the valuable labours of each such information as the youthful scholar may implicitly rely on, and to have presented it in so tangible a form that it may be readily apprehended by the most inexperienced mind. To smoothe the path towards the acquisition of that language in which the far greater portion of the sacred oracles was originally written, and to reduce it within such a compass as would render it compatible with the time and means of all, has been the Editor's earnest desire, as he conceives that he would thereby remove two serious obstacles to the acquisition of a knowledge of the sacred tongue.

The authorities consulted in this compilation have been Buxtorf, Bythner, Parkhurst, Robertson, Stuart,^a Jones, and others, especially Ashworth,^b whose clear grammatical arrangement has been followed throughout, and whose useful Paradigms have been corrected and given at length; and as the Grammar will be followed immediately by the publication of the first twelve Psalms with Latin version and grammatical praxis, compiled from Bythner and equally high authorities, it is hoped that an elementary work will thus be presented to the public, which will be found to possess much practical utility.

Should this humble effort be attended with any portion of success in the attainment of the above mentioned desirable objects, the Editor will feel amply rewarded for the time and labour that the work has required; rejoicing that he has been in any measure the means of promoting an acquaintance with that language in which the “lively oracles of God” were originally written, and in which the coming of a Redeemer was so minutely foretold.

^a His clear view of the Hebrew accents will be found in an Appendix.

HEBREW GRAMMAR.

CHAPTER I.

OF THE LETTERS AND POINTS.

1. THE names, form, sound, and numeral value of Hebrew letters, are,

Aleph ^a . א a 1	Lamed . ל l 30
Beth . . ב bh, or ב b 2	Mem . . מ m 40
Gimel . ג gh, or ג g 3	Nun . . . נ n 50
Daleth . ד dh, or ד d 4	Samech . ס s 60
He . . . ה h 5	Haïn ^b . . ע h 70
Vau . . . ו v 6	Phe . . . פ ph or פ, p 80
Zain . . ז z 7	Tzade . . צ tz 90
Cheth . ח ch χ 8	Koph . . ק k 100
Teth . . ט t 9	Resh . . ר r 200
Yod . . י y 10	Shin . . ש sh 300
Caph . . כ k, or כ c 20	Thau . . ת th or ת, t 400

^a See Psalm cxix., in which not only each division, but every verse in each division, begins with the letters of the alphabet in the order here given; the letter of each verse commencing with the letter of its own division, viz., all of the first with א, those of the second with ב, &c.

^b The sound of ע is various; some sound it in the beginning of

DILATED LETTERS.		FINAL LETTERS, (Camnephatz.)
Long Aleph ^a	א	Final Caph ^b	ך . . . 500
— He	ה	— Mem	ם . . . 600
— Lamed	ל	— Nun	ן . . . 700
— Mem	ם	— Phe	ף . . . 800
— Thau	ת	— Tzade	צ . . . 900
— Beth	ב	— ^c	א' . . . 1000
— Resh	ר		ב' . . . 2000

The other numbers are expressed by a combination a word like ng, as נַאִין, gnain, as in gnomon; h in the middle, as in בְּעֵתוֹ, behitto; and ng at the end, as רַאֵךְ, ruang. But the translators of the English Bible never give it this harsh sound, as may be seen in the proper names עֵבֶר Eber, בַּעַל Baal, פַּרְעֹה Pharoah, and many others.

The letter Shin written with a point on the left שׁ is called Sin, and pronounced s, as in שַׁפָּחָה saphah, being very similar in sound to ס, though not quite so sibilant, as in Judg. xii. 6, “say now שִׁבְלֶת Shibboleth, (a stream;) and he said, סִבְלֶת Sibboleth.”

^a These long letters are used towards the end of lines merely to complete the space, and are found only at the end of words. ב and ר rarely occur.

^b This form of Caph, Mem, &c., is called final, because they only assume it at the end of words.

^c If in the ancient Hebrew copies of the Bible numeral letters were used, as it is said they were, the likeness of several letters may account for some mistakes where numbers are concerned, and the careless making or reading a tittle upon a letter might change units into thousands.

of these letters ; those of highest value being placed on the right hand : thus, יא stands for 11 ; יב for 12 ; except in the number 15, in which the Hebrews use ט, 9, and ו, 6, to avoid the use of יה ; the same letters signifying the sacred name of God (JAH). Therefore אהמא stands for 1841.

The distinction between several letters, which resemble each other, should be carefully remarked, v. g. שׁ, שׂ, צ, ע, ס, ז, יז, יח, יד, נ, כ, ב.

With respect to the organs of pronunciation, the letters have been divided into five classes, which require to be particularly observed, as the letters of the same organ are frequently interchanged for each other, except ה and ע.

I. Guttural, or those formed by the throat, אהחע technically ahachang.

II. Lingual, by the tongue, דטלנת datlanath.

III. Palatine, by the palate, גיכק gicak.

IV. Dental, by the teeth, זסצרש zastzerash.

V. Labial, by the lips, בומפּ bumaph.

א, ה, ו, and י (ehevi) are called quiescents, because they often are not sounded, i. e. when they have no vowel under them. י indeed sometimes forms a diphthong with the preceding vowel, as אֲדֹנָי Adonai, the Lord ; אֲדֹנָי adonai, my lords, and ו at the end of a word is sounded like v, as פִּי piv, his mouth. Sometimes also they form a diphthong together, as in גּוֹי goi, a nation; גָּלוּי galui, revealed.

With respect to the consideration of the roots of words and their derivatives, the letters of the alphabet have been divided into eleven radicals and as many serviles. The radical letters are those which are never found except in the roots of words. The serviles are those which serve to the inflexion of words, or their formation from roots. They are also frequently used as radicals.

The radicals are דג טחז עס רקצפעס, and are included in the words of the Jewish prayer חס פֶּרֶט גִּזַּע חָצֵק chas peret ghezang tsedek, “spare the twig of the righteous stem.”

The serviles are תש נמלכי וה בא, and are included in the three proper names אֵיתָן מֹשֶׁה וְכָלֵב Ethan Mosheh ve-Caleb. Thus in חָצֵק to be just, the letters are all radical, but in the derivative צִדְקָה justice, the final ה is servile, whereas in עָלָה to ascend, the final ה is used as a radical.—(Vide Chap. XII.)

2. The points and marks, about or within the letters, are, vowels, mappik, dagesh, maccaph, or accents.

3. There are fourteen vowels, five long, five short, and four very short. Their sound is here expressed by the correspondent vowels in some English words.

Kametz ^a . . . \aleph . . . a . . . māster .	Patach \aleph . . . a . . . man .
Tzere \aleph . . . e . . . thēre .	Segol \aleph . . . e . . . men .
Long chirek \aleph . . . i . . . profīle .	Short chirek . . . \aleph . . . i . . . win .
Cholem \aleph . . . o . . . mole .	Kametz-chateph ^b \aleph . . . o . . . not .
Shurek \aleph . . . oo . . . rule .	Kibbutz \aleph . . . u . . . run .

Chirek followed by ם is long (י.) but without it generally short, (י.).

4. Sheva (י) is an exceeding short e, as in belong, and is sometimes quiescent.—(Vide Chap. II. Sect. 2.)

Sheva is understood as standing under all consonants (except ehevi) which have no other vowel.^c

Three vowels joined with sheva make three new vowels, called compound shevas or semi-vowels.

Chateph-patach . . . \aleph . . . a . . . very short . . . as mutāble.

Chateph-segol . . . \aleph . . . e . . . very short . . . as bēlieve.

Chateph-kametz . . . \aleph . . . o . . . very short . . . as appōsite.

^a The \aleph is here only used, as any other letter might have been, to shew the situation of the vowels in respect to the consonants; but the shurek always has ם, and the cholem most commonly. A tittle over any other letter, and the point which distinguishes ש from ש may be cholem. The point of ש is cholem when the preceding consonant has no vowel, and of ש when the ש itself has none, מֹשֶׁה Mōsheh, שֵׁנָה sonē.

^b Kametz and kametz-chateph are distinguished in Chap. II. s. 3.

^c As a letter which has dagesh forte is doubled, (vide infra, Sect. 7,) or is the same as if there were two such letters, sheva is understood under the former, as רֹנְנִי ronnu, for רֹנְנִי ronenu.

5. A patach is put under a final ה, ח, and ע, after a kibbutz, or any of the four last long vowels, but is pronounced before them, as רוּחַ ruach, the wind; אֱלֹהִי Eloah, God; יוֹדֵעַ yodeang, knowing: this is called patach furtivum, or stealing in, and it is lost when the word increases at the end, as by declining, &c., as, sing. אֱלֹהִי, plur. אֱלֹהִים; sing. רוּחַ, plur. רוּחוֹת ruchoth, not רוּחוֹת ruacoth.

6. Mappik, from נָפַק to bring out, is a tittle in a final ה, and requires it to be pronounced harder than a common ה, as אֱלֹהִי eloah.

dagesh 7. A tittle in any other letter than ה is called dagesh, from דָּגַשׁ it pointed. Of this there are two sorts, forte and lene. Dagesh forte ^{is a tittle which} doubles the letter in which it is put, as in פָּקַד pakkeed, to visit frequently: dagesh lene is a tittle in any of the letters כּ פּ דּ תּ technically bheghadh kephath; it removes the aspirate sound, and requires them to be pronounced somewhat harder than they would naturally be, but not so hard as the forte; little notice, however, is taken of dagesh lene in reading, unless it be found in גּ, דּ, פּ, or תּ, which are then pronounced G, D, P, and T.

N. B.—The gutturals and ך do not admit dagesh.

8. A small stroke like a hyphen (-) joining two words, is called maccaph, as כּל־לֵב col-labe, every heart. It accelerates the reading, and sometimes changes a long vowel into a short, as כֹּל into כָּל- cōle into cōl, (not cāl before Maccaph;) בֵּן a son, into בֶּן- sounded bāne and bēn.

9. All the other characters are accents: six of these are also pauses.

REBBIA, a superincumbent point, thus, נָ, from רִבֵּץ incumbere, is equivalent to our comma (,).

ATHNAC, a respiration, from נָח quiescere, thus, נָ, equal to a colon (:).

ZAKEPH-KATON, erector parvus, from זָקָה erexit, and קָטָן parvus, marked thus, נָ, equals a semicolon (;) instead of which SEGOLTA (inverted Segol) נָ, and sometimes TIPHCA נָ is used in long verses.

SYLLUK, a remission of the voice, from סָלַח remisit, equals a period, and is written thus, נָ. It is always placed before Soph-pasuk.

SOPH-PASUK, (:) the end of the passage, סוּף the end, פְּסוּק of the passage. This, with Athnac and Sylluk, is always a pause; but Rebbia, Zakeph-katon, Segolta, and Tiphca are frequently only musical characters. (:) is placed at the end of every verse in the Hebrew Bible.

The Tonic accent denotes that the syllable is to be elevated, and is placed either on the last or penult. syllable. If placed on the last syllable it is termed acute, and by the Hebrews מִלְרַע “beneath” or “below” the penult. But if placed on the penult, it is then termed penacute, and is called Milheel מִלְּעֵיל “above.” Thus יִשְׂרָאֵל Israél is acute, and אֲבִימֶלֶךְ Abimélek is penacute.

The other accents, which are about twenty, served to direct the modulation of the voice in chanting or singing. Their powers may be collected in some measure from their names, but are now but little known. They are as follow, viz.

Metheg, a bridle ^a	ז	Zarka, the diffuser	זז
Zakeph gadhol, the great ele-		Yethib, a drawing back	ז
vator	ז	Paser, the disperser	זז
Tebhir, or broken sound	ז	Shalshleth, a chain	זז
Geresh, expulsion of voice	ז	Munach, or placed below	ז
Gereshayim, two expellers	ז	Maphach, or inverted	ז
Telisha gedholah, greater evul-		Darga, a step	ז
sion	ז	Merca, a lengthening out	ז
Telisha kettannah, less evul-		Merca kephula, a double do.	ז
sion	ז	Yareach, the moon	ז
Karne parah, the horns of the		Pashta, (or Kadma,) extension	ז
heifer	ז	Pesek, a pause or cutting off	זז

Accents are either tonic or euphonic. If there be but one in a word, it is a tonic accent: if more than one, the last is tonic and the rest are euphonic.

^a Metheg is so called because it restrains the former syllable from passing too rapidly to the Tonic accent, and strengthens the long vowel before (:) utterable, as, פָּקֵדָה pakeda.

CHAPTER II.

OF READING HEBREW.

1. THE Hebrews begin to read at the right hand, and the vowels are pronounced after the consonants under which they stand, except patach furtivum (Chap. I. Sect. 5,) as רוּחַ ruach, the wind.

2. Sheva is quiescent: 1. At the end of a word; 2. Before another sheva, as לָמַדְתָּ lamadt, thou hast learned; 3. After a short vowel without dagesh, as לִמְדִּי limdi, learn thou;^a or, 4. After a long vowel with a tonic accent, as מָסַרְתָּ masarta, thou hast delivered down. In other cases it is pronounced.

^a The principal use of distinguishing the long from short chirek, is to know whether a sheva that follows it is to be pronounced or not: for though chirek without ם is sometimes reckoned long, it is never long when sheva follows it; if, therefore, a sheva follow a chirek without ם, and there is no dagesh in the intermediate letter, the chirek is short, and the sheva quiescent.

N. B.—Dagesh is sometimes omitted in ם or מ with sheva; the analogy of the word will shew when there ought to have been a dagesh, and in this case the sheva is pronounced, though it follow a short vowel, because of the dagesh understood.

3. Kametz without an accent before a simple sheva, or with an accent before a compound sheva, or before Dagesh forte, Maccaph, Compound kametz (ֿ:) or following Vau conversive, is kametz-chateph, or very short (o): as הֹלֶמֶד holmad, קֹסְמִי kosomi, רֹנְנוּ ronnu, כֹּל־אָדָם col-adam, אֹהֶלוֹ oholo, וַיַּיָּאֲכֹם vayyákom, for וַיַּיָּאֲכֹם vayyakóm.

Dagesh is lene in ב, ג, ד, כ, פ, and ת (בֶּגֶד כֶּפֶת) begad kephath) in the beginning of a word, or after a sheva: in all other cases it is forte.

CHAPTER III.

A BRIEF ACCOUNT OF HEBREW WORDS.

1. A Root commonly consists of three letters, and is most frequently the third person singular of the preterite active of a verb, as דִּבֶּר he spake.^a

^a Some verbs have not this tense; some roots have four letters, some only two; sometimes a noun or an indeclinable part of speech

2. All the several persons, tenses, &c., of verbs, are formed by changing the vowels, or by adding certain letters to the beginning or end of the root.

3. Nouns are likewise formed from these roots : sometimes by only changing the vowels, as דָּבָר dabar, a word, from דִּבֵּר he spake; or dropping a radical letter, as מָר mar, bitter, from מָרַר it was bitter; and sometimes by also adding a letter or letters to the beginning or end, as מִדְּבָר midbar, a wilderness, from דִּבֵּר he spake.

The letters chiefly used for this purpose are ה, א, מ, נ, י, ת, (הֶאֱמַנְתִּי heemanti) and the nouns thus formed are called heemantic nouns.^a

4. Other letters are occasionally prefixed to words, which have the signification of conjunctions and prepositions. These, from their situation, are called prefixes, is the root, and is to be sought in the lexicon; but this chapter is only designed to give a general notion of the language, without descending to particular rules, exceptions, &c.

^a א, ה, and ת, are commonly prefixed, as תּוֹרָה a law. מ likewise is generally prefixed; when it is joined at the end, it commonly makes an adverb, as יוֹם a day, יוֹמָם daily, by day. נ is generally placed at the end, as קֶרֶבֶן corban; י at the beginning, middle, or end;
the last is frequent in forming numeral, national, or other adjectives;
as שֵׁנִי second, כְּנַעֲנִי a Canaanite, חֲפֵשִׁי free.

and are מ, ש, י, ה, ו, ל, כ, ב, (מֹשֶׁה וְכָלֵב) Mosheh ve-Caleb.) Vide Chap. IX.

5. Other letters occasionally added to the end of words, are called affixes, and stand for pronouns. (Vide Chap. V. Sect. 2.)

6. א, ה, ו, י, נ, and ת, (אֶהְיִינוּת ehevinoth) are called paragogic letters, as they are often annexed to words only to improve the sound or add emphasis. ה indeed at the end of the name of a place signifies motion towards it, as חֲרָנָה towards Haran.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NOUNS.

1. NOUNS are either masculine, feminine, or common. The names of things which are evidently feminine, of places, cities, countries, &c., of things of which there are but two, (as eyes, ears, &c.) together with those which end in ה or ת,^a are generally feminine.^b Most others are masculine.

^a Sometimes the feminine hath both ה and ת, which is thought to make the word more emphatical. There is no יְשׁוּעָתָה help at all. Psalm iii. 2.

^b What is expressed in other languages by the neuter is in

2. Nouns have three numbers.

Masculines form the dual^a by adding ים aim, and the plural, by adding ים^b im, as יום a day; dual, יומים two days; plural, ימים days.

Hebrew expressed by the feminine; thus “evil,” malum, is expressed by רעה as well as a wicked woman. טובה bona, may signify “goods,” as well as “good,” when joined with any substantive.

^a The dual number is seldom used except where things are spoken of, double by nature or by use; and it is used of these in place of the plural with the even numbers above “two,” thus “four feet,” “six wings,” are expressed “two, three pair,” שש פנאים^c. ארבע רגלים. Hincks’ Heb. Gr. Sect. 199.

^b Besides the change in the termination, the vowels are often altered. The rules for this will be given, Chap. X. Some examples, however, may be useful here, as a kind of a standard of all words with the same points.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.	SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
דבר a word	דברים	מות death. . . .	מותים
פלג a river. . . .	פלגים	זית an olive . . .	זיתים
ספר a book	ספרים	חפשיה liberty . . .	חפשיה
דמע a tear	דמעות	מלכות a kingdom .	מלכויות
קומץ a handful . . .	קמצים	שלמה a garment .	שלמות
פעל a work	פעלים	חרפה reproach . .	חרפות
גדי a kid	גדיים	שמחה joy	שמחות

Some derivatives drop a letter of the radical word. When such defectives increase at the end (as by declining, &c.) a dagesh is put Feminines form the dual likewise, by adding ים, but those which end in ה, change it into ת, as שנה shanah, a year, שנתים shenathaim, two years.

Feminines form their plural by adding ות, as באר a well, plur. בארות; while those which end in ה, or ת, omit these letters in the plural, as תורה a law, תורות; others add ות, as דמע demah, a tear, דמעות demahoth, tears.^a

Some nouns which have a masculine or feminine termination in one number, have the contrary, or both, in another, as אב ab, a father, pl. אבות aboth; תאנה a fig, pl. תאנים; צבא an army, pl. צבאות and צבאים hosts, armies.

3. A noun expressing quality, with the particle מן in the latter radical letter, and the preceding vowel, if a long one, is changed into the correspondent short.

עם a people, from עַמּם pl. עַמִּים	} [(.) is the common substitute for (..) and (י), or kametz-chateph for (י) or (י).]
לב the heart, from לֶבֶב pl. לְבַיִם
תום perfect, from תָּמַם pl. תְּמִים

Sometimes (-) is in this case changed into (.), though both are short vowels, as מִסָּב a circuit, from סָבַב pl. מְסַבִּים.

N.B.—The change of (י) into (י) is an irregularity peculiar to the word יום.

^a Adjectives are formed as nouns, in genders and numbers; thus, טוב good, fem. טובה, plur. טובים and טובות.

or ב, (vide Chap. IX. Sect. 1.) before, or in comparison of, prefixed to another noun, expresses the comparative degree, e. g. טוֹבִים דְּרִיךְ מִיַּיִן thy love is good in comparison with wine, i. e. is better. The superlative is made—1. By the adverb מְאֹד very, exceeding, as טוֹב מְאֹד, very good, וַיִּירָאוּ מְאֹד and they feared greatly. 2. By the prefix ב, blessed בְּנָשִׁים among women. 3. By the name of God, the trees, mountains, &c. of God. 4. By the repetition of a word, as good good. 5. By two synonymous words, as עָנִי וְאֲבִיוֹן poor and needy.—6. By the genitive case plural of the same or a synonymous word, as מֶלֶךְ מְלָכִים, King of kings.

4. The cases^a of nouns are not so determinately distinguished as in Latin and Greek ; yet the following rules may be of some use in discovering them.

ה is prefixed most frequently to the genitive or vocative, or the accusative after a verb.

שׁ, especially in Rabbinical Hebrew, and before the affixes, is the sign of the genitive.

ל is sometimes prefixed to the genitive, but more frequently to the dative.

^a Hebrew nouns have properly no cases, their place is supplied by prefixing to the noun certain particles, which are sometimes attached to its beginning, and sometimes remain distinct words.

Gen. over

Acc.

aliq. g.

req. Dat.

את is a particle, which usually precedes the accusative case, or the nominative of passive or neuter verbs. It signifies the, the very, and denotes nearness.^a מן written as a distinct word, or the prefixes מ or ב, denote the ablative.

5. When two words are so related, that in Latin the latter word would be put in the genitive or ablative case, the former is said to be in regimen.

The change for regimen affects the points only, or both the letters and points.

Nouns masc. sing. as דָּבָר a word, and fem. plur. as בָּנוֹת daughters, change the points only, as דְּבָר word of, בְּנוֹת daughters of; but nouns mas. plur. as דְּבָרִים words, and fem. sing. as תּוֹרָה a law, change both letters and points, as דְּבָרֵי words of, תּוֹרַת law of, &c. (See Chap. X. Sect. 1, for the changes of these points.) But nouns that have no kametz in the ult. or penult. as קוֹל a voice, חֵן grace, כֵּלִי a vessel, סֵפֶר a book, and several others, are the same in the absolute and constructed state, as סֵפֶר תְּהִלִּים sepher tehillim, the book of praises, i. e. the Psalms.

If the former of two words in regimen is a feminine ending in ה, that termination is changed into ת, as תּוֹרָה a law, תּוֹרַת יְהוָה the law of Jehovah.

^a See Praxis on the Psalms. Num. 64.

If the former of two words in regimen is a plural masculine, or a dual of either gender, the termination ים or ים is changed into י as מִטְעִים plantations, מִטְעֵי כַּרֶם plantations of vine.

CHAPTER V.

OF PRONOUNS.

1. PRONOUNS are either separate words, or conjunct: of the former kind these are the chief:

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
אֲנִי or אֲנֹכִי I, com.	אֲנַחְנוּ We, com.
אַתָּה Thou, m.	אַתֶּם Ye, you, m.
אַתְּ Thou, f.	אַתֶּן Ye, you, f.
הוא He, m.	הֵם They, m.
היא She, f.	הֵן They, f.
זֶה This, m.	אֵלֶּה These, c.
זֹאת This, f.	אֵלֵּי These, c.

מֶה who, which, that, relative. מִי who? מַה what, interrogatives? הֵוא is often put for הִיא; הֵמָּה for הֵם; הֵנָּה for הֵן; and sometimes נַחֲנוּ is used for אֲנַחְנוּ; זֶה, זֹו, זֹוּ, or זֹאת.

Some of these pronouns are in a sort declined.

Abl.	Acc.	Dat.	Gen.	Nom.
מִמֶּנִּי מֵנִי	אֹרְתִי	לִי	שְׁלִי	אֲנִי	I, me.
מִמֶּנּוּ מֵנּוּ	אֹרְתּוֹ	לּוֹ	שְׁלּוֹ	אֲנֻחֵנוּ	We, us.
מִמֶּךָ	אֹרְתְּךָ	לְךָ	שְׁלְךָ	אַתָּה	Thou, thee, m.
מִמֶּכֶּם	אֹרְתֵכֶם	לָכֶם	שְׁלָכֶם	אַתֶּם	You, m.
מִמֶּנָּה	אֹרְתָהּ	לָהּ	שְׁלָהּ	אַתָּ	Thou, thee, f.
מִמֶּנָּן	אֹרְתָנָן	לָנָן	שְׁלָנָן	אַתָּן	You, f.
מִמֶּנּוּ	אֹרְתּוֹ	לוֹ	שְׁלוֹ	הוּא	He, him.
מִמֶּהֶם	אֹרְתָם	לָהֶם	שְׁלָהֶם	הֵם	They, them, m.
מִמֶּנָּה	אֹרְתָהּ	לָהּ	שְׁלָהּ	הִיא	She, her.
מִמֶּנָּן	אֹרְתָנָן	לָנָן	שְׁלָנָן	הֵן	They, them, f.

By some grammarians the genitive cases of the pronouns are wholly rejected, the particle שְׁל being considered as merely compounded of ש from אֲשֶׁר who or which, and ל to, and therefore meaning simply which (is) to any one; thus כְּרָמִי שְׁלִי my vineyard which is to me; that is, my own vineyard.

The conjunct pronouns, so called because they are always found conjoined with other words, are merely parts of the separate pronouns prefixed or suffixed to the beginning of words.

The prefixes are three, viz.—

I. ה derived from הוּא or הִיא, which may be considered as an article; as הָאִישׁ the man.

II. שׁ, from אֲשֶׁר who? This is sometimes used as a conjunction, sicut, as, viz. אֲשֶׁרָא as he came, meaning the time in which he came.

III. מַה sometimes drops the ה and becomes a prefix, as מֶהָ (for מַה זֶה) what (is) this?

The affixes or suffixes are more numerous; they are derived from the personal pronouns, and after nouns signify possession, as my, thy, his, &c.; after verbs or prepositions, they act as personal pronouns, as me, thee, &c.

2. The following examples shew the affixes, and the manner of affixing them to nouns.^a

^a Affixes to verbs are treated of, Chap. VIII.

Note 1. כֵּן, כֶּן, הֵם, and הֵן, are called grave affixes, because they alter the punctuation of the word to which they are joined in the same manner as regimen does. 2. Nouns in the dual and plural numbers have ם before all the affixes except ן. אב a father, אח a brother, and חם a father-in-law, insert the ם though singulars, as אחיך thy father: and also these seven particles, אחר after, אל to, בין between, עד unto, על upon, תחת under, and יחד together with. 3. ן is sometimes inserted between the word and affix, especially the affixes ך, ך, and ך to nouns, and ןי me, and הן him, to verbs, which ן is sometimes lost in a dagesh. 4. את with, changes tzere into short chirek with dagesh, as אתי with me; before ה it has (ר) as אתה.

with us ; so also עִם with, as עִמָּנוּ with us. 5. אֵין not, הִנֵּה behold, and עַד hitherto, instead of הֵ have נָ, and nouns that end in ה take ו, which are the affixes of the third person singular masculine to verbs, as אֵינוּ not he, עֲלֵהוּ his leaf, from עֵלָה a leaf. 6. ה (the affix) has commonly, but not always, mappik, and is thereby distinguished from the local, and feminine termination.

Obs. 1.—The first and second columns of Suffixes are subjoined to Nouns, and also to Verbs, Participles, and Prepositions; the third column of Suffixes is not usually subjoined to Nouns, only to Verbs, Participles, &c.

Obs. 2.—In the Suffixes of the second person we every where read כ for ת; viz. in דָּבָרְךָ, זְכַרְתָּךְ, &c., for דָּבָרְתָּ, זְכַרְתָּ, &c.: the reason of this change is, without doubt, to prevent the ambiguity, which might otherwise arise, between those Suffixes and the Verbal terminations דָּבַרְתָּ, זָכַרְתָּ, &c.^a

The Affixes (or suffixes) are but parts of the Pronouns Primitive from which they are derived, and are therefore called derivatives. The manner in which they are derived is as follows :

From the first Person of the Common Gender.

		זְכָרְתָּנִי zekartani , “remember me.”

CHAPTER VI.

OF VERBS IN GENERAL.

1. EVERY perfect verb has seven conjugations, kal, niphal, pihel, puhal, hiphil, hophal, hithpahal.^a (See

^a The first is called kal, (קַל light) because the verb is there simplest and least encumbered, both in form and signification. In the paradigm פָּקַד he visited, or לָמַד he learned, for the illustration of this and each following remark.)

Kal is active. The root is generally the third singular of its preterite, as לָמַד he learned. But of verbs whose second radical is ו, or י, the infinitive in kal, and not the preterite, is commonly to be found in lexicons.

Niphal is the passive of kal. The characteristic is נ, as a preformant; or, in those tenses where it has another preformant, a dagesh in the first radical, instead of נ,^a as הִלְמִיד, נִלְמִיד.

the first grammars, פָּעַל (he wrought) was the paradigm of perfect verbs, and the ע not being pronounced, or only as h, the preterite of each conjugation would be hithpahel, hophal, hiphil, puhah, pihel, niphal.

נִפְעַל פָּעַל פָּעַל הִפְעִיל הִפְעִיל הִתְפַּעֵל

That paradigm was justly laid aside, as ע being a guttural, will not admit the dagesh, which is the characteristic of some conjugations; but they continued to be called by those names, which, as they contain the vowels of verbs in each conjugation, give a general notion of their form. פָּקַד he visited, has been commonly used since, as the paradigm; but as the initial letter פ has sometimes a dagesh lene and sometimes not, and this merely because it is one of begad kephath, (the dagesh not being common to all verbs in those conjugations, in which פָּקַד has it,) לָמַד he learned, is sometimes substituted in its place.

^a This use of dagesh resembles the change made when in and

In Pihel and Puhal the signification of a verb is strengthened; thus, to seek, in Pihel is, to seek diligently. Pihel is active, Puhal passive, and takes (־) kibbutz under the first radical. These conjugations have dagesh^a in the second radical, as לָמַד, נִלְמַד, לִמַּד, &c.

Hiphil is active, Hophal passive: they denote an effect upon another, (v. g. to cause to seek, or to be sought), and may be called the causative voices.

Hiphil prefixes ה־ to the first radical and י־ to the last, thus, הִפְקִיד he caused to visit; and takes patach under the formative letter of the tense, as יִפְקִיד he shall cause to visit. Hophal subscribes kamets-chatuph or kibbutz, as הִפְקִיד hophkad, מִפְקֵד muphkad.

Hithpahel answers to the middle voice in Greek, and has commonly a reflective or reciprocal signification; thus, from גָּדַל he was great; in Pihel, גִּדַּל he magnified, but in hithpahel הִתְגַּדַּל he magnified himself. It has ה־ prefixed in most tenses, and always illuminate are made into one word, illuminate; the same is done in innumerable instances in all languages.

^a On account of the dagesh, pihel, puhal, and hithpahel, are called grave conjugations, the others light.

^b N.B.—When the first radical letter is a sibilant (i. e. one of has dagesh in the second radical, as הִתְלַמֵּד he taught himself.

Sometimes a word occurs which has, in part, the form of two conjugations.

It is to be remembered, there is not an uniform change in the signification of all verbs in the several conjugations, many having in one a signification very different from, and almost contrary to, what they have in another; of this the lexicons give instances enough. See הִלֵּל, הִתְאֵב, &c.

2. Verbs have several moods and two tenses in each conjugation. The moods have much the same signification as in other languages. One preterite expresses all the kinds of past action, and the future what is yet to be done. It also signifies the continuance of any thing, or that it is customary, possible, lawful, reasonable, or desirable to do it. Instead of a present the (וּסְעֶשׂ) the performant letter ת is put after the sibilant, as הִתְסוּבֵב for הִסְתוּבֵב.

1. The ת thus transposed is changed into ד if the sibilant is ז, as הִזְדַּמֵּן for הִזְדַּמֵּן he prepared himself; and into ט if it is צ, as הִצְטַדַּק for הִצְטַדַּק he justified himself.

2. When the first radical is ד, ט, or ת, the preformant ת is omitted, and its place supplied by dagesh, as הִטְהַר for הִתְהַר he cleansed himself.

tense, the participle of the present is used, hence called Benoni, between, i. e. the past and future.^a The tenses are often used promiscuously, especially in the poetic and prophetic books.

With regard to the conjugations in general, it may be remarked, that the characteristic, or formative letter of the tense, excludes that of the conjugation; thus, פָּקֵד is, in the future of Hiphil, אֶפְקֹד for אֶהְפֹּקֵד—in the Participle, מַפְקֵד for מְהַפְקֵד—in the Participle of Hophal, מִפְקֵד for מְהַפְקֵד. The same may be observed of the other conjugations; and, in Hithpahel, it may happen that neither of its characteristic letters (הָת) should appear, as in the following example;—וּמֵה־נִּצַּטְדָּק uma nitztdak, “or how shall we clear ourselves,” Gen. xlv. 16, where ה, the first formative of the conjugation is excluded by נ, the formative of the first person plural of the future; and ת, the second formative, is transposed and changed into ט.

These observations will be more clearly perceived, and the several conjugations more easily distinguished from each other, by the following Table of Moods and Tenses :

Pihel פִּקֵּד	אֶפְקֹד	פִּקֵּד	פִּקֵּד	מִפְקֵד
Puhal פִּקֵּד	אֶפְקֹד		פִּקֵּד	פִּקֵּד	מִפְקֵד
Hiph. הִפְקִיד	אֶפְקֹד	הִפְקִיד	הִפְקִיד	מִפְקִיד
Hoph. הִפְקָד	אֶפְקֹד		הִפְקָד		מִפְקָד
Hithp. הִתְפַּקֵּד	אֶתְפַּקֵּד	הִתְפַּקֵּד	הִתְפַּקֵּד	מִתְפַּקֵּד

From this Table it appears at first view, that the passive verbs Puhal and Hophal want the imperative; that Hophal wants also the participle present; and that all the conjugations, except Kal, Puhal, and Hophal, want the participle past.

In the präter tense the following affixes occur, derived from the personal pronouns :

From	היא	את	את	אני	הם	אתם	אתן	אנחנו
Are derived	ה	ת	ת	תי	ה	תם	תן	נו
Signifying	she,	thou,	thou, f.	I,	they,	ye, m.	ye, f.	we.

In the future tense the following prefixes occur, derived from the same source, viz. :

From	אני	אתה	את	הוא	היא	אנחנו	אתם	אתן	הם	הן
Are derived	א	ת	ת	,	ת	נ	ת	ת	,	ת
Signifying	I,	thou, m.	thou, f.	he,	she,	we,	ye, m.	ye, f.	they, m.	they f.

We shall now give all the Conjugations, severally and complete, with observations on each, making use of the common example פָּקַד, according to which all regular verbs are conjugated.

Obs.—פָּקַד signifies, not only, to visit, but also to review, muster, reckon, &c., and hence, in Hithpahel, to present oneself upon a review, to be reviewed or numbered: for the sake of uniformity, however, and to exemplify the general import of the conjugations, it is translated, in the paradigm of Hithpahel, he visited himself.

CHAPTER VII.

OF THE VARIOUS KINDS OF VERBS, WITH SOME PARTICULAR OBSERVATIONS UPON EACH.

IRREGULAR or IMPERFECT Verbs are those which consist of three radicals, of which any one may happen to be quiescent, omitted, or changed in declension.

Quiescents are those	{	whose first radical is	א, as	אָבַד	He perished.
		or	י, as	יָשַׁב	He sat.
	{	whose second radical is	ר, as	קָם	To arise.
		or	י, as	בִּין	To consider.
	{	whose third radical is	א, as	מָצָא	He found.
		or	ה, as	גָּלָה	He revealed.

Obs.—These are quiescent only in the letters אֶהְיֶה ehevi.

Defectives are those	{	whose first radical is	נ, as	נָגַשׁ	He drew near.
		or whose second and third are the same letter,	as	סָבַב	He surrounded.
		or whose third radical is	נ, as	נָתַן	He gave.
		or	ת, as	פָּרַת	He cut off.

These kinds of verbs are reckoned irregular; all the rest are regular.

SECTION I.—Of regular Verbs.

Regular Verbs are formed like לָמַד;^a but לָקַח he took, is formed like כָּנַשׁ, (Sect. VII.)

SECTION II.—Of Quiescents whose first Radical Letter is א.

1. In the first singular of the future of kal^b the radical א is dropped, lest two alephs should come together; as אֶבֶד for אֶאֱבֶד I shall utterly perish.

2. These five, אָבַד he perished, אָבָה he was willing, אָכַל he did eat, אָמַר he said, אָפַק he baked, form the future of kal, thus:

אָמַר (-) תֹּאמַר תֹּאמְרִי יֹאמֵר תֹּאמְרִי תֹאמְרִי תֹאמְרִי
Sometimes אָהַב he loved, אָחַז he possessed, and אָסַף he gathered, are formed thus: sometimes like לָמַד.

As the irregularity is small, there is no paradigm given.

SECTION III.—Of Quiescents whose first Radical Letter is י.

The paradigm יָשַׁב he sat, exhibits the formation of these verbs,^c except in the following cases:

^a The points are not exactly the same in all verbs, the vowels, which in the abstracts are put before the word, are in some verbs the alternative for the first vowel of the paradigm; those that stand after the words, for the latter.

^b And also of Pihel, when preceded by Sheva.

^c The grave conjugations are regular.

1. יָכַל he was able, requires ׀ in the future of kal, as אֹכַל I shall be able, &c., and some in hiphil have ׀ instead of ׀.

2. If the last radical be ץ, the infinitive of kal has two patachs, as דַּעַת to know: if it be נ, the two segols are contracted into tzere, as צֵאת to go out.

3. These four, יָדָה he threw, יָדַע he knew, יָבַח he argued, יָסַר he bound or chastened, in hithpahel change ׀ into ׀, as הִתְיַדָה.

These nine (of which six have ץ for their next radical^a) are formed like נָגַשׁ (see Section VII.) יָנַח he left, יָסַר he bound, יָקַף he compassed about, יָצַב and יָצַג he placed, יָצַע he spread, יָצַק he poured, יָצַר he formed, יָצַת he burned.

SECTION IV.—Of Quiescents whose second Radical Letter is ׀ or ׀.

Of these קוּם to arise, is the paradigm; but,

1. Some of these in the grave conjugations double the first and third radicals, as כּוּל to take, contain, makes כִּלְכֵּל.

2. מוּת to die, in the preterite and benoni of kal makes מָת.

^a They are all the verbs which begin with ׀ and have ץ for the radical, except יָצַח he went out.

3. בּוֹשׁ to be ashamed, in the future of kal has (..) under the preformants, like יִבֹּשׁ; as יִבּוֹשׁ, &c.

4. Quiescents in י often omit the preformant ה in the imperative of hiphil, as בִּין consider, for הִבִּין.

5. The ך or י in some verbs is not quiescent, but they are formed like לָמַד, as שָׁוַע he cried.

SECTION V.—Of Quiescents whose third Radical Letter is נ.

The third sing. fem. sometimes ends in ת instead of ה, as מִצָּאתָ instead of מִצָּאתְהָ, and sometimes the נ is omitted; in other respects, all these verbs are formed like מִצָּא he found.

SECTION VI.—Of Quiescents whose third Radical Letter is ה.

In general they are formed like גִּלָּה to reveal: but,

1. Some are formed like לָמַד, i. e. neither lose nor change ה.

2. Some double the two first radicals in the grave conjugations; as שָׁעַשַׁע, from שָׁעָה he delighted.

3. שָׁחָה he bowed, and שָׁלָה he was quiet, in some tenses change ה into ו, as שָׁלַחְתִּי I was quiet, הִשְׁתַּחֲוּוּ they bowed themselves.

4. Verbs that end in ה, generally lose it by apocope, when they are joined in the imperative of Pihel, Hi- phil, or Hithpahel, with אֵל, a particle of denying ; or in any future with ו, conversivum futuri. (Vide Chap. IX. No. 4.)

On this account, sometimes the preceding vowel is excluded, as וַיַּעַשׂ and he made, for וַיַּעֲשֶׂה ; sometimes it is transposed to the first radical, as וַיִּבֶן he built, for וַיְבַנֶּה ; and sometimes the preformants have (·), as וַיִּבֶךְ he wept, for וַיְבַכֶּה.

Some in Hiphil have two segols, as וַיַּפֵּר he made fruitful, for וַיְפַרֶּה ; if the first radical be a guttural, two patachs, as וַיַּעֲלֶה he made to ascend, for וַיַּעֲלֶה ; or if the second be a guttural, a segol and patach, as וַיִּתְּחַל suffer not to be destroyed, for וַיִּתְּחַלֶּה.

הָיָה he was, and חָיָה he lived, with ו conversive and sometimes without it, form the future of kal, thus :

SECTION VII.—Of Defectives whose first Radical is ג.

These are all formed like the paradigm נִגַּשׁ he drew near, except, 1. Those which have ו for the second radical, which are formed like קִים (Sect. IV.) as נִוּם he fled ; 2. Those that have ח or ע for the third radical, which have two patachs instead of two segols, in the infinitive of kal ; as נִפַּח to blow, from נִפַּח ; and נִטַּע to plant, from נִטַּע.

N.B.—נָתַן he gave, makes the infinitive נָתַת, with an affix תַּת, as תַּתִּי to give me.

SECTION VIII.—Of Defectives whose second and third Radical are the same Letter.

Some of these in the grave conjugations double the two first radicals, as גָּלַל from גָּלַל he rolled; all the rest are formed after the paradigm סָבַב he surrounded.

SECTION IX.—Of Defectives whose third Radical is נ or ת.

These lose the last radical in a dagesh before the affirmants נ or ת, as נָתַתִּי I gave, for נָתַתִּי; כָּרַתִּי I cut, for כָּרַתִּי. As they are in other respects regular, no paradigm is wanted.

SECTION X.—Of Verbs which have two Defects or Irregularities.

Some verbs are doubly defective, viz., first, such as begin with נ, and have the second and third radicals the same, as נָדַד to wander. Secondly, such as begin with נ, and end with נ or ת, as נָגַן to play upon a musical instrument, נָחַת to descend, &c.

Of this latter class the most remarkable is נָתַן he gave, a verb of frequent occurrence and special irregularity, as it drops its final נ, not only before the terminations נו and נה, but also before תַּת, תִּי, תֶּם, תֵּי, and תֵּן compensating the defect by dagesh forte in these terminations. The preterite of kal, therefore, runs thus, בָּתַן, בָּתַנְה, בָּתַתְּ, בָּתַתִּי, בָּתַנּוּ, בָּתַנְתֶּם, בָּתַתֶּן, בָּתַתְּהוּ; the infinitive of kal makes בָּתַת (for בָּתַתְתָּ); the imperative בָּתַן or בָּתַנְה, fem. בָּתַנִּי, plur. בָּתַנּוּ, fem. בָּתַנְהוּ; and the future of kal, יָבִיתִן, יָבִיתֶנּוּ, יָבִיתִי, יָבִיתֶם, יָבִיתוּ, יָבִיתְהוּ: the future, like the imperative, may also end in segol, as יָבִיתִן, יָבִיתְהוּ, יָבִיתוּ, יָבִיתְהוּ, &c., but the participles בֹּתֵן and בֹּתִין are regular: the preterite of niph'al makes בָּתַן, בָּתַנְה, בָּתַתְּ, בָּתַתִּי, בָּתַנּוּ, בָּתַנְתֶּם, בָּתַתֶּן, בָּתַתְּהוּ; the participle makes בָּתַן, &c., but the rest of Niph'al is regular, as infinitive and imperative הִבָּתֵן, future יִבָּתֵן, &c. This verb is not used in the other conjugations, except in a few instances in hoph'al, as יִתֵּן he shall be given.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF AFFIXES TO VERBS.

AFFIXES to verbs signify the patient, i. e. the thing or person acted upon; except to an infinitive mood, which may signify either the agent or patient. Besides the affixes to nouns, there are some peculiar to verbs, as appears by the following Table :

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
אֲנִי Me, ^a com.	אֲנֵנוּ Us, com.
אַתָּה Thee, m.	אַתֶּם You, m.
אַתְּ Thee, f.	אַתֶּן You, f.
הוּא or הִוא Him, ^b m.	הֵם or הֵנּוּ Them, ^d m.
הִיא Her, ^c f.	הֵנָּה Them, f.

When these pronominal particles are affixed to verbs a change takes place in the vowel points, viz.

FIRST.—Kamets of the first radical is changed into sheva ; and pathach of the second radical into kamets, in the third person of the PRETERITE and in the imperative and future ; thus פָּקַד becomes פִּקְדֹּ, as in the following Table :

^a The accusative sing. of the first pers. אֲנִי, drops the א in verbs infinitive, and becomes אֲנִי.

^b The third masculine sing. admits of a paragogic ה or נ in many instances, and the ה pronominal is changed into הוּא, הֵנּוּ, הֵנָּה and הֵם, but the latter rarely happens.

^c The feminine ה admits נ paragogic, and is formed with kametz, as נִהָ.

^d The pronoun הֵם in poetical language is often changed into הֵנּוּ.

פָּקְדֶךָ		thee, m.	פָּקְדֶכֶם		you, m.
פָּקְדֶיךָ		thee, f.	פָּקְדֶכֶן		you, f.
פָּקְדֶהָ		her.	פָּקְדֶם		them, m.
פָּקְדֶהוּ		him.	פָּקְדֶמוּ		them, m.
פָּקְדוּ		him.	פָּקְדוּ		them, f.

Obs.—Before פָּקְדֵם and פָּקְדֵן (-) continues unchanged.

SECONDLY.—Cholem of the FUTURE is changed into sheva, except before פָּקְדֵם and פָּקְדֵן, where it is shortened into kamets-chateph; as in the following examples, from יִפְקֹד he shall visit, viz.—

יִפְקְדֵנִי	He shall visit	me.	יִפְקְדֶהָ	He shall visit	her.
יִפְקְדֶךָ		thee, m.	יִפְקְדֶנִי		us.
יִפְקְדֶיךָ		thee, f.	יִפְקְדֶכֶם		you, m.
יִפְקְדוּ		him.	יִפְקְדֶכֶן		you, f.
יִפְקְדֶהוּ		him.	יִפְקְדֶם		them, m.
יִפְקְדֶנִי		him.	יִפְקְדֶמוּ		them, m.
יִפְקְדֶהָ		her.	יִפְקְדוּ		them, f.
יִפְקְדֶהָ		her.

Obs.—יִפְקְדֶהָ, יִפְקְדֶנִי, and יִפְקְדֶכֶם are suffixed in the same manner as the third person sing. יִפְקֹד, but when the final vowel is (-) as in אֶלְבַּשׁ, it is lengthened into (ֹ) as אֶלְבַּשְׁנָה I will clothe her, &c.

THIRDLY.—The infinitive פָּקֹד pekod, shortens cholem into kamets-chateph, and then transposes the vowels, by which it becomes פָּקַד pokd, as in the following examples, viz.

פָּקַדְנִי		me.	פָּקַדְתָּהּ		her.
פָּקַדְךָ		thee, m.	פָּקַדְנוּ		us.
פָּקַדְתָּ		thee, f.	פָּקַדְתֶּם		you, m.
פָּקַדְוֹ		him.	פָּקַדְכֶן		you, f.
פָּקַדְהוּ		him.	פָּקַדְם		them, m.
פָּקַדְנוּ		him.	פָּקַדְמוּ		them, m.
פָּקַדְהָ		her.	פָּקַדְוּ		them, f.

Obs.—Though פָּקַדִּי pokdi, may signify either the agent or the object of the action, as my visiting, or to visit me, yet the latter is more frequently expressed by פָּקַדְנִי; the same may be observed of פָּקַדְוֹ his visiting, or to visit him, but the latter is more frequently expressed by פָּקַדְהוּ or פָּקַדְנוּ. The same may be observed of the feminine forms; but all the other examples having no second forms, admit of both translations.

FOURTHLY.—The participles take the suffixes in the same manner as nouns, as from פֹּקֵד visiting, comes פֹּקֵדִי one visiting me, or my visitor, &c.

Many other, though less frequent changes, are made in verbs on account of affixes, and they are joined to different tenses by different vowels, as may be seen in the example at the end of the paradigms.

CHAPTER IX.

OF THE PREFIXES מֵשֶׁה וְכֵלֵב.

1. MEM, מ, prefixed to nouns, signifies מִן from, out of, as מִבֵּית from a house, מִקְדָּם from the east, מִמַּעַמְקִים out of the depths. It is prefixed by chirek with dagesh, except before ה, ה, ח, ע, and ר, when it has tzere, as אֲדֹנִי the Lord, מֵאֲדֹנִי from the Lord.

When מ is prefixed to a noun following an adjective, it has the comparative sense, מְתוּק מִדְּבַשׁ sweeter than honey.

2. ׀ is the substitute for the relative אֲשֶׁר who, which, that, and is mostly prefixed by segol and dagesh, as אֲשֶׁם which also, אֲעֲשׂוּ which they did.

3. ה is the Hebrew article emphatic to nouns, as הַשָּׁמַיִם the heavens, הַמֶּלֶךְ the king, and is prefixed by patach and dagesh.

Before a participle it has the sense of אֲשֶׁר who, which, that, as הַלּוֹמֵד he that learneth, הַהֹלְכִים they that walk.

Before ה, ה, ח, ע, and ר, it is prefixed by kametz, as הָאִישׁ the man, הָרָשָׁעִים the wicked; unless kametz follows it, and then it is prefixed by segol, as הַחָכָם the wise man.

The interrogative ה is prefixed by (·), as הֵי־שׁ is it? If the first letter of the word is a guttural with kametz, ה takes (·), as הֵאָפַס has he failed? If the guttural has any other vowel than (·), or if the first vowel is (·), the ה takes (-), as הֵם they? If any of the letters בֿ לֿב are inserted after it, the interrogative ה is prefixed, like the emphatic by, (-) and dagesh: as בֵּן a son, לֵבֵן to a son, הַלֵּבֵן to a son?

4. ׀ may be translated and, but, notwithstanding, or, even so, seeing that.

׀ is regularly prefixed by (:), as וְדֶרֶךְ and a way; if a labial (בּוֹמֶה) or sheva follows, by shurek, as וּמִי־שֵׁב and a seat; if a pause, by (·), as וְדֶרֶךְ, especially when it joins two words of nearly the same signification, as עֲנִי וְרָשׁ afflicted and poor.

׀ sometimes changes the preterite, as to its signification, into the future, and is called conversivum preteriti.^a ׀ conv. pret. is prefixed as the conjunction, but

^a On the conversive power of vau the following Rules have been given.

RULE I.—׀ prefixed to future tenses, converts them to perfect tenses; and when prefixed to verbs in the perfect tense, it regularly converts them to the future tense.

RULE II.—When ׀ is prefixed to a verb, which immediately may often be distinguished from it by its throwing the accent to the last syllable, as לָמַדְתָּ thou hast learned, וְלָמַדְתָּ thou wilt learn, or, and thou wilt learn.^a

ו sometimes changes the future in signification, into a preterite ; it is thence called conversivum futuri, and is prefixed by patach and dagesh, as יִלְמֹד he will learn, וַיִּלְמֹד he learned.^b follows another verb of the same tense, without a prefixed ו, and in the same sentence, the ו, in that case, is merely conjunctive.

RULE III.—A prefixed ו does not affect or convert any verb in the imperative mood. 2. Nor any verb, or verbs, in the future tense, which follow an imperative mood in the same sentence. 3. But to perfect tenses the prefixed ו is conversive without hindrance from the preceding imperative mood.

RULE IV.—After an interrogation either of the emphatical ה or of the interrogatory relative מי or מה, the prefixed ו doth not influence any verb or verbs of the future tense, or the present tense ; but in perfect tenses, the ו is regularly conversive, and is not influenced by a preceding interrogation.

RULE V.—If a future tense, put for a preterperfect tense, with ו prefixed, precede a preter tense, having also a prefixed ו, the ו in the latter is merely copulative.—See three Tracts on the Syntax, &c., of the Hebrew Tongue, by G. Sharpe, Esq.

^a The vau conversive is sometimes also a copulative, sometimes only conversive.

^b The particle הֵן then, before a future, has often a conversive use, as הֵן יִדְבַּר then he spake.

N.B.—ו conversivum fut. often changes the long vowel of the

The following canon on vau conversive is laid down by Philip Gell, A.M., in his Observations on the Idiom of the Hebrew Language :—

“ When two or more verbs are connected in Hebrew, the governing or leading verb expresses the absolute and general time to be understood throughout the series; and the subordinate verbs are, in this respect, elliptical; that is, they have the temporal power of the governing verb, by ideal communication implied in them, but relative time, or some other additional meaning, is generally expressed by their own proper power; and sometimes the modal or personal power of a governing verb is also understood in them.”

To illustrate what has been said by an example. In the beginning of the first chapter of Genesis, the first verb בָּרָא he created, is the governing verb of the major series, the time of which is to be understood to all the subordinates of the major series of the narration, throughout the chapter; which, as the governing verb is in the past tense, must be all translated in the same tense: the verb הָיְתָה, therefore, having no proper tense of its own, as being a subordinate preterite, receives its tense from בָּרָא, and must be translated was ;

last syllable into a short one, as וַיָּשָׁב for וַיֵּשֶׁב he made to return, וַיָּקָם for וַיֵּקָם he arose.

the dependence being pointed out by a vau prefixed to וְהָאָרֶץ. The next subordinate verb, was, is not expressed, but understood after וְחָשַׁךְ, and derives its past signification from הָיְתָה, already mentioned. From this non-expressed verb the tense passes on to the next subordinate, viz.—מִרְחֶפֶת, which is a subordinate present, and must be translated, (was,) causing a motion : from this the next subordinate, viz.—וַיֹּאמֶר and he said, which is a subordinate future, receives the past tense of the governing verb ; but indicates, by its own future sign, that the saying, though past, was subsequent to the time expressed by מִרְחֶפֶת. Here the series suffers an interruption, from the speech יְהִי אוֹר let there be light ; the verb of which has no connexion either with those preceding, or those following. The series is resumed with the next verb וַיְהִי, a subordinate future, indicating an event subsequent to that of the verb next preceding in the same series, viz.—to וַיֹּאמֶר ; from which also it receives the governing past tense, and, consequently, is to be translated, and there was. The narration then proceeds with the subordinate futures וַיִּרְא, וַיִּבְרָא, &c., each indicating successive subsequence, which might be expressed by the word then : thus, and then God saw, and then God divided, &c.

This example, besides illustrating the principle, shows, that an intervening speech or sentence, though it may interrupt, does yet by no means destroy the connexion of a series of narration; and of consequence, that a verb, with vau prefixed, following in the narration after the intervening speech or sentence, receives a communicated temporal power from a verb in the narration preceding the speech or sentence, as if it had never been interrupted.^a

5. כּ or כְּמוֹ signifies as, like, according to, about, and is prefixed by sheva; כְּמוֹעַל as a ruler, כְּמֹשֶׁה like Moses, כְּלִבִּי according to my heart.

6. ל is rendered to, unto, in, of, for, &c., and is prefixed by sheva, as לְיִשְׂרָאֵל to Israel, לְמֶלֶךְ to, of, for, the king. If the word be a monosyllable, or if the two next syllables be of equal quantity, it is prefixed by kametz, as לְעָם to a people, לְבָטָח in hope.

7. ב prefixed to nouns signifies in, by, with, on, upon, among, &c., as בְּבֵיתוֹ in his house, בְּאֶרֶץ in, on, upon the earth, בְּנָשִׁים among women.

8. The letters כלב exclude ה emphatic, and take its points, as מוֹץ chaff, כְּמוֹץ for כְּהֶמוֹץ like chaff, כְּהָאִישׁ for כְּהָאִישׁ like that man.

9. The letters וכלב before אֱלֹהִים God, have (·); before יהוה Jehovah, and אֲדֹנָי Lord, they have (-); and the first letters of these words, for the most part, lose their proper vowels, as וַיֹּאדְהִים, וַיֹּאדְנִי, וַיִּהְיֶה, &c.

N.B.—The letters בבלם are prefixed to verbs infinitive, when they form the Hebrew gerunds, as בְּלִמְדִי when I have learned, Ps. cxix. 7, מִשְׁמַעַב (ab audiendo) from hearing, &c.

CHAPTER X.

OF THE CHANGE OF VOWELS.

1. The vowels are often changed when a word increases at the end.

In this case the vowels of the ultimate and penultimate syllables are commonly exchanged for shorter. The following are general rules; the exceptions, though many, are too trifling to be mentioned.

1. (τ) penultimate, in every increase and regimen, is changed into sheva, דָּבַרְוּ, דָּבַרְוּ, or into compound sheva under a guttural, which admits simple sheva only when quiescent; (τ) antepenultimate in verbs is changed in the same manner, לִמְדַּתִּי, לִמְדַּתִּי.

(τ) ultimate, in regimen and before the grave affixes, is changed into (-), as דָּבַר יְהוָה; תּוֹרַתְכֶם from תּוֹרָה.

2. (·) penultimate, in every increase and regimen, is contracted into (:), as מִסָּבִים from מִסָּב a circuit.

3. י penultimate, followed by (-) or (·), is sometimes changed to (:), but commonly into (τ) chateph, as being of a similar sound, as אָזְנוֹךְ thy ear, from אָזֶן.

4. (-) penultimate, if another patach follows, is in every increase changed into sheva, as שַׁעַר a gate, pl. שַׁעֲרִים.

Patach ultimate, in declining a noun, is changed into kametz, as שַׁעֲרִים, and on account of the affixes, into sheva, as רִבְעִי, רִבְעָה. In verbs that have ה paragogic, patach final is changed into sheva; and in those that have an affix into kametz, as הִלְמְדָה from הִלְמַד הִלְמְדִי from לְמַד.

5. Segol penultimate, in every increase, passes into sheva, as פִּלְגַּי a river, פִּלְגִּים.

Segol ultimate, in forming the dual or plural number is changed into kametz, as פִּלְגִּים; on account of an affix or a local ה, into sheva, as אֶרְצִי and אֶרְצָה from אֶרֶץ. (See the next rule.)

II. Some alterations of the points are occasioned by simple or compound sheva.

1. If two shevas should come together in the beginning, or after a complete syllable in the middle of a word, the former is changed into patach, segol, or chirek. (See אֶרְצִי in the last rule.)

N.B.—A consonant and long vowel, or a short vowel between two consonants, the latter of which has a dagesh or sheva, make a complete syllable.

2. In those cases in which other letters would have a simple sheva, the gutturals take a compound one.

3. A compound sheva generally causes the preceding letter to have that vowel with which it is compounded: for instance, chateph-patach gives the preceding a patach; chateph-segol, gives a segol; and chateph-kametz, a kametz.

4. Sometimes a compound sheva, in this case, loses the vowel, and becomes a simple sheva.

Thus, הִתְהַוָּה he meditated, in third sing. m. fut. kal, regularly makes יִתְהַוָּה; but by rule second יִתְהַוָּה, by rule third יִתְהַוָּה, and by rule fourth יִתְהַוָּה.

5. If a simple sheva follows a compound, the compound either drops the sheva, or the vowel with which it is compounded, as מַעֲשֶׂה thy work, from מַעֲשֶׂה, and נֶהְפְּכוּ for נֶהְפְּכוּ from נֶהְפְּךָ he was turned.

6. The gutturals will not allow chateph-patach before them, but change it into patach.

III. The points are altered on account of the gutturals.

As the gutturals and ך will not admit dagesh, they compensate the want of it by changing the preceding vowel into a long one : patach into kametz, chirek or segol into tzere, and kibbutz or kametz-chateph into ם or ם, as מִהְמוֹן from a multitude, for מִהְמוֹן. This compensation is sometimes omitted.

IV. The accents cause some alterations in the points.

1. לִי, בִּי, &c., become לִי, בִּי, &c., on account of the pauses, silluk, athnac, &c.

2. The pauses change a short vowel into a long one, or one long vowel for another of a fuller sound, as אֶתְפַּלֵּל for אֶתְפַּלֵּל, Ps. v. 3.

3. Sometimes the other accents do the same.

V. Maccaph

Commonly changes a long vowel of the former word into its correspondent short one : kametz into patach, tzere into chirek, ם or ם into kibbutz or kametz-chateph.

VI. To improve the sound,

A long vowel is sometimes changed into a short one, a short into a long one, and one long or short for another.

CHAPTER XI.

OF IRREGULARITIES IN SYNTAX.

1. NOUNS that signify dominion, and particularly the names of God, though plural, may be put in apposition with singular substantives, as הָאִישׁ אֲדֹנֵי הָאָרֶץ the man, the lords (lord) of the land; or they may be joined to a singular adjective, as אֲדֹנִים קָשָׁה a cruel lords (lord).

2. Numerals from one to ten of the singular number, frequently take plural substantives, thus אַלֶּף אַנְשִׁים a thousand men; other numerals, even when plural, take singular nouns, as עֶשְׂרִים שָׁנָה twenty years.^a

The cardinals, from three to ten, which have a

^a Most numeral adjectives may be placed before or after their substantives: but in all other cases the substantive stands before the adjective. If the adjective precedes the substantive, there is an ellipsis of the verb to be; as טוֹבָה חִכְמָה good (is) wisdom, i. e. wisdom is good; זֹאת מְנוּחָה this (is) rest.

masculine termination, are used to feminine nouns, and the contrary, as שְׁלֹשׁ שָׁנִים three years, שְׁלֹשׁ יָמִים three days.

3. When two substantives are in regimen, the adjective or the verb which in sense belongs to one, sometimes agrees with the other in number and gender, as קִשְׁתַּת גִּבּוֹרִים חֲתִים the bow of the mighty men are broken; קוֹל דְּמֵי אֶחָיְךָ צוֹעֵקִים the voice of thy brother's bloods do cry.

4. An adjective singular joined to a plural substantive, a verb singular to a nominative plural, or a verb plural to a nominative singular, has a distributive signification, as יָשָׁר מִשְׁפָּטֶיךָ thy judgments are right, i. e. each of them is right.

5. Sometimes a nominative feminine has a masculine verb, which is thought to express excellency; and a masculine noun, a feminine verb, to express the contrary, as עָשִׂיתִן תּוֹעֵבָה ye (fem. though spoken of men) have done abomination. Ezek. xxxiii. 26.

6. The pronouns are often redundant. Sometimes both the separable pronoun and the affix are used for the same person; thus, Numbers xiv. 32. פְּגִרְיֶכֶם אֲנִים your carcasses you, &c. Sometimes the relative and personal pronoun; thus לְקַדוֹשִׁים אֲשֶׁר בָּאָרֶץ הַזֶּה to the saints that are in the earth, they, &c., in Psalm xvi. 3.

CHAPTER XII.

OF FINDING THE ROOT.

AN accurate acquaintance with the formation of nouns and verbs, will generally discover the root.—The chief difficulty is in regard to nouns, which are not ranged in the Lexicon in their places, according to the alphabet, as Latin and Greek nouns commonly are, but under their several roots.

The following remarks may be useful :—

1. If when the prefixes, affixes, heemantic, and paragogic letters, signs of the gender, number, &c., are rejected, three letters remain, they commonly contain the root.

2. If only two letters remain, the root is some kind of defective verb, and may be found by prefixing י or כ, inserting י or כ, doubling the last letter, or adding ה to the end.

In many cases it is not easy to see which of these methods is to be taken ; and till a person has some good acquaintance with the language, he may be forced to try several of them ; yet the following observations will in many cases assist him :—

If a noun begins with a heemantic letter, and the first radical has a dagesh, its root commonly begins with נ, as מִטָּה a bed, from נָטָה; sometimes with י, (because some of these are like the others. See Chap. VII. Sect. 3, No. 4.) as מִצֵּבָה a statue, from יָצַב.

The roots of most of the nouns which begin with מו or תו begin with י, as תוֹרָה a law, from יָרָה, and מוֹשֵׁב a seat, from יָשַׁב.

Many nouns which have a long vowel under the first radical letter, spring from verbs whose second radical is ו or י, or whose third is ה, especially if the long vowel continues, though some addition is made to the word, as קָמָה, from קוּם. But nouns which have a short vowel under the first radical, or upon having any addition at the end, admit dagesh in the second radical, commonly have for their root a verb which doubles the second radical, as מִסָּב a circuit, from סָבַב; מִלָּה a discourse, from מָלַל to articulate. But אַנְּף anger, (אָפִי &c.) comes from אָנַף, not אִנְּף.

Nouns which end in י or ון are commonly derived from verbs that end in ה, as חֲזוֹן a vision, from חָזָה; פֵּרוֹת fruit, from פָּרָה.^a

^a N.B.—When words of this form admit affixes, they are commonly changed; thus, פְּרִיֹה his fruit.

3. Sometimes only one radical letter remains; the root of such will commonly be found by putting נ to the beginning, and ה to the end, as מִטָּה thy rod, from נִמְה.

4. In the investigation of the roots, the chief difficulty arises from the manner in which the words are placed in our Hebrew Lexicons; for, these do not contain the nouns and other parts of speech in alphabetic order, but the Roots or primitive words only, which are printed in large characters; and to each of the roots they subjoin its derivatives in small characters; so that the student must first find the root before he can discover the meaning of the word derived from it: to be enabled to do so, he should be well acquainted with the principles of his grammar—particularly the formation of the verbs, both regular and irregular. He should also be careful to distinguish the servile letters from the radical, and such serviles as are sometimes radical, from those that are not so: for this purpose Buxtorf has made the following observations:—

The four servile letters שׁ א ב ל are always radical in the middle or end of words, but may, or may not, be so in the beginning.

The four servile מ נ כ ה are usually radical in the middle, but may, or may not be so in the beginning or end.

The remaining three תִּנִּי may be radical or servile either in the beginning, middle, or end.

These three technical words, Shabhal, Menocha, Tavi, comprehend the eleven servile letters, usually distinguished, for memory's sake, by the words Ethan, Mosche, Ve-Chaleb.

Explanation of the following Tables.

Table I. exhibits the radical and heemantic forms of nouns, with the various application of the heemantic letters to the root, according to the analogy of the language. (See Chapters III. and XII. of the Grammar.) All nouns derived from perfect roots are reducible to one or more of the forms of סִפֵּר ex. gr. מִמְלִכָה מְלוּכָה מְלֻכָה מֶלֶךְ, where, by changing the radicals, מֶלֶךְ becomes סִפֵּר; hence, סְפֹרָה סִפְרָה, מְסַפֵּר, &c., as in the Table. The seven letters הֵאֱמַנְתִּי called heemantiv, produce these seven orders of nouns. Those of imperfect derivation, or such as drop an initial, medial, or final radical, are represented in the lower part of the Table.

Tables II. and III. show the cases of nouns at large, with or without the pronominal affixes, and are now first arranged in order and manner similar to the conjugations of the verbs. (See Chap. IX. of the Grammar.)

Tables IV. V. VI. delineate the cases, &c. of the pronouns and some particles, after the same method as in Tables II. and III., and sufficiently explain themselves.

N.B.—1. It may be a very profitable exercise for the learner, frequently to read over and translate into English or Latin the columns in the following Tables and Paradigms, and an exchange of the noun or verb will afford agreeable variety in the exercise.

2. In parsing a verb, first consider what conjugation, tense, and person it is, and what kind of verb; form the proper paradigm into that conjugation, tense, and person, as above; then change the radicals of the paradigm into those of the verb in question. For instance, הִלֵּךְ is first sing. of fut. hithpahel, from הִלֵּךְ he walked, like לָמַד , which forms its future tenses thus:—

$\text{אֶלְמֹד} \quad \text{אֶלְמִיד} \quad \text{אֶלְמִיד} \quad \text{אֶלְמִיד} \quad \text{אֶלְמִיד} \quad \text{אֶלְמִיד}$

APPENDIX

ON THE ACCENTS,

FROM THE GRAMMAR OF THE HEBREW LANGUAGE, BY MOSES STUART, PROFESSOR OF SACRED LITERATURE AT ANDOVER.

BESIDES Metheg, Mappik, &c., the other smaller marks of various forms accompanying the Hebrew text are accents. They are usually called tonic, to distinguish them from Metheg, the Euphonic accent. They are divided into two great classes, viz., (a) such as separate words, or parts of sentences, from each other, which are called DISJUNCTIVES; (b) such as serve to show that words are to be closely connected, either in the reading or in the sense, which are called CONJUNCTIVES.

The following Table exhibits the forms, names, and classification of the accents. Some are used both in poetry and prose; and such have no mark prefixed. Others are peculiar to prose, and these have (†) prefixed. Others are peculiar to poetry, and these have (*) prefixed. Poetry means (according to the accentu-ators) only the books of Job, Psalms, and Proverbs, called technically אֱמֶת (truth), these being the three initials of the Hebrew names of these books.

(Observe, that the parallel blank line within the parentheses, which stands next after the numbers, is intended to represent the line of Hebrew letters, that the position of the accents in relation to the letters over and under which they stand, may be exhibited.)

I.—DISJUNCTIVES.

I.—Pause Accents or Disjunctives of the first Class.

1. (; —) Silluq, סִלּוּק, i. e. stop, pause. In connexion with the two large points that always follow it, it is named פְּסוּק בְּסוּף פְּסוּק, pause at the end of a verse. Elsewhere the same mark stands for Methegh.

2. (—) Athnahh, אֲתַנַּח, i. e. a respiration.

II. Occasional Pause Accents, or Disjunctives of the second Class.

†4. (—) Tiphkha, טִפְחָה (posterior,) i. e. palm of the hand, so called from the shape. It is also named טַרְחָה, retardation, and (when next before Silluq

†6. (—) Zaqeph Qaton, זָקֶף קָטוֹן, elevator minor.

†7. (—"—) Zaqeph Gadhol זָקֶף גָּדוֹל, elevator major.

†8. (—"—) Segholta, סֶגְלוֹתָא, i. e. cluster of grapes; postpositive.

III.—Lesser Disjunctives, or Disjunctives of the third Class.

†9. (—) Tebhir, תִּבְחִיר, i. e. interruption.

10. (—) Rebhia, רִבִּיעַ, i. e. resting or lying over.

†12. (—"—) Pashta, פֶּשֶׁטָא, i. e. expansion (of the voice); postpositive.

13. (—"—) Zarqa, זָרְקָא, i. e. dispersion; postpositive. In poetry (when not postpositive) it is a mere conjunctive. See No. 31.

†14. (—"—) Yethibh, יְתִיב, i. e. sitting; præpositive. It is also called מִשְׁפָּל שֶׁפָּר tuba anterior, and שֶׁפָּר שֶׁפָּר tuba inferior.

†16. (—"—"—) Garshäyim, גֶּרֶשׁ שְׁנַיִם, i. e. double Geresh.

†17. (—^o) Telisha Gedhola, תְּלִישָׁה גְּדוּלָּה, i. e. evulsio major; also תַּרְסָא; præpositive.

†18. (—[∞]) Qarne Phara, קַרְנֵי פָּרָה, i. e. the two horns of a heifer, (from the shape.)

19. (—^v) Pazer, פִּזֵּר, i. e. disperser. Also פִּזֵּר גְּדוּלָּה.

20. (| |) Pesiq, פְּסִיק, i. e. cessation. Written in the line between words, and placed (as here) perpendicularly. Also called פְּסָקָא, separation. Always preceded by a conjunctive on the word after which it is placed.

II.—CONJUNCTIVES.

21. (—^j—) Munahh, i. e. joined. Also שֹׁפֵר יָשָׁר tuba recta, and שֹׁפֵר הֵלֶךְ tuba ambulans. In poetry, both superius and inferius. On an ultimate syllable, and followed by Athnahh, Zarqa, or Zaqeph Qaton, it is called עֲלִי, Illüy (Hillui), i. e. ascent. When placed at the beginning of a word, and followed by Zaqeph Qaton, it is named מְכַרְבֵּל Mekharbel, sieve, i. e. agitation (of the voice.)

22. (—[']) Qadhma, קִדְמָא, i. e. before.

23. (—) Merka, מֶרְכָּא (Apoc. form of מֵאַרְכָּא) i. e. prolonging. Also מֵרִיד, מֵאֲרִיד idem.

†24. (—) Merka Khephula, מֶרְכָּא כְּפֹלָה, i. e. Merka doubled. Also תֵּרִין חוּטֵרִין, two rods.

25. (—) Mahpakh, מַהֲפֵךְ, i. e. inversion. Also שֹׁפָר הִפּוּךְ, crooked trumpet, שֹׁפָר מְהֻפָּךְ, inverted trumpet. In poetry, superius or inferius; in prose, inferius.

26. (—) Shalsheth, שַׁלְשֵׁלֶת, i. e. chain.

†27. (—) Darga, דֶּרֶגָּא, steps, gradation.

†28. (—) Telisha Qetanna, תְּלִישָׁא קֶטְנָה, i. e. evulsio minor. Also תִּלְעָא (eradicator?) postpositive.

29. (—) Yerahh, יֶרַח (properly יָרַח, Yareach), i. e. the moon. Also יֶרַח בְּנֵי־יוֹמוֹ, the moon of a day old; עֵגֻלָּה, round; גִּלְגָּל, wheel.

*30. (—) Tiphkha (posterius) in poetry a conjunctive. Compare No. 4.

*31. (—) Zarqa, in poetry a conjunctive, when it is not postpositive. See No. 13.

The Accents are said to be subservient to three purposes; viz. 1. To mark the tone-syllable. 2. To serve as signs of interpunction. 3. To regulate the reading, or rather cantillating of the Scriptures.

1. To mark the tone-syllable (which is generally the last)^a is their general use ; but the cases of exception are very numerous.

a. Eight of them are always confined to the same position, let the tone be where it may ; e. g. Segholta, Pashta, Zarqa, (No. 13,) and Telisha Qetanna, must always be put over the last letter of a word, and are, therefore, called POSTPOSITIVE, while Tiphhha anterior, Yethibh, Telisha Gedhola, and Geresh in the composite accent Rebhia Geresh (No. 11,) belong only to the first letter of a word, and are, therefore, called PRÆ-POSITIVE. See the Table. Of course these accents sometimes fall in with the tone-syllable ; but oftentimes the reverse of this happens.

b. Many words have two accents on them. In this case, if both accents are of the same form, the first marks the tone ; e. g. תְּהוּ, with the tone on the penult. If the accents are of different forms, then the last (viz. that to the left) marks the tone syllable, i. e. if it belong to those accents which always mark the tone ; as, וְלִמְוֹעֲרִים, where לִים is acuted. Here is one conjunctive and one disjunctive upon the word, but sometimes there are two disjunctives, as קִרְבוּ, Lev. x. 4 ; and sometimes two even on the same monosyllable, as יְהִי.

^a For the several classes of words which have the tone on the PENULT vid. Stuart's Heb. Gr. sect. 100.

Gen. v. 29. Often, two conjunctives are put upon the same word, as הַיְיָ , Ps. xcvi. 1. All this shows an utter improbability that the accents were originally invented to mark the tone. It is much more probable that they served only to the cantillation or chanting of the Scriptures.

2. Accents mark in part the interpunction.

This is the use most commonly assigned to them as the principal one. In many cases, in fact, the accents accord well with the divisions of sense. In the poetical books the pause accents are useful in marking the end of $\sigmaτίχοι$; and they generally do this with accuracy. But in all parts of the Bible there is a multitude of cases, in which the accents make pauses in utter disagreement with the sense: e. g. in Gen. i. 1, we have אֵלֹהִים , i. e. a pause-accent (Athnakh) of the largest kind (like our colon) placed between a verb with its subject and the Acc. case which the verb governs; and so in many hundreds of instances. This shows that the use of accents by way of interpunction is only secondary.

3. Accents also mark the cantillation.

The Jews do not read, but cantillate their Scriptures, as the Moslems do their Koran. The accents direct this. The Koran too has marks for this purpose. This appears to me to have plainly been the original design of the accents, viz., to guide the recitative. Now as this was regulated, more or less, by the tones of words and by the sense of passage, so the accentuation usually accords with these objects. Still in a multitude of cases it has no direct reference to them, but merely to reading or cantillation.

N.B.—The proper place of an accent (neither præpositive nor postpositive) is over or under the left side of the letter which begins a syllable. The imperfection of types, however, sometimes prevents printed books from following this rule.

KERI AND KETHIBH.

There are about 1000 marginal readings in our common Hebrew Bibles, most of which are quite ancient. Some of them correct grammatical anomalies, some are euphemisms, and some propose a different word. They are probably the result of an ancient recension of Hebrew manuscripts. The marginal word is called קְרִי Kerī, which means read, i. e. this word is to be read instead of the word in the text to which it relates, and which is called כְּתִיב Kethibh, i. e. written or text. The vowel-points under the Kethibh belong to the Keri which is printed without points. If a word is omitted in the text, the vowel points stand in the place with a small circle over them, while the letters belonging to them are printed in the margin, as in Judg. xx. 13. This is called קְרִי וְלֹא כָתִיב read but not written. If a word is superfluous in the text, it is left unpointed, as in Ezek. xlviii. 16. This is called קְרִי כָתִיב וְלֹא written but not read.—Stuart's Grammar, § 103.

WORKS

MACHEN AND CO., 8, D'OLIER-STREET,
DUBLIN,

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

FOR THE USE OF SCHOOLS, THE FIRST SIX BOOKS OF VIRGIL'S ÆNEID,

(BEING THE PORTION READ FOR THE ENTRANCE COURSE OF TRINITY COLLEGE,)

WITH COPIOUS ENGLISH NOTES.

Selected by R. GALBRAITH, T. C. D.,

And a PROLOGOMENA, &c. &c., written expressly for the Work,

By HENRY OWGAN, Ex-Schol., &c., T. C. D.

The Text is printed from WAGNER'S EDITION OF HEYNE, which is considered the standard; the readings and punctuation (wherever there is a variance between those commentators) of HEYNE'S original edition being also preserved; THE NOTES, which are extremely COPIOUS, have been selected with the utmost care from HEYNE, WAGNER, DELPHIN, FORBIGER, &c. &c. &c. The GEOGRAPHY, HISTORY, CHRONOLOGY, MYTHOLOGY, and ANTIQUITIES are so fully explained, as to supersede to a great extent the necessity of reference to other books, translations, (not too literal,) or ordines verborum of the more difficult sentences given, and references uniformly made to those passages from HOMER and the other Greek and early Latin writers which have been imitated by VIRGIL. Numerous Quotations from the English Poets are also inserted, and no pains have been spared to render this Work adapted to the present advanced state of education.

KING'S (REV. L. W.)

IN GREEK AND ENGLISH;

Comprehending also the Principles and Definitions of Universal Grammar, with a copious Syntax, &c. &c. 12mo. bound, 2s. 6d.

LITERARY NOTICE FROM THE STANDARD.

"A Greek Grammar, recently published by the Rev. Dr. KING, of Ennis College, has been submitted for our consideration, and we are fully persuaded, not merely from our own private judgment, but also from the opinions of men more competent to form a correct view of such a publication, that it is a book likely to be extensively useful in our classical schools. There were two grammars generally employed hitherto, VALPY'S, and a book which goes under the name of WRIGHT'S; the former is certainly a valuable work, but is very deficient in some points, for instance the declension of nouns; it has also much extraneous matter, and is enormously dear: the latter is only a vile translation of Wettenhall's by an incompetent hand—full of errors, and deficient in clearness, arrangement, and the elucidation of principles. Now we do think that Dr. KING'S GRAMMAR contains almost every thing which is necessary for teaching the rudiments of Greek, without being burdened by a useless display of learning. The definitions are exceedingly clear and simple—the arrangement good—the illustrations of nouns and adjectives copious—the exact sense of tenses marked with much care, and the syntax full without being tedious, and correct without pedantry. In addition to its other qualities it has the important one of being cheap, and this, not from the small quantity of matter, but from the rejection of what is useless."

ETON LATIN GRAMMAR,

NEW EDITION,

By R. GALBRAITH, T. C. D.

12mo. bound, 1s. 6d.

In this edition of the Eton Grammar several inaccuracies of former editions are removed, some of the definitions amended, notes, carefully selected, have been added to the declensions, &c., and the text is so disposed as to present an entire declension, mood, tense, &c., on the same page. For the Latin rules of the Eton the syntax of Rudiman has been substituted, the conciseness and judicious arrangement of which have justly procured for it a decided preference.

HARVEY'S

CARPENTER'S PRONOUNCING SPELLING,

Containing, in addition to the original text, which is throughout revised, much new and important matter; among which will be found a LIST OF ENGLISH DERIVATIONS, a selection of GREEK and LATIN NOUNS, with their original plurals, and of LATIN and FRENCH PHRASES which are most frequently used by English writers, together with an extensive collection of ENGLISH SYNONYMS, explained in alphabetical order, with illustrations and examples from the most approved Authors, revised and improved by W. S. HARVEY. 12mo. bound, 1s.
